NC-4 HAS STARTED AGAIN FOR PLYMOUTH; GERMAN PLANS AFOOT FOR KAISER'S RETURN; WILSON CALLS LEAGUE A MANDATE OF OUR DEAD

SOLDIERS HEAR PRESIDENT

French and Americans Line Wilson's Way to Great Paris Ceremony.

SEES GUARANTEE IN LEAGUE

Covenant of Governments That the Millions Slain in War Did Not Die in Vain.

WORLD HAS A NEW SPIRIT

Clemenceau Sends Tribute Saying France Will Care for Our Graves as for Her Own.

PARIS, May 30.—In the American cemetery at Suresnes, near Paris, today, during the ceremony of paying tribute to the American dead on the occasion of Memorial Day, President Wilson made his first reference to the League of Nations since the covenant of the society, which will have as its object the prevention of future wars, was completed.

His words were delivered in the presence of thousands of American soldiers and many civilians and the official representatives of the French Government, including Marshal Foch.

Many distinguished members of allied officialdom, who had come to pay tribute to the American dead, also heard the President's words.

Bareheaded, in the glare of the sun, President Wilson spoke for more than half an hour, most of the time in an impassioned defense of the League of Nations and an appeal for its support.

The cemetery is on the hillside of the ancient fortress of Mount Valerien. With the old buildings at his back, the President looked over the graves of the American soldiers and down into the city of Paris in the distance.

The approaches to the cemetery and the paths winding through the burial ground were lined with soldiers standing at attention, American on one side and French on the other, as the President arrived.

The greater part of the khaki-clothed listeners to the President's speech were grouped in the shade of the old fort, but a crowd of other soldiers and civilians pressed close to the official stand. There was unwavering attention by all to the President's utterances, and when he concluded his auditors warmly applauded him.

Captain André Tardieu, the French High Commissioner, who was in the stand with President Wilson, listened attentively to the speech.

From a nearby point Mrs. Wilson listened to her husband. She and the President drove to the cemetery in different automobiles, and Mrs. Wilson remained in her car instead of going upon the speakers' stand.

Clemenceau's Tribute from France.

Before Mr. Wilson began his speech a message to the President from Premier Clemenceau, dealing with the fellowship between the French and Americans, was read.

Premier Clemenceau declared that the graves of American soldiers would be as tenderly cared for as those of the French. His letter began:

"Faithful to noble tradition, the living army renders homage to the dead army, and all France has associated itself with this homage."

After comparing the Americans who had fallen in France with the French who fell in America, M. Clemenceau continued:

"France will ever cherish their memories. With America, France will preserve in peace, as an inspiration and example, an undying remembrance of their enthusiasm, discipline, and courage. We see the wreaths on their tombs, and will take care of them as piously and gratefully as the tombs of our own soldiers."

With the playing of "The Star-Spangled Banner" and "The Marseillaise" by the band, and the sounding of "Taps" by the bugle, the official program ended, but President Wilson afterward personally deposited a wreath in honor of the American dead in the name of the Boy Scouts of America.

During the ceremony a reminder of the war floated at anchor nearby—one of the observation balloons which used to do sentry duty on the various fronts.

A French woman, standing beside a grave upon which Mr. Wilson was laying one of the Boy Scouts' wreaths, thanked him "in the name of the mothers of millions of French soldiers who have died, as the savior of millions of others who, without your assistance, would not now be alive."

Immediately afterward Marshal Foch thanked the President for the assistance given by Americans during the war and

You Shall Sign in Berlin If Not in Versailles Is Lloyd George's Summary of Allies' Position

LONDON, May 30.—Premier Lloyd George, in his speech to the Welsh division at Amiens on Sunday, declared, according to the South Wales Daily News:

"We say to the Germans: 'Gentlemen, you must sign. If you don't do so at Versailles, you shall do so in Berlin. We are not going to give way.'"

BERLIN, May 29.—Both reactionary parties—the German National Peoples' Party and the German Peoples' Party—openly announce that they will no longer support the Government, but from now on will adopt a policy of the sharpest opposition because of the ignominious "counterproposals offered at Versailles."

The Nationalist leader, former Cabinet Member Herot, announced the decision in yesterday's session of the Prussian Diet, at which the junker delegates behaved almost as in the days of Kaiserism. They rose in a body, threatening violence to the Socialists, who accused them of being the cause of all Germany's misery.

What exasperated the Junkers more than any other part of the German counterproposals was that the terms concerning the ex-Kaiser, the ex-Crown Prince, Generals, and other culprits were not roundly rejected, but that the German Government is willing to submit the question of their guilt to a neutral court. They have good reason to fear even a neutral court, because the Government is in possession of such an enormous quantity of evidence against the persons indicated that escape is considered impossible, and German public opinion would compel the production of this evidence even if the Government were unwilling.

Soon after the revolution the Independent Socialist leader, Karl Kautsky, was appointed to sift the State archives for evidence. His task was immense, but he worked energetically. The December crisis abruptly ended his work. When Kautsky, with other Independents, left the Cabinet, in which he had acted as Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs, the material, consisting of several wagon loads of documents, was conveyed to some unknown place.

Find New Proof of War Blame.

Research continues, and there is said to be overwhelming evidence against German as well as Entente personages that will be made public at the time considered opportune by the Government. Some of this evidence especially incriminates the ex-Kaiser and the ex-Crown Prince, dealing with their and Ludendorff's conduct of the war. In this connection a large number of high officers, captains of industry and other well known men appear to have been guilty of actions that can never be forgiven by the German people, even if the Entente should be less interested in this part of the evidence.

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent is informed that certain politicians, growing impatient with the Government's hesitation to publish the documents in question, secured photographic copies with which they traveled to Amsterdam, where the copies were submitted to leaders of the radical wing of the French Socialists, who were asked to decide if the present moment was propitious for publication. The French decided against immediate publication, wishing to reserve trump cards against their own and other Entente statesmen for a critical time.

The evidence against Ludendorff involves many staff officers who acted as agents of large industrial concerns and who seem to have been responsible for many criminal measures dictated from headquarters. These staff officers were paid at the rate of 100,000 marks and more annually under the pretense of being retained for important positions which they were to assume after the war.

All the men implicated by the evidence in the Government's possession belong to the present reactionary parties, which partly explains the abrupt break with the Government. It is also clear that

ALLIES WILL YIELD LITTLE ON TREATY

Paris Is Confident That Germans Will Obtain No Material Modifications.

BROCKDORFF'S BOLD FRONT

He Sent Word to Berlin That He Would Not Sign the Document as Drawn.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 29.—The time limit within which the German plenipotentiaries were obliged to complete their documentary communication with the Allies expired this afternoon. Up to the hour at which this dispatch is filed only part of the voluminous memorandum containing the German observations and counterproposals has been furnished the Council of Four, but the latter is disposed to be lenient and will not enforce the ultimatum.

The allied plenipotentiaries confirm the summary of the German proposals received in Washington from Berlin and cabled to the Paris newspapers. It is apparent from the official text of the enemy memorandum so far received that the Germans are making their principal stand on obtaining modifications of the eastern territorial dispositions, the amount of reparation and the provision excluding Germany from the League of Nations for the present. They insist that the people of Silesia take a plebiscite to determine whether they will become Polish citizens or remain German. Silesia, they say, was not taken by Germany from Poland, but from Austria.

As for damages, they are willing to pay $5,000,000,000 by 1926 and annual payments thereafter, with a total not to exceed $25,000,000,000, which, by the way, is approximately the amount the American financial experts have estimated that Germany would be able to pay.

There is a strong sentiment among some of the allied plenipotentiaries, with the Americans assuming the leadership, in favor of granting the concessions the Germans ask. This sentiment extends to the application of the Germans for admission to the League of Nations, but it is realized, after exchanges of views among the allied statesmen, that there is no prospect of granting this, mainly on account of French opposition. The belief prevails, however, that no material modifications of any portion of the treaty are likely.

ASSURED BERLIN HE WOULD NOT SIGN

Brockdorff Sent Word That He Would Stand Out Against Treaty as Drawn.

VERSAILLES, May 30, (Associated Press.)—Information gathered from the German peace delegation here is to the effect that Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau called the entire peace delegation and the members of the Financial Commission together, before Herr Giesbert and Herr Landsberg departed for Berlin several days ago, and thanked them for their collaboration. Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau asked them to tell the people of Berlin that he would not sign the peace treaty in the form in which it was presented by the Allies.

The Germans are so little satisfied with the clearness of the counter-proposals they presented to the Allies that further notes were sent to the Allies today to explain parts of the document, which they themselves did not find clear.

The first of the two new notes concerns German property in allied countries. The second has to do with the Turkish public debt and the São Paulo question.

Bound copies of the counter proposals to the number of 150, and also the remaining part of the translations were forwarded to the Council of Four today.

A small party of attachés of the German delegation started for Berlin to-

DUTCH EXPECT KAISER TO GO

Ex-Crown Prince Has a Meeting with His Mother at Amersfoort.

OFFICIALS SUPERVISE TRIP

Ex-Kaiserin Allowed to be Alone with Her Son for Several Hours.

THE HAGUE, May 28.—In well-informed circles here there is no longer much doubt that the ex-Kaiser will have shaken the dust of Netherlands soil off his feet by the time peace is signed.

When and by what methods he will depart still remains a mystery. THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent can state authoritatively, however, that those intrusted with the ex-monarch's proposed new abode in Germany have already left to prepare the way.

Since the recent outburst in the press the illustrious guest is seldom mentioned in the Dutch papers.

The ex-Crown Prince, who is interned as an officer without the right to leave the country until peace is signed, left the Island of Wieringen unexpectedly on a mysterious automobile ride, accompanied by Muldner, Muntheim, and Mayor Peereboom this morning. At the mainland a machine in which sat two men was waiting to take the travelers further.

AMERONGEN, May 29, (Associated Press.)—The former German Empress returned to Amerongen Castle late last evening after having met her eldest son, Frederick William, at Amersfoort, [eleven miles northwest of Amerongen and directly east of Utrecht,] for the first time in two years. The mother and son went to the meeting place by automobile from Amerongen and Wieringen, respectively.

On the outskirts of Amersfoort the automobiles were met by General Wrangel of the Dutch Army. The former Empress and her son had luncheon with General Wrangel, Secretary General Kan of the Dutch Cabinet, Burgomaster Peereboom of Wieringen, and several others.

After the luncheon the former Empress was alone with Frederick William for several hours. The inhabitants of Amersfoort were not aware of the presence of visitors, nor did the public of Amerongen know that the former Empress had left the castle.

After the luncheon Frederick William went back to his home on the Island of Wieringen. No details of the meeting or of the reasons for his journey can be obtained.

The day was a national holiday in Holland, it being the religious festival of Ascension Day. The former Emperor abstained from his usual occupation of sawing logs and attended services in the chapel of the castle, at which the Rev. Brother Weiss, a Moravian clergymen of Zeist, preached.

The village of Amerongen was crowded with excursionists, who desired to obtain a glimpse of the famous refugee, but although he walked in the gardens he was completely hidden by the heavy foliage.

ORLANDO SEES WILSON.

Italian Settlement Said to be Nearing Its Final Stage.

PARIS, May 30.—Vittorio Orlando, the Italian Premier, called on President Wilson this morning for a conference over the details of the Adriatic settlement. It is understood that this settlement is rapidly approaching final shape.

The Council of Four did not meet today. Peace-making activities were suspended for the day, pending the translation of the German proposals and the study of the Austrian peace terms by the delegates representing the smaller States.

Delegations from Ciscaucasia and Azerbaijan, Eastern Armenia, were received by President Wilson yesterday. The claims of these countries were laid before Mr. Wilson during the interview.

On his return to Paris from Suresnes Cemetery, President Wilson met the members of the Council of Four and had a short conference on some of the questions concerning the Austrian peace treaty. The members of the Council had before them copies of the German counterproposals, which have been referred to various committees for consideration.

Ready to Quit Our Dutch Base If the Armistice Is Ended

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROTTERDAM, May 30.—Confidential orders have been received to have all plans in readiness to evacuate the American base here within seventy hours should the armistice be broken off. According to international law, any American troops found in neutral Holland seventy hours after the resumption of hostilities would be interned by the Dutch. In this eventuality all work of any nature would immediately be suspended.

Routes for crossing the frontier at various points have already been arranged, as well as the disposal of stores, engineering and building material.

SIGNS OF BREAK IN CANADA STRIKE

Only 10,000 Quit in Toronto, Many Unions Awaiting Developments in West.

NEGOTIATING IN WINNIPEG

Edmonton Union Organ Holds Sufficient Protest Has Been Made—Tells Men to Return.

TORONTO, May 30.—For the first time in its history, Toronto had a general strike today, called in support of the metal trades strikers, but up to a late hour tonight the life of the city had hardly felt a ripple of the trouble. Early indications were lacking as to how generally the strike order would be obeyed, but careful estimates were that not more than 10,000 men, including carpenters, machinists, some branches of the cloak and garment trades, shipbuilders, and others, were out.

The street car men will meet on Saturday night to decide upon their action. The strike committee may call out more unions tomorrow and on successive days. The news from Winnipeg, however, that the general strike there was practically broken heartened Toronto citizens, the majority of whom are opposed to the sympathetic strike movements.

Labor leaders declared the orders for the strike to begin this morning were obeyed by a large number of unionists in Toronto. The city employes have not yet quit, nor had the Federal Government's employes on the railroads.

The city was absolutely under control tonight. Order and quiet are everywhere in evidence. The Mayor sent out an appeal to the citizens asking for maintenance of the peace. A committee of 10,000 persons is being organized, it was announced this evening, to help the local authorities in the event of need.

The Central Strike Committee today sent the following message to Premier Borden at Ottawa:

"We wish to bring to your notice that at the Peace Conference, which you attended, it was decided that labor must be recognized, also collective bargaining. Inasmuch as this is a fact, why is common labor forced to obtain what we understand was internationally recognized?"

A statement from the Strike Committee as to how many workers were actually on strike in Toronto was expected later in the night.

The annual meeting of the Canadian Press Association, Inc., called to assemble in Toronto on June 5 and 6, has been indefinitely postponed owing to the industrial situation.

Borden Promises Government's Aid.

OTTAWA, May 30.—In a statement today defining the attitude of the Canadian Government toward strikes now in progress in the Dominion, Sir Robert Borden, Prime Minister, declared that despite "unfortunate labor difficulties in a few cities," public utilities are still being maintained, and except for a brief period in one city the public has suffered no serious inconvenience. There have been no riots, the statement added.

The policy of the Government was summarized as follows:

"First, to maintain law and order and to protect life and property.

"Second, to insist that employes in the civil service shall not join in strikes, and to dismiss instantly all persons violating this principle.

"Third, to use its best efforts, by conciliation and otherwise, to settle difficulties between employers and employed, to establish boards of conciliation wherever possible, and to use every effort within the Federal power to remedy any existing grievances."

Evidence of labor unrest is now beginning to appear here in Ottawa, and there is a prospect that there may be a sympathetic strike at the capital following the walkout at Toronto today.

Five thousand men would be affected,

Plane's Progress 'Flagwagged' from the Rochester to Bluejacket News Detail Ashore.

In consequence of extraordinary cable delays, no details of the arrival of NC-4 at Lisbon, beyond those supplied in the Navy Department bulletins, have hitherto reached the United States.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LISBON, Tuesday, May 27.—"They've started!" Swift almost as the wireless on whose wings it came the news spread through Lisbon this morning when, at 11:27, the Rochester's signal gun roused the echoes across the hills on which the city is built to announce that the NC-4 had left the Azores ten minutes earlier by Lisbon time.

From shops, houses, and cafés the people poured down to the big square by the waterside, as if they thought the seaplane might arrive at any minute. By noon there was a solid mass around the great bronze statue of King Joseph I., on horseback, in the centre of the square, from which the place is known to the English-speaking portion of the population as Black Horse Square.

Here a squad from the Rochester had set up a bulletin board to show the time at which the seaplane had passed each of the fourteen stations. Every forty minutes a signaler on the Rochester "flagwagged" the news to a comrade on the sea wall, who, in turn, transmitted it to the group at the foot of the statue.

The warships in the Tagus are all gay with bunting streaming out in a thirty-knot westerly wind—a wind that is increasing the speed of crossing fully 25 per cent.—which lashes the outgoing tide into choppy wavelets.

As the correspondent stepped on the Rochester's quarterdeck Admiral

WAS MAKING FAIR TIME

Officials Think Read Could Have Gone On, but Might Have Landed at Dusk.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The NC-4, which started early today from Lisbon for Plymouth, England, on the last leg of its history-making overseas flight, was officially reported tonight as safe at its moorings at Ferrol, in the Bay of Biscay, with about 475 miles still to be covered. The seaplane reached Ferrol after an interrupted voyage at 4:45, local time.

It has been the expectation of the Navy Department that the big seaplane would complete the trip to Plymouth today, where elaborate preparations had been made to receive Lieut. Commander Read and the members of his crew. A forced landing was necessary, however, at Mondego River, on the coast of Portugal, after the first 100 miles of the trip had been covered.

There ensued a delay of several hours until high tide and then the seaplane, again in good working order, rose from Mondego Bay and proceeded to Ferrol, covering another 200 miles. It was then decided, the dispatches received at the Navy Department report, not to attempt to make the full distance to Plymouth, but to wait at Ferrol until tomorrow morning.

The latest dispatches received by the Navy Department are that the machine is in perfect condition, and will get off early tomorrow morning from Ferrol for Plymouth, unless weather conditions make a start impractical. There was nothing definite in the official dispatches to indicate why the forced landing was necessary, but it was apparent that there was no serious mishap to engine or crew.

Navy officials found in the dispatches further confirmation that the seaplane was in good condition to continue the journey to Plymouth tomorrow morning. For instance, one dispatch received here at 5:30 this afternoon indicated that the NC-4 left Mondego River at 9:28 o'clock this morning, New York time, thus showing that it covered the 200 miles

OFF AT 6:40 THIS MORNING

Made Two Hops Yesterday--Is Now Flying from Ferrol to Plymouth.

SHOULD ARRIVE ABOUT NOON

FIRST HOP ONLY 100 MILES

Then Flew From Mondego River to Ferrol, Where She Stayed Until the Start This Morning

London, Saturday, May 31, (8:39 A. M.,) (By the Associated Press.)—The United States seaplane NC-4 left the port of Ferrol, Spain, for Plymouth, England, at 6:40 o'clock this morning, (2:40 A. M., New York time.)

Held Up a Day by Engine Trouble.

PLYMOUTH, May 30, (Associated Press.)—The American Navy's transatlantic seaplane, the NC-4, is resting tonight at Ferrol, on the northern coast of Spain, where she arrived at 4:45 this afternoon, after having started early in the morning from Lisbon, dropped to the sea about 100 miles north of that port because of engine trouble, and resumed her flight in the early afternoon.

With favorable weather, Lieut. Commander A. C. Read, her commander, will start on the last leg of his journey to this city tomorrow. Given an early start with a favorable wind he should arrive at Plymouth soon after noon.

Today's delay caused considerable anxiety to both the American and British officials, but this was quickly relieved by a message from the commander of the NC-4 asking that the destroyers along his route keep their stations. The Royal Air Force stationed at Plymouth has offered facilities for dismantling the NC-4, which, under present plans, will be shipped to the United States on the mine layer Aroostook.

Early this morning word was received here that the NC-4 had left Lisbon for this port at 5:20 A. M. The flying boat was expected to arrive here about 4 o'clock this afternoon, British Summer time, barring accidents, and preparations were made accordingly.

Reports received up to noon were that there were heavy clouds and low visibility both over the Bay of Biscay and the English Channel. The U. S. S. Stockton, which arrived here last night, left at 10 A. M. to take up her position in the Channel. She was followed by the U. S. S. Narragansett. The Aroostook and the Rochester remained in the harbor.

Later came the news of the postponement of the flight and the landing of the NC-4 at the mouth of the Mondego River.

It was reported here that the reason the NC-4 had been compelled to land was because of adverse winds against which the plane was not able to make more than forty-seven knots an hour. A heavy southeast wind was blowing here this afternoon.

Members of the crew of the NC-3 said they were willing to make another attempt. They believed it was possible to fly direct from Newfoundland to Ireland or England with the NC planes. The crews of the NC-3 and NC-1 are quartered on the Rochester.

"Every man on the three planes wants to try again, and I believe the NC-3 could be fitted up to make a direct flight to England," an officer of the NC-3 told the correspondent. "Nothing about the machine failed in our flight and we learned things we had never dreamed of before. With this knowledge and the improvements in navigating instruments being made, I think our seaplanes would have little difficulty in flying direct to England or Ireland."

When Lieut. Commander Read and the crew of the NC-4 reach here they will be guests of honor at a reception on board the Rochester. Invitations have been sent to British naval, army and air force authorities and to the Mayor of Plymouth to be present with Rear Admiral Plunkett to receive the airmen.

Major Waldorf Astor, son of Viscount Astor, and Mrs. Astor have arrived to take part in the reception. Major Astor sits in Parliament for the Sutton Division of Plymouth.

Plymouth Disappointed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PLYMOUTH, England, May 30.—The people of Plymouth were greatly disappointed this afternoon at the failure of the NC-4 to arrive here. The British Air Force had prepared a flying escort, and the civic authorities were ready for a formal welcome and a crowd gathered on the historic Barbican Quay to see the first aviators to conquer the Atlantic land at the spot whence the Pilgrim Fathers sailed.

The news that the NC-4 had been unable to finish the flight and had descended at the Mondego River was received early by Admiral Plunkett aboard his flagship, the Rochester.

"It is probably some slight form of engine trouble," he explained to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, "although I have no definite information.

"The Mondego River is at the Port of Figuerra, about 80 miles from Lisbon, and the report that the NC-4 descended because of a shortage of oil is absurd. Unfortunately, it was a low Spring tide when she landed, and there was insufficient water for her to rise again till the tide was full again.

"The Shawmut should have reached here by this time from Lisbon to give any needed help, and she hoped to get away at noon, when the tide was high. Commander Read asked me by wireless how far he should come tonight, and I suggested either Vigo or Ferrol. If he can make either, he should be here by noon tomorrow."

If the Admiral's expectation is fulfilled, the reception by the Mayor of Plymouth will take place tomorrow afternoon. A chain of six American destroyers is standing by across the Bay of Biscay in readiness for the interrupted flight.

The suggestion that the NC-4 might fly home across the Atlantic is not taken seriously by the naval officers. Captain Harris Laning, Admiral Punkett's Chief of Staff, said:

"This is no stunt, but a naval operation, part of the regular work of the department. The prevailing winds of this season are westerly, so a westward flight is quite out of the question."

RADIOS SHOWED TROUBLE.

Messages Between Seaplane and Destroyers Intercepted at Brest.

BREST, May 30, (Associated Press.)—The American naval flier, starting from Lisbon at 5:20 o'clock this morning, local time, had not proceeded far in her flight for Plymouth before messages coming from the destroyers stationed along her course indicated that she was in trouble of some description. She was reported passing station A at 8 A. M. and station B at 9:20 o'clock, flying at a height of about 2,000 feet in excellent weather. Toward noon, however, a message from the destroyer Woolsey at station C made it appear that the seaplane had developed trouble, but it was thought at the time that she had effected repairs and resumed her flight. The message from the Woolsey was: "Maintani stations. NC-4 on her way."

This message was sent by the Woolsey to the destroyer Tarbell at Station D and was intercepted by the transport George Washington, lying here.

At 12:30 o'clock, however, a message from the NC-4 was picked up by an American naval vessel in Brest harbor telling of the seaplane's descent in the Mondego River and stating that completion of the trip to Plymouth today would be impossible. The message read:

"NC-4 at Mondego River. Must await high tide. Seaplane cannot make Plymouth. Request destroyers to keep stations. What is best port to land seaplane within 300 miles?"

The message, signed by Lieut. Commander Read, was not timed. It was picked up at 12:30 by the United States auxiliary Bridgeport in Brest harbor. It was addressed to the Commander of Division 14, United States Destroyer Forces.

Late reports received here by wireless said that the NC-4 developed trouble in both starboard motors, which unbalanced the plane and compelled Lieut. Commander Read to land. The plane was not damaged.

between Mondego River and Ferrol in about three hours.

It was pointed out that this was making fair time, and did not indicate that the seaplane was experiencing trouble.

It is believed by naval experts here that the decision not to continue the trip all the way to Plymouth was made because it was feared that difficulty in landing might be experienced if the plane failed to arrive before dusk.

The log kept at the Navy Department today of the dispatches received in connection with the renewal of the flight of the NC-4 from Lisbon for Plymouth was as follows:

FLIER NEAR DEATH TWICE IN MINUTE

Rope Breaks Before Parachute Opens, and Only Friction Saves Falling Aviator.

PLUNGES INTO THE WATER

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 30.—Narrowly escaping death twice in less than a minute was the experience here this afternoon of T. H. Godwin of Exira, Ia., a Chief Quartermaster of the U. S. Navy, during a test of aerial life preservers before a committee of authorities at the Pan-American Aeronautic Congress. After making a fine descent with a parachute from an airplane speeding at seventy miles an hour a thousand feet above the port, Godwin went up the second time to show that the life preserver could be operated from any position, no matter what the airplane happened to be doing at the time.

Eddie Stinson, the driver, flipped the plane over on its back and started it swooping along upside down at a 1,000-foot altitude and Godwin leaped. The sudden weight on a trigger rope running from a strut alongside the cockpit to the bag containing the parachute snapped before the rope had performed its functions of unfastening the strings laced through the sides of the container and Godwin came plunging to the earth. After dropping 300 feet in five and a half seconds the friction on the edges of the folds of the container snapped the strings, releasing the parachute within and checking his fall. This saved his life the first time.

The parachute dropped into the water adjacent to the airport thirty seconds later, and Godwin was in the second struggle for his life. He was unable to swim and soon got tangled up in the equipment of the parachute. William J. Donnelly, a former beach lifeguard, saw him fall into the water, and without removing his clothes made a running dive. Swimming to Godwin, he managed to clear the Quartermaster of the entangling ropes and held him up until a boat arrived from the port and picked both men up. Godwin was dazed when brought ashore, but soon revived and was presented to the cheering crowds in the grandstand.

Lands Successfully.

Werner Genot, a Belgian, made a splendid drop with another parachute invention from 2,000 feet in the air after a leap from Stinson's craft a short time later. The parachute opened up in 2 1-5 seconds after he jumped clear of the airplane, and he made the descent in 1 minute and 11 2-5 seconds. This parachute was fastened under the fuselage of the airplane.

George Weiss of Pittsburgh, a former naval balloon jumper, operating under the same conditions, dropped 2,000 feet in 1 minute and 36 2-5 seconds. The parachute opened in 1 3-5 seconds from the time it was released.

FEEL PARIS FLIGHT WILL SOON BE MADE

Aero Club Believes Prize Will Be Won Long Before Time Expires.

Officials of the Aero Club of America, who are formulating the conditions for the competition for the prize of $25,000 offered by Raymond Orteig for a non-stop flight between New York and Paris, said yesterday that they believed it certain that the prize would be won long before the expiration of the time limit of five years. It would not surprise them if the flight of about 3,600 miles were made within a few months.

Alan R. Hawley, President of the Aero Club, said that the technical conditions for the flight would be few and that all the terms of the competition were practically complete so that any allied aviator could start his flight at any time he pleased. It is hoped by the officials of the Aero Club that other prizes will be offered for this flight, or similar flights, because they believe that the experience gained even from unsuccessful attempts would aid greatly in the gathering of technical information upon flying.

It has been decided that the French Aero Club will aid in the judging of all flights, whether the aviator sets out from the French capital or lands there on his air journey from this city. The French Club will co-operate with the Aero Club here by cable whenever flights are attempted.

The only other conditions will be that each aviator carry a barograph to show that he has not alighted anywhere, and that the conditions of a non-stop flight are faithfully carried out. There will be no restrictions whatever upon the size or type of plane, its power, motors, equipment, personnel or any other details, because the Aero Club officials believe that the greatest freedom should be given for the development of aviation.

Plunkett came up the companion ladder.

"Can you beat it!" he cried gayly. "They jumped from Station 5 to 6 in thirty-three minutes—nearly a hundred miles per hour. At that rate they'll be here close on 8 o'clock."

In the ship's office his Chief of Staff, Captain Laning, to whom goes the credit for planning a great part of the thousand and one details involved in the enterprise, was sitting before the pneumatic tubes which transmit messages from the wireless room.

"All going fine," he said quietly. "They are making good time, and the wind will help them. Reports from the destroyers are coming in like clockwork. Those boys are making a good job of it. And let me tell you it's no easy task they've got out there. They have not only had to keep their stations, but be always on the qui vive like this for the last eight days—and mostly in choppy weather at that. There are between 1,000 and 1,500 men strung out there across the ocean, which gives you an idea of the size of the whole proposition.

"Of course we couldn't be getting wireless flashes like this if the Portuguese Government hadn't had the courtesy to close their big wireless station down at a point off the mouth of the Tagus. It's so big it would have jammed our instruments utterly."

On deck the jackies were feverishly attaching flags of all sizes and nationalities around every object and to every vantage point. By 4 o'clock the quarter deck was inclosed in walls of color and even around the huge guns on the turrets the jackies were winding streamers of stars and stripes.

VIMY BOMBER FINALLY SECURES SITE FOR 'HOP'

Capt. Alcock Gets Location for Airdrome on Le Marchant Road, St. John's.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 30.—The Vickers expedition has found an airdrome at last. Captain John Alcock, who is to pilot the Vimy bomber on the transatlantic flight, today closed the lease and took possession of the Lester property on Le Marchant Road, about four miles from Raynham's erstwhile airdrome of Quidi Vidi and two from Mount Pearl, where Hawker and Grieve started the unlucky Sopwith flight.

The site has the advantage of being at a high point where buffeting winds, such as several times prevented Raynham from starting with the Martinsyde in the valley, even though the mid-ocean weather was favorable, will be absent. The extent of available land is comparatively unlimited, but none of it is level, and the size of the airdrome depends upon the amount of construction work the Vickers men find time to do before ready for the flight. Thirty workmen are to be turned loose on Monday morning cutting off the brow of the hillock and filling in the lower ground, and Alcock hopes to be able to construct an airdrome with an east and west take-off of some four hundred yards' stretch. But it is doubtful if he can get enough level ground to take-off north or south.

Just as soon as the Vimy is fully assembled it will be flown light to the new site, where the Bessanoux hangar in the meantime will have been erected. From there an extensive trial flight will be undertaken, according to present plans.

At Quidi Vidi, where the plane is being assembled, good progress is being made. Both engines have been installed, the entire fuselage has been put together, and the bottom plane is in place. This afternoon the top center section is to be added, and with that job out of the way Alcock and his Pilot Lieutenant, A. W. Brown, believe they can see the time of the trial flight in sight.

Frederick P. Raynham, Martinsyde pilot, is likewise making excellent progress in rebuilding with spare parts the biplane which crashed in the take-off on May 18. The Rolls-Royce Falcon engine has been completely dissembled and put together again, and has been found remarkably uninjured from the smash, no more than the allowable infinitessimal fraction of play appearing in the crankshaft.

Raynham's mechanics have built up a complete new set of wings from spares, using none of those damaged, and the skeleton of the fuselage once more is assembled. The pilot is now hopeful of a trial flight within the ten days, probably using the Quidi Vidi airdrome once more. His present intention is to undertake at least two, and possibly four, tests, on the last of them duplicating as nearly as possible the conditions of the actual transatlantic venture, and giving the rebuilt plane a grueling final test designed to expose the slightest hidden flaw.

If this program is successful Raynham is now hopeful of actually getting started once more by the full moon of June 12.

He and all the other pilots here are particularly determined to prevent a mishap such as forced the descent of the Sopwith in midocean, when loose solder from the radiator clogged the water circulating system. For this reason it is probable that all planes now in the race will be run and flown many more hours in tests than was the Sopwith.

According to the present plan the Alliance biplane, which is expected here about June 15, will share the Vickers airdrome, and possibly the Boulton and Paul machine likewise will be assembled there when it arrives.

BRITISH R-34 TO ENTER FOR ATLANTIC FLIGHT

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 30.—General Maitland, head of the British Airship Service, who was aboard the R-34 when she was lost in a fog, remaining in the air twenty-one hours after starting a two-hour trip, has had his confidence in an airship's ability to cross the Atlantic increased by the incident. He regarded his trip as the first practical demonstration that it does not much matter what the weather is like once an airship is up, since she can stop in the air and hang about indefinitely until conditions become favorable.

The R-34 is not expected to make a transatlantic effort for nearly a month yet, as she is to undergo a series of trials for the Air Ministry, which has now taken her from the Admiralty.

I am informed that an early start may be made by Lieutenant Laporte to win the honor of the first westward transatlantic flight.

BRITISH LAMENT HAWKER'S ATTITUDE

Say His Views on American Flight Are Mistaken and His Remarks Injudicious.

HE DENIES CRITICISING

London Newspapers Contrast His Delight in Adulation with Grieve's Avoidance of the Limelight.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 30.—The annoyance provoked in America by the tone of some of Harry G. Hawker's references to the American Atlantic flight has been felt similarly here. At the Daily Mail luncheon the praises of Lord Northcliffe and others of the American effort were cheered heartily, and the complete silence in which Hawker's remarks were heard was conspicuous evidence that his attitude was not shared by the audience, many members of which openly declared that his views were as mistaken as his expression of them was injudicious.

The British feeling undoubtedly is that comparisons between the two feats are out of place. The Daily News and other papers voiced the opinion that the British public had lost its head over Hawker, whose delight in adulation is strongly contrasted with Lieut. Commander Mackenzie Grieve's reluctance to step into the limelight.

In the train coming south observers noted Hawker's eagerness to greet the crowds. Even at stations where the train did not stop he leaned out of the window and waved his hands. Grieve, on the other hand, sought to escape observation as far as possible.

Suggestions have been made that the difference is not merely one of individual temperament but to some extent one of national characteristics.

The only knowledge respecting the Joan of Arc mascot over here is conveyed in cablegrams from America. Inquiries of several people who have been constantly in Hawker's company indicate that neither he nor Grieve has made mention of having had a medal on their machine.

Interviewed by THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, Hawker said:

"In some quarters it seems my remarks at the Savoy luncheon have been misunderstood. I said, with regard to the lack of ships, that if we had had a ship every twenty yards people would have looked on it as a joke, and not a serious attempt to fly the Atlantic. A great many people and newspapers in Great Britain adopted the attitude that the navy ought to have patrolled the Atlantic for us, so as to make our navigation easier, and because scores of ships were not sent out the Admiralty has been severely criticised.

"This is absurd. We didn't want ships, and I may also say that I think Raynham, Admiral Mark Kerr, and all the other pilots entered for The Daily Mail competition who now are in Newfoundland would thoroughly agree with me. They are confident an airplane can do the trip entirely on its own power.

"With regard to the NC-4, this undoubtedly has been a splendidly organized effort. But our flight and the flight of the NC-4 were two entirely different things. Ours was a private enterprise purely and simply, whereas the seaplanes' attempt was undertaken by the United States Navy in altogether different circumstances, largely with a view to research. If I were able to start tomorrow I would make another attempt without any guide ships at all, and I would stick to my single-engined machine. I should not expect and never have expected the British public would cheerfully pay to have scores of ships stop out in the Atlantic for possibly a month or two while we waited for suitable weather."

Tour of the Sopwiths, in speaking at the Aero Club luncheon today, said in his opinion the flight of the NC-4 was a fine performance in every way. The two flights were entirely different, and it was foolish to try to compare them. Some of Hawker's friends suggest that he had no intention of making an objectionable reference to the American flight, and that it was only his method of trying to give expression to his belief that The Daily Mail's censure of the Admiralty for not patrolling the Atlantic was unjustified, that was faulty.

GIRL WANTS TO JOIN VIMY.

Asks Captain Alcock to Take Her as a Passenger on Ocean Flight.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 30.—While the Vimy-Vickers expedition labored today to get their machines in shape for a "hop-off," the aviators were startled by a request from a 19-year-old American girl that she be carried overseas as a passenger.

The girl is Miss May Kirtson of Erdenheim, Penn. With her application she volunteered the information that she had three brothers in the American Army and that although she had been rejected by the air service because of her sex, she wished to prove that an American girl is not afraid to brave the dangers of a transatlantic flight.

While he did not commit himself as to what would have been his answer if his machine had been larger, Alcock announced he would have to disappoint Miss Kirtson, as his plane was only a two-seater.

Assembling of the Vimy-Vickers machine is progressing favorably. The crew is trying to complete the working time to give an exhibition flight next Tuesday, King George's birthday, but it is doubtful whether the plane will be ready before Wednesday or Thursday.

Admiral Kerr of the Handley-Page, who arrived here today from Harbor Grace, said he hoped to have his machine ready for a trial flight by the end of next week and to take off for the transatlantic trip the following week.

Spain Plans Commercial Air Routes

MADRID, May 30.—A company has been formed with Spanish capital to inaugurate a passenger, mail, and merchandise aerial service between Madrid and several of the provincial capitals.

There were four contestants in the twenty-mile race, ten laps about the track. The event was won by Lieutenant H. B. Shields, travelling at the rate of about 82 miles an hour and covering the distance in 16 minutes and 45 seconds. He used a Curtiss machine, as did also Lieutenant Shirley Short, who was second, and Lieutenant Paul Michelli, who captured third prize. Jean de Monjoz, who finished fourth, piloted a Bleriot. De Monjoz did considerable "trick" flying during the afternoon.

Praise from Japanese Navy.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Congratulations of the Japanese Navy on the achievements of the United States Navy in successfully accomplishing a transatlantic flight were expressed to Secretary Daniels today by the Naval Attache of the Japanese Embassy in the following message:

"I am instructed by Minister of the Japanese Navy to convey his sincere congratulation to you for the success of your navy of having accomplished the epochal flight across the Atlantic."

U. S. CONSUL'S TRAIN HELD UP IN SIBERIA

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PEKING, May 30.—Ernest L. Harris, American Consul General at Omsk, was held up by 500 of Semenoff's troops at Dauria last week. Semenoff's men, a mixture of Russians, Buriats, Mongolians, and Chinese, boarded his train and insisted upon inspecting the Consul's baggage. Mr. Harris refused to submit to the search, whereupon the train was held at the station for hours pending the decision of one of Semenoff's officers whether to open the baggage or not. Guards were put aboard Mr. Harris's private car. During the interval at least 500 troops were drawn up beside the train with machine guns stationed so as to bear directly on the Consul's car.

The commander finally decided that the baggage must be inspected. At midnight his men broke open the trunks, boxes, and bags in possession of the American official party and made a hasty search of their contents. It does not appear that they levied duties or took away property belonging to Mr. Harris and his companions. The train was allowed to proceed at 1 o'clock in the morning, having been delayed exactly eight hours.

BOLSHEVIKI RECAPTURE ROVNO FROM POLES

Also Announce That They Have Taken Two Other Towns and Seventy Guns.

LONDON, May 30.—The Bolsheviki have driven the Poles from Rovno, after fierce fighting, and occupied the town, according to a wireless message from Moscow today. The Russians claim to have captured a large quantity of military stores at Rovno, which is southeast of Brest-Litovsk.

The message adds that the Bolsheviki captured seventy guns at Zdelgunovo and that they also occupied Alexandria.

REDS ACTIVE IN SIBERIA.

Said to be Planning Attack on Allied Mine Guards in Suchan.

VLADIVOSTOK, May 28, (Associated Press.)—A large force of Bolsheviki is mobilizing at Jazanka, in the important Suchan mining district, and, according to reports received here, is preparing to attack the allied mine guards, composed of American, Chinese, and Japanese troops. The men who are mobilizing deny that they are Bolsheviki, declaring they are "partisans" as opposed to the "Kolchaki" or troops of the Omsk Government.

A general strike was called in the Suchan district on May 22 and 2,000 coal miners and railroad operators are on strike, intensifying the unsettled situation. When the railroad men went out an allied commission which was investigating conditions at Suchan was forced to find its own means in order to return to the main railroad line. The commission found an American soldier who was able to drive the locomotive of its train.

A proclamation issued by the "partisans" demands that all the allied troops be removed from the mining district, which is declared neutral territory. The miners propose to operate the coal mines themselves.

RIGA EAGERLY AWAITS FOOD.

Reds Before Quitting Baltic Port Shot 30 Prisoners.

PARIS, May 30.—The Bolsheviki, before they retired from Riga, shot thirty persons in the central prison there, according to official reports received by the American Peace delegates. The anti-Bolshevist troops captured Riga with slight fighting, surprising the Bolsheviki, who fled hastily.

Reports of the coming of an American mission with forty carloads of flour were received with great joy in Riga, the reports add.

All the stores and homes of the well-to-do were pillaged by the Bolsheviki, and most of the bourgeoise were compelled to leave the city before it fell. The material damage to the city was slight. In the various prisons sixteen hundred hostages were found. The reports describe them as being in a state of unspeakable misery and starvation when they were released.

With the arrival of the relief ships, which will enter as soon as the harbor is cleared of mines, it is expected that conditions in Riga rapidly will be restored to normal.

AMERICAN NURSES DIE IN FRENCH MOTOR CRASH

Misses Graham, Delton, and Hagadorn Victims of Accident at Chateau-Thierry.

PARIS, May 30.—Three nurses attached to the American Expeditionary Force were killed Sunday in an automobile accident at Château-Thierry, it became known today. The nurses were Florence Graham of New York City, Ella Delton of Toronto, and Alice Hagadorn of Palmer, N. Y.

Miss Graham was the head nurse at Camp Hospital No. 4.

In an attempt to avoid a bicycle, the automobile in which the nurses were riding skidded and turned over down a steep embankment.

Alice Hagadorn was a reserve nurse attached to Mobile Operating Unit, Section 5. She sailed for France July 5, 1918, according to the records of the Army Port of Embarkation authorities here. Mrs. Sarah H. Ross of Palmer, N. Y., is her next of kin.

Florence Graham went over with the Army Nurse Corps, Base Hospital No. 2. Her next of kin is W. H. Graham of 74 Waverly Street, Ottawa, Canada.

MASON ASKS RUSSIA INQUIRY.

Fears That Holders of Bonds Try to Keep Our Troops in Russia.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—A resolution directing the House Foreign Affairs Committee to investigate the amount of American-owned Russian bonds and the plans for their interest payment was introduced today by Representative Mason, Republican, of Illinois.

Bondholders, his resolution said, have been charged with using their influence to keep American troops in Russia so that any Government that may be recognized there may be compelled to accept the validity of these securities.

AIRMAN'S SACRIFICE MAY COST HIS LIFE

Drives Airplane Into a Fence at Brighton to Save Man on Foot.

HE AND PASSENGER HURT

Lieut. Locklear Repeats His Thrilling "Stunts" at Sheepshead Bay Meet.

Robert J. Wilde, an air pilot of Baltimore, was probably fatally hurt yesterday on the old Brighton track at Brighton Beach, when, in an attempt to avoid a man who stepped in front of his machine as it was tearing across the field, preparatory to taking to the air, he drove it into a fence. William E. Rice of 119 Home Avenue, Rutherford, N. J., his passenger, suffered a fractured skull. Both are in the Coney Island Hospital. This was the only accident to mar a day of aeronautical sports at Brighton, and on the Speedway Park at Sheepshead Bay.

The accident came as a shock to the crowd that had gathered to watch the aviators or to go up as passengers. There had been a crowd about Wilde's machine, and just as he started a number of persons came hastening across the field, hoping to arrive before he got away. When the airplane started it gathered speed rapidly. Suddenly a man ran from one side of the field and got in the path. The pilot sought to lift his machine into the air to avoid hitting the man, but instead it swerved and went crashing head on into the fence. It carried away a section twenty-five feet long and then buried its nose in the earth and toppled over. Wilde and his passenger were strapped in the cockpit and they were buried in the wreckage.

Lieutenant Howard Brown of the 182d Aero Squadron, owner of the machine used by Wilde, who was standing near, rushed to the men and unstrapped them. They were both unconscious and were carried to the hospital. Wilde, besides having a fractured skull, was found to have broken ribs, internal injuries, and many cuts and contusions. He will probably die. Rice, according to physicians, has a chance for recovery. Wilde was recently discharged from the army, and with other aviators has been making flights with passengers on the race track. Rice is an investigator for the Public Service Commission of New Jersey.

Army flyers gave a demonstration of all sorts of flying yesterday afternoon over the Speedway Park at Sheepshead Bay while about 5,000 persons inside the park, and as many more outside, were thrilled as the aviators looped the loop, side turned, flew upside down and did other thrilling stunts. The occasion was the International Aerial Circus, and the star performer of the day was Lieutenant Ormer Locklear, who repeated his feat of changing from one airplane to another while both machines circled about a thousand feet above the field. Another interesting event was an aerial Derby, a twenty-mile race around the great field, just above the automobile track.

Lieutenant Locklear was last to appear on the program and the spectators waited until he had climbed in safety from one machine to another before they began to leave the park. Lieutenant Locklear took to the air with Lieutenant H. B. Shields. Lieutenant Shirley Short followed, both in Curtiss biplanes. The airplanes mounted quickly and evenly into the air and raced around the field in wide circles. The crowd held its breath as Locklear crawled from the cockpit and climbed slowly out on one of the wings. Then he suddenly drew his body erect and, after a few seconds in which he caught his balance, he extended his arms above his head and in that position he stood as the airplane passed the grand stand. The Lieutenant next crawled off the wing and worked his way under the body of the machine. There was absolute quiet for just the second that he suddenly let go with his hands and hung dangling from the landing gear underneath the plane.

The climax of his performance came when he changed from one plane to another. Lieutenant Short, by clever air navigation, jockeyed until he brought his machine directly over the one on which Lieutenant Locklear was riding. After he attained his position he maintained it. As the two machines came down toward the grandstand the crowds saw Lieutenant Locklear spring from the wing of his machine to the rope ladder that was hanging above him. He showed no apparent haste in performing the stunt, and he caught the rope with difficulty and hung swinging as the planes parted. A second the crowd was silent, and then as the daring aviator struggled to his feet on the wing and waved a hand the grandstand broke into applause. Unfortunately, the stunt was performed almost above the grandstand and about half the crowd missed it.

BERLIN FINANCIER ASKS FOR LIGHTER TERMS

Wittenberg Appeals to English Trade Zeal, Saying America Seeks German Market.

By GEORGE RENWICK.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless and Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 29.—In order to obtain an authoritative German financial view of the peace terms, I consulted Herr Wittenberg, a well known Director of the National Bank of Germany.

"The great thing is," he declared, "that such conditions must be arrived at that Germany will be able to live. Surely it is easy for the Entente to make concessions when it has asked for so much. The financial burden we have assumed is a frightfully heavy one, but I trust in the strength of our nation of between 60,000,000 and 65,000,000 of people to enable us to pay even that enormous sum.

"That we shall have possibilities for work is the main consideration. Germany, I am convinced, has the will to work. The Entente must not bar the way. It will be hard work, too, whether the terms are signed or not. Many businesses will have to close down. That means unemployment, and there is our chief enemy.

"If the Entente takes, as it threatens to do, all those important sections of German territory, then it is sheer nonsense to talk of paying £5,000,000,000, or anything like it. Do not let it be forgotten that we shall have to pay interest on our war loans.

"Now, may I say this to England? If we can work as a nation then—I take the long view—our trade relations with England will stand a chance of being restored to that mutually beneficial standard which existed in pre-war days. England must get busy.

"America will make enormous efforts here. Already the National City Bank of New York has announced that it is coming here, and it will open an information bureau for the benefit of all American industries on the lines so successful in Scandinavia. German banks, I take it, will not be able to open in England for some time, therefore English banks, for a considerable period, will have a good opportunity here.

"Do not let America get in front of you. I say that because the flag of good friendship follows trade, and good friendship with England is the one great thing which the new Germany wants."

The eminent Socialist, Karl Kautsky, is of the opinion that the German proposals could and should be accepted. They give as much, he says, as the country can give and it cannot possibly give more. He insists that the counterproposals regarding the Polish frontier are most strictly in accord with President Wilson's principles. The most essential thing, he believes, is to settle the Polish question.

BRITISH PLEA FOR GERMANY.

Five Peers Urge Sympathetic Considerations of Treaty Objections.

LONDON, May 30.—A letter signed by Earl Loreburn, Baron Buckmaster, Baron Southwark, Earl Beauchamp, Baron Parmoor, and a number of other publicists has been sent to Premier Lloyd George and President Wilson urging that German appeals for modification of the peace terms should be considered impartially and sympathetically, with a desire to meet them wherever possible.

"We believe," the letter says, "that a peace willingly signed by the German Government as representative of the German people is one of infinitely greater value than one forced on them by threats of famine, and a far better foundation for the new world order to which we look forward."

TALK OF MORRIS FOR BERLIN

Report in Sweden That Minister Will Be Ambassador to Germany.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 30.—The correspondent of The Chicago Daily News at Stockholm, Sweden, cabled his paper today as follows:

"It is reported here that the appointment of Ambassador of the United States to Germany after diplomatic relations are resumed probably will be bestowed upon Ira Nelson Morris, United States Minister to Sweden."

the junkers now feel strong enough to carry the battle against the republic into the open.

Outcry Against Financial Demands.

May 28.—Since extracts of the German counterproposals were made public by the Government this morning pessimism regarding the final peace has increased visibly for two quite contrary reasons. The reactionaries pretend to be shocked at the vast concessions Germany is making and predict that they cannot even be carried out, especially the 100,000,000,000 mark offer which Germany has made instead of the blank check she was required to sign by the Entente. Such payment is considered impossible even if extended, it is declared, not only by the reactionaries, but also in certain financial circles who hate the old Junker class as cordially as any proletarian.

But THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent is informed that the Government in fixing the sum named was advised by financial experts who proved Germany's ability to pay if she had a chance to live, trusting to great economies connected with the abolition of the old régime and the radical taxation to accomplish the task. The aid of the Entente would be required, however, to reach the billions of German capital which has found its way cross the frontiers. The reactionaries contend that even the German Government's counterproposals are impossible, and they predict Germany's complete collapse in a short time if peace is based upon them.

In democratic and Socialist circles pessimism is growing because it is not believed that the Allies will accept the German counterproposals as a basis for further negotiations, since they must necessarily upset the whole Versailles peace structure, which has taken six months to erect. It is generally feared that the Allies will make a few minor concessions and demand the German signature within a few days; and, although the yearning for peace here is even greater than in the rest of the world, the overwhelming majority of the German people more than ever are determined that the treaty, as it stands must not be signed.

Outside of Berlin and Leipsic, even the organs of the Independent Socialists openly avow this conviction, ridiculing French reports that the Entente's representatives in Berlin are negotiating with Haase for the formation of a new Government which is to take the Scheidemann Cabinet's place and sign the treaty.

Haase Said to be Reluctant.

Haase has received numerous letters and telegrams from his partisans asking if he would really sign, all of which have remained unanswered. But those around him know that he would never burden any Independent Socialist Government with the signing of the Versailles treaty.

At the Foreign Office this morning the opinion was decidedly gloomy, Brockdorff-Rantzau and his staff evidently having impressed those in authority with the suggestion that optimism was not to be encouraged. French-inspired separatist movements in the Palatinate, Hanover, and the Rhenish provinces, and the occupation of Eupen and Moresnet were characterized as evidence that the Entente itself did not believe that Germany could sign the Versailles treaty with whatever small concession would be made, and that the allied generals were preparing a final blow under which Germany must collapse.

At the Chancellery, where the Scheidemann spirit is dominant, the officials seemed more hopeful. It was said that Brockdorff-Rantzau's concluding note would propose a preliminary peace by Whitsuntide, Germany pledging herself to submit to a number of the main conditions with certain reservations mainly concerning territorial questions—this on the suppostion that the Entente will accept the 100,000,000,000 marks offer and immediately lift the blockade and permit Germany to resume international mercantile relations. Such a preliminary peace, if the Allies should consent to it, would, it was argued, offer a chance for detailed discussions which must take months yet before the enormous material could be mastered. It was hoped that the Allies would see that this was the only way to a peace as much to their own as to Germany's interest.

It could not be ascertained if such a note was only planned or had already been drafted. Much will depend on the Entente's attitude towards Brockdorff-Rantzau's preceding notes.

ASSURED BERLIN HE WOULD NOT SIGN

night. Another party will depart tomorrow.

The "São Paulo question" probably refers to the Brazilian claim for coffee confiscated at Hamburg and Antwerp by the Germans at the beginning of the war. A dispatch from Rio de Janeiro on May 2 said that official advices had been received there that the Peace Conference had decided that Germany should pay for the coffee, which was valued at $35,000,000.

BERLIN, May 29, (Associated Press.)—Germany is willing to agree to the proposed stipulations regarding her military, aerial, and naval forces contained in the draft of the Peace Treaty, provided that she is permitted to enter the League of Nations on an equal footing immediately on the signing of peace, and particularly that she be permitted to share in the complete equality and reciprocity of all nations in the economic domain.

This declaration is contained in the second section of the German memorandum embodying the counterproposals to the peace terms. At the same time, it is declared, the German delegation holds to its idea of the superiority of its own draft of proposals for a League of Nations.

While the German Government, in agreeing to accept the stipulations referred to, is thus ready to disarm before the other powers, the memorandum adds, the Government must, on the other hand, demand a transitional period during which it may keep the troops necessary for the maintenance of internal order.

Hoped for a "Peace of Right."

The "covering note" presented to the Peace Conference by the German delegation says:

"We came to Versailles expecting to receive a peace proposal framed according to the agreed basis. We had a firm resolve to do everything in our power to fulfill the heavy obligations assumed by us. We hoped for the peace of right which had been promised us. We were shocked when we read in that document the demands which the victorious might of our opponents had set forth. The more we studied the spirit of the treaty the more we were convinced of the impossibility of carrying it out. The demands in this treaty go beyond the strength of the German people.

"In accordance with President Wilson's fourteen points, no territory ought to be severed from Germany without a plebiscite of all male and female subjects over 20 years of age, voting secretly, and no plebiscite taken until all troops are removed from the disputed territory, which should be placed under the authority of neutral subjects."

The note declares that people must not be transferred from one sovereignty to another for the sake of timber and zinc, and offers to supply Belgium with timber insead of giving up Eupen. It also repeats the offer previously made regarding the Sarre Valley, and points out that the French mines will be completely restored in ten years, while the transfer of the mines as the Entente proposes will give a hundred times the French production.

The belief that "Germany will sign anyhow," despite the expressions of her leaders, is based wholly on a false interpretation of the facts, the Tageblatt says.

"In the same measure as the German people no longer desire to surround themselves with illusions," the paper says, "it is urgently desirable that the allied countries also be robbed of their illusions. They must be told repeatedly that the German Government and the German peace delegation are one in determination not to sign the allied terms in their present form."

Accuses Wilson of Insincerity.

"The theme of President Wilson is a very ticklish one," was a statement made by Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, chief of the German peace delegation at Versailles, according to the correspondent of the Deutsche Zeitung, "for Mr. Wilson is the father of our surrender of arms. The German people counted on him, and has voluntarily made itself defenseless on his Fourteen Points. Our counterproposals were based on them."

The correspondent represents the Count as critical, if not unfriendly, toward America. He quotes him as saying that if "the present terms are enforced the conclusion must be drawn that all declarations during the war, especially those of President Wilson, were nothing less than a military ruse which deceived the German people and Government."

Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, according to the correspondent, denies persistent stories as to differences between members of the delegation and the Cabinet, and says that the meeting at Spa was necessary only because faulty wire connections prevented communication between Versailles and Berlin.

DRESDEN, May 29, (Associated Press.)—The Anzeiger today attacks the Government for its failure to submit the German counterproposals to the peace treaty to the National Assembly before delivering them to the Entente. The newspaper states that this violates the revolutionary principle of the right of self-determination, and points out that under the old régime no action was legal until approved by the Bundesrat. The editorial concludes by declaring that the National Assembly will hold the Government responsible for the constitutional, political, and historical effects of such procedure.

THINK BERLIN PLEA WILL FAIL.

Paris Press Believes That It Will Be Rejected by the Peace Conference.

PARIS, May 30.—The Paris newspapers generally agree that the Allied and Associated Powers have answered in advance the pretensions put forth in the German counterproposals, and that they will not consider them. The papers say that the counterproposals are an attempt to escape the moral and material consequences of the war and give the impression that Germany is trying to open oral negotiations.

The Socialist L'Humanité declares that Germany cannot reject responsibility for the acts of the Imperial régime. It says that the Germans dismissed the former Government in order to gain absolution. It adds that Germany in 1871 did not stop the advance of its army because the French had revolted against the Imperial Government.

BRITISH JEWS PROTEST.

Urge the Ending of Pogroms and Punishment of Guilty.

LONDON, May 30.—The Committee of Deputies of British Jews and the Anglo-Jewish Association have sent a telegram to the Council of Four expressing on behalf of British Jews "horror at the continuance of the cruel pogroms against the Jews of Poland."

The message urges the allied and associated leaders at the conference "to use their best endeavors to put an end to the murders and outrages and punish the offenders."

STIRRING PARADES HONOR WARS' DEAD

Olive Drab Appears with Blue and Gray at Memorial Day Exercises.

AGED VETERANS IN LINE

Thinning Ranks of Civil War Survivors Cheered by Throngs Throughout the City.

MASS IN BATTERY PARK

Impressive Exercises Also at Grant's Tomb and Soldiers and Sailors' Monument.

Parades in which the survivors of the civil war marched with their younger comrades of the great European struggle; an impressive field military mass in Battery Park in memory of the American boys who made the supreme sacrifice in the war against the Teutonic powers; the time-honored exercises in front of Grant's Tomb, and at the Soldiers and Sailors' Monument on Riverside Drive, made yesterday a Memorial Day that New York will not soon forget. The European veterans were not in line in any great number, but there were enough to presage to those who watched the marching columns that Memorial Days of future years will see not hundreds but thousands of men who fought in France and in Belgium.

Besides the parade in Riverside Drive there were also parades in Brooklyn, the Bronx, and in Queens. In all of them the veterans of the civil war, the gray as well as the blue, shared honors with men who had volunteered against Spain and those who fought under Foch and Pershing. Great crowds everywhere lined the sidewalks and cheered the veterans of the three wars that America has fought in the past fifty-nine years.

Archbishop Hayes presided at the field mass in Battery Park. It was one of the most inspiring memorial ceremonies ever witnessed in New York and was attended by a throng of more than 10,000 persons. Impressive exercises were conducted at Grant's Tomb and at the Soldiers and Sailors' Monument.

The weather, in contrast to last year when a cold drizzly rain marred the celebration, was perfect.

A handful of the men, who were sent to the front by this city from fifty-eight to fifty-four years ago, marched on Riverside Drive, escorted by thousands of the second and third generations of fighting men who fought under the Stars and Stripes since that time. Though the ranks were thinner and many noted veterans were missing who had marched with their comrades in every Decoration Day parade heretofore, the men of the Grand Army of the Republic, under their tattered colors, made a more inspiring sight than ever. The crowds again and again broke into applause at the fine, soldierly bearing of men who retained the military stamp in every line of their faces and in every movement, although their battlefields are more than half a century old.

Veterans Carry Swords.

Most of them seemed to have escaped for the day from the infirmities of age. Erect and stern in appearance, they marched to "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," and other Civil War tunes, as if some morning out of the Sixties had turned up in 1919. Scores of the veterans carried swords, which flashed in the bright sunlight, and held them precisely to their shoulders. Many of the Posts boasted veterans sturdy enough to carry their big flags, which however taxed the gameness of the white old standard-bearers to the limit. In several of the Posts veterans had called in their grandsons, soldiers of the Great War, to lend them a hand with the colors.

Many were too old and others had been too badly shot up on the battlefield to act as exponents of the Civil War drill manual. Some of them put the utmost strain on the vitality to move along supported on either side by a comrade. One man in blue with a battered campaign hat tapped the asphalt with a cane in one hand, while holding the arm of another veteran with his other hand. As he approached nearer, the crowd could see that he was blind. Many hobbled painfully with the aid of canes. Several had empty sleeves.

Ten of the old Zouaves, marching in two sections, made bright spots in the line with their uniforms of pre-camouflage days, with baggy red trousers and red headgear. Bringing up the rear of the G. A. R. section of the parade were automobile loads of veterans who, on account of advanced age, the loss of a leg or sickness, were unable to march. Three of the carriages were filled with old negro soldiers, who were applauded by the crowd all along the drive.

The Grand Army of the Republic adopted as honorary auxiliaries a number of American citizens who fought for France in the Franco-Prussian War. These were the survivors of the Battalion Des Gardes Lafayette, led by Captain Arthur Bloom, who acted as a Special Guard of Honor to Comrade John B. Trainer, the Grand Marshal of the parade and his staff. They marched in the uniforms in which they fought for France in 1870 and 1871, with chassepots and ugly bayonets slung over their shoulders. One French soldier of this war, in horizon blue, marched with them. A little girl in a dress made of the French flag marched with them.

The parade, which was led by a battalion of mounted police, started from Seventy-fourth Street and Riverside Drive at 9 o'clock and reached the Reviewing Stand by the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument at 9:35. A body of regulars, many of whom had served abroad and wore decorations, followed. Contingents of bluejackets and marines were scattered through the parade.

First Brigade in Line.

The First Brigade of the New York Guard, marching faultlessly, followed, under the command of Brig. Gen. Dyer. Scattered thickly in their ranks were men who had recently rejoined the Guard after serving abroad, many of them being distinguished by medals and campaign badges.

The marines were covered with medals, decorations and badges which spoke of service in all hemispheres and in the numerous near-wars and policing affairs in which the United States has engaged in Central America and the Caribbeans. The Spanish War Veterans, the Veterans of the Foreign Wars of the United States, the organization of ex-soldiers, sailors, and marines of the Police and War Departments, and other bodies of veterans included men who had fought under the Stars and Stripes in the Philippines, in Cuba, in Porto Rico, in Indian campaigns in this country, at Vera Cruz, in chasing Villa, in China during the Boxer Rebellion, in Santo Domingo, Nicaragua and in most of the minor campaigns which have a place in the military and naval history of the United States in the last twenty years.

A small body of veterans of the present war, who marched in the unit of the American Legion, got a big reception. Some of the other units in the parade were the Army and Navy Veterans, U. S. A.; the Police Reserves, the American Guard Division, the U. S. Junior Naval Reserve, the American Cadets, Knights of the Blessed Sacrament, the Holy Trinity Guard, the American Junior Naval and Marine Scouts, the Motor Corps of America, the New York Turner Cadets, the Xavier Cadet Battalion, the Cavalry Military School, St. Agnes's Cadets, St. Matthew's Cadets, the War Camp Community Service, the Greek-American Boy Scouts, the Manhattan Council of Girl Scouts, the United States Woman Sentry, and the Scottish Highlanders. About a score of bands played during the march.

The reviewing stand was well filled at 9:20 o'clock when Governor Alfred E. Smith, Mayor John F. Hylan, Grover A. Whalen, and Past Department Commander William F. Kirchner, of the Memorial Committee which arranged the parade, arrived and took their appointed places. Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan, who had arrived with his former staff somewhat earlier, paid his respects to the State's and city's chief executives. The Guard of Honor at the stand consisted of the Veteran Corps of Artillery of New York, in command of Major Bryce W. Metcalf and the Old Guard of the City of New York, commanded by Major Edward Havemeyer Snyder.

Among others in the reviewing stand were: Mrs. James M. Lawton, Colonel E. J. Atkinson, Robert L. Moran, President of the Board of Aldermen; Rear Admiral Charles D. Sigsbee, U. S. N., retired; Henry Clews, C. N. Bliss, Jr.; Major Gen. Charles F. Roe, Job E. Hedges, and Assemblyman Joseph Steinberg.

Monitor Survivor Present.

The Memorial Day exercises at the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument on Riverside Drive, immediately to the rear of the reviewing stand, followed the parade. As the exercises were about to open a Red Cross auto rolled up, and John F. Reilly, 92 years old, of 25 Herkimer Street, Brooklyn, in his Grand Army uniform, was escorted to a seat in front of the speakers' stand, facing the monument. He was so feeble he had to be almost carried to his seat by his daughter, Mrs. Mary Landrey, and the woman Red Cross chauffeur who drove him from his home. Mrs. Landrey said her aged father is the sole survivor of the Monitor, famous for its exploits during the Civil War.

The exercises opened with the singing of "Nearer, My God, to Thee" by the assemblage and 100 women dressed in white, members of Ella Bixby Tent 18, Daughters of Veterans. The invocation was by the Rev. E. S. Holloway, who was followed by the Rev. Christian F. Reisner, who delivered the address. Pointing to the civil war veterans, the speaker said these veterans had fought for something other than themselves when they took up arms to set the black man free. And this self-sacrificing spirit for freedom and liberty, he said, was emulated by the boys who fought in the Spanish-American war.

But a few years ago, Dr. Reisner said, the world was confronted with a war machine without a heart in it, determined on conquering the world. The United States, he said, true to its traditions, got into the fight with the Allies to wage a war for liberty and to make the world safe for democracy. Our men, he said, won the war because they were crusaders, and a crusader never fights for himself, he fights for some one else.

15,000 March in Brooklyn.

Two hundred and fifty women, dressed in white and wearing laurel wreaths and black bands with gold stars, headed the memorial parade in Brooklyn yesterday, where 15,000 marched, including several hundred civil war veterans. Lewis S. Pilcher was Grand Marshal.

The parade marched to Washington Avenue, to Underhill Avenue, to Park Place, to Vanderbilt Avenue, to the Soldiers' and Sailors' Memorial Arch, and then to Ninth Avenue, past the grand stand, where it dispersed.

Colonel Robert Bacon, former Ambassador to France, who died Thursday, was to have reviewed the parade. It was reviewed by Adjt. Gen. Charles W. Berry, Colonel Antoine de Page of the Belgian Army, formerly director of the Belgian Red Cross; General James McLeer, Past Department Commander, G. A. R.; Joseph W. Kay, Department Commander, G. A. R.; General James D. Bell, and others.

Memorial services for Brooklyn men who died in the war were held in the flower garden of Prospect Park at the site of the Brooklyn memorial tablet. A 90-foot steel flagpole, the gift of William H. Todd, shipbuilder, was raised by employes of his shipyard on their own time, and Natalie Todd, the seven-year-old daughter of Mr. Todd, raised a huge flag to the breeze.

Addresses in memory of the Brooklyn heroes who made the supreme sacrifice were delivered by Park Commissioner John N. Harman and County Judge J. Grattan MacMahon. The steel flagpole is the first part of a permanent memorial to be placed on the site. Parents of the dead heroes attended the services and placed wreaths of flowers around the pole.

Memorial Shaft Unveiled.

Tens of thousands of people turned out in the Bronx in the morning where an elaborate parade was held, of which Morris Dietsch was the Grand Marshal and Borough President Henry Bruckner the chief reviewing officer. The Civil War Veterans, 151 in number, including all of the survivors of the Oliver Tilden and Vanderbilt Posts, were the main feature of the parade.

A memorial shaft, a monument to the soldiers who were drafted from local Board No. 2, the Bronx, and who died in the service of their country, was unveiled in the afternoon in the Bronx in the public square at the intersection of Morris and Third Avenues, at 139th Street. The unveiling ceremonies were preceded by a military parade, the grand marshal of which was Lieut. Col. Stratford F. Corbett, of the Medical Corps, 105th Field Artillery.

In the parade were detachments from all the National Guard units from Manhattan and the Bronx, United States Army, United States Marines, United States Navy, Vetrans of Foreign Wars, Y. M. C. A., Salvation Army and Knights of Columbus, as well as various religious, civic and patriotic organizations.

In Trinity Churchyard, the Sons of the American Revolution placed a wreath at the base of the monument erected in memory of the prisoners of war who died in New York in defense of American independence.

Scattered throughout the yard were French, British, and American flags, indicating the resting places of men who were of the nations recently allied with America. With but one or two exceptions the American flags bore the thirteen stars of the Colonies which formed the first American federation.

Alexander Hamilton Post, 182, G. A. R., placed a wreath at the foot of the monument erected by Trinity Corporation to General Hamilton. There was no ceremony. A few aged members of the post acting as a committee entered the yard and placed their memorial offerings.

The Sons of the Revolution decorated the tablet in St. Paul's Church porch erected in memory of General Richard Montgomery.

MEMORIAL TO UPTON DEAD.

Graves in Camp Cemetery Decorated and an Obelisk Erected.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP UPTON, L. I., May 30.—This camp put in the busiest holiday in its history today. In the morning 300 trained nurses, student nurses and reconstruction aids marched with a battalion of infantry to the camp cemetery, three miles from the hospital, to take part in exercises in memory of the soldiers of this camp who are buried there. The graves were decorated, and an obelisk was erected in the center of the grounds.

An address was made by Major R. H. Ferris, Camp Morale Officer; Eric Dudley, Camp Song Leader, led the chorus of nurses and the buglers sounded "taps" over the graves.

Brig. Gen. Nicholson, Camp Commander, said the ceremony was the most beautiful of its kind he ever had seen, and as a boy he swam the Potomac River with his clothes tied on his head to attend the first Memorial Day service at Arlington in 1867.

The exercises were arranged by Captain W. J. Bott of the Base Hospital.

At noon the flag on Headquarters Hill was elevated from half staff, where it had been since sunrise, and a salute of twenty-one guns was fired.

In the afternoon a field and track meet was held at the Base Hospital, where nurses were the principal contestants. Convalescent officers and men took part in several events and the program wound up with a tug of war and a baseball game between teams of nurses. General Nicholson awarded the prizes.

MILITARY MASS IN BATTERY PARK

Throng of 10,000 at Flag-Draped Altar Hear Sermon on God's Plan of Peace.

THE ARCHBISHOP PRESIDES

Giant Seaplane Hovers Over Congregation—Guard of Honor from Governors Island.

Battery Park was the scene yesterday morning of a solemn military mass, which was participated in by Archbishop Hayes and several of the best-known Roman Catholic chaplains of the army and navy. It was estimated that 10,000 persons were grouped about the flag-draped altar in the centre of park, those present including some of the most widely known Catholic laymen, among them Morgan J. O'Brien, Major Gen. Thomas H. Barry, U. S. A., commanding officer on Governors Island; Surveyor of the Port Thomas E. Rush, John Whalen, M. Casenave, the French High Commissioner; Marcel Knecht, also of the French Mission, and Rear Admiral John D. McDonald, Commandant of the Navy Yard in Brooklyn.

The altar was erected in the bandstand, the only decorations being American flags and a great number of green palms. The music was furnished by the 22d U. S. Infantry band. In the procession from the Rectory of Our Lady of the Rosary, in State Street, to the altar in the park there were more than fifty priests, the column headed by the Paulist Boys' Choir and a guard of honor from Governors Island.

The mass was in memory of the soldiers and sailors who "gave their lives for the liberty of the United States of America during the late war." Archbishop Hayes, who is also the Chaplain Bishop of the army and navy, presided, the Right Rev. Mgr. George J. Waring, who is a Major Chaplain of the regular army, was the celebrant; Chaplain John J. Brady of the navy was the Deacon, Father Paul J. Ritchie of the army the sub-Deacon, the Rev. Father John J. Byrne, also an army Chaplain, the Master of Ceremonies, and the sermon was preached by the Rev. Father Joseph J. Fleming, U. S. N., the Chaplain of the Knights of Columbus.

While the procession from the Rectory of Our Lady of the Rosary was slowly making its way to the altar, a giant seaplane from the Rockaway Park Naval Air Station circled above the park, two transports laden with returning soldiers slowly steamed past the Battery on the way to North River piers, while a little later on a ferryboat crowded with cheering soldiers just landed from transports steamed by the Battery on the way to the railway terminal in Long Island City, en route to Camp Upton for discharge back into civil life.

In the course of his sermon Father Fleming said:

"Humanity's eyes are fixed upon that little group of men over there in Paris; humanity's heart is yearning, humanity's lips are craving peace, a peace that will never again be broken. A blessed dream surely, and, better still, a dream not too big for realization. We are asking only what God wants us to enjoy.

"Such a peace may be ours, but we must go to the foot of the Cross to find it, nations as well as individuals. There is the one place where a genuine peace program can be arranged and a lasting peace pact be written. For peace is the Lord's own. He purchased it with His Precious Blood. Who can deny that to Him belongs the dispensation?

"Our present bewildering problems were solved over nineteen centuries ago; it remains for us to make that Gospel our own and live our lives according to its provisions. We need no other philosophy, in that we have God's own guidance. Is it not inconceivable then that a sin-blinded, incredulous world should achieve temporal or eternal happiness by methods of its own devising? Where God's saints have trod is the way of peace, and that road leads out of Bethlehem to the hill of Calvary.

"Our purpose here today is to reverence the memory of the boys in blue and khaki who bled and died not merely as Americans, but as American children of God. They are enshrined in our Catholic hearts, regardless of creed or color. They are ours to love, they are ours to remember, but their love and their remembrance must have a spiritual meaning. They are our brothers by American citizenship but above all else our brothers by the wondrous kinship of the Lord's redemption. Let our prayers by a prayer for peace—His peace—on His terms. Peace for our beloved nation and the continuance of divine favor, peace for the heroes who await the resurrection in the folds of the Stars and Stripes. May the blessing of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, descend upon our glorious republic and remain with us always, to defeat the powers of derkness and to safeguard the heavenly heritage bequeathed to us by our martyred dead, and may God be good to the boys who did not come back."

At the conclusion of the service "The Star-Spangled Banner" was sung by Miss Margaret Keyes of the Metropolitan Opera Company. Archbishop Hayes pronounced the benediction.

SERVICE AT GRANT'S TOMB.

G. A. R. Conducts Exercises in Memory of Civil War Veterans.

Memorial services were held yesterday at the tomb of General Grant in Riverside Park under the auspices of U. S. Grant Post 327, Grand Army of the Republic. About 500 persons were present and about 85 veterans of the civil war took part in the services. The services opened with a salute fired by the U. S. S. Seattle stationed in the Hudson River off Grant's Tomb. The Seattle was commanded by Captain E. S. Kellog, who was present. Commander Fenwick U. Hedley, Chairman of the Memorial Day Committee, presided.

Professor Samuel P. Orth, Ph. D., of Cornell University was the principal speaker. The other speakers were Commander Lewis S. Pilcher, G. A. R.; William C. Peckham, Post Adjutant, G. A. R.; Commander George W. Keeler. Chaplain Edward E. Stewart of the G. A. R. offered prayer.

Following the services the veterans marched into Grant's Tomb, where closing services were held. The Edna White Trumpet Quartet led the procession into the tomb. Benediction was said in the tomb and a prayer was offered for the men who fought in the civil war.

18,000 IN QUEENS PARADE.

Contingent of 1,200 Overseas Veterans Cheered Along the Line.

Eighteen thousand men, women and children of the Fourth Ward marched yesterday in Queens' biggest Memorial Day parade. General Robert Alexander, U. S. A., reviewed the marchers from a grandstand at Hillside and Clinton Avenues, Jamaica. Among the marchers were 1,200 seasoned overseas veterans, who are stationed at Camp Mills. These received an ovation all along the line, which extended for five miles, from Union Course, through Woodhaven, Richmond Hill and Jamaica.

The veteran troops were led by their own military band. A number of wounded veterans were carried in automobiles, driven by the Women's Motor Corps. Other service men in line included a United States Naval contingent, with their band. The 13th Coast Artillery Corps, New York Guard, also paraded, under command of Colonel Clarence W. Smith.

There were seven divisions altogether, made up of the various organizations and clubs of the ward, war work activities' organizations, letter carriers, Boy Scouts, veteran firemen, police reserves, and women of the Red Cross.

The Jamaica and St. Mary's Hospitals had a section in the parade. A body of thirty-five nurses marched, forming a square, in the center of which was a float depicting the interior of a modern hospital room. A soldier was shown reclining on a hospital bed, with two nurses in attendance.

After the parade the overseas veterans were entertained at the Jamaica Canteen by the National League members from Hollis. The boys consumed 2,000 sandwiches, as many crullers, and many gallons of ice cream, also gallons of steaming coffee.

THE G. A. R. MEMORIAL.

Special Musical Program Given at Exercises in Carnegie Hall.

Memorial exercises under the auspices of the G. A. R. were held last night at Carnegie Hall. Several thousand persons listened to an elaborate musical program prepared by the committee. After invocation by the Rev G. A. Carstensen the audience joined in singing "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Robert L. Moran, President of the Board of Aldermen, was presiding officer, and made a short talk on war conditions, contrasting the world war with the civil war.

MERCIER ADDRESSES OUR MEN IN ANTWERP

Speaks in English and Gives Them a Message of Gratitude to America.

ANTWERP, May 30, (Associated Press).—Memorial Day was celebrated here by a solemn high mass at Antwerp Cathedral, attended by Cardinal Mercier, Primate of Belgium, who delivered his sermon in English to the American officers and men of the military base, to whom he gave this message for the American people:

"While praying for the heroes who laid down their lives for the cause of liberty, and full of admiration for the stubbornness of the brave battalion surrounding us here in the Cathedral of Antwerp, we remember with the deepest gratitude the generous assistance of the gallant American people.

"On this Memorial Day we send our heartiest congratulations to the worthy sons of those heroic forefathers who set the example of valor for the conquest of freedom and independence."

The Rev. George Van Goethem and the Rev. Lucien Gheude of the Knights of Columbus officiated at the mass.

HONOR DEAD AVIATORS.

Naval Fliers Drop Floral Offerings Into Sea Near Chatham.

CHATHAM, Mass., May 30.—Crews from the naval air station here dropped flowers upon the sea today in memory of former comrades who lost their lives in seaplane accidents. Two planes carried the floral offerings, one going to a point off Provincetown where Lieutenant J. S. Buchanan of Boston, Ensign John G. Howard of Rochester, N. Y., and Bernard Tornes, a radio operator, are believed to have been drowned on April 25 after their seaplane became disabled.

The other machine strewed its flowers outside the harbor of Orleans in memory of Lieutenant Charles L. Ostridge of Watertown and Quartermaster Herbert Hartenstein of Reading, Penn., who were drowned by the fall of a training plane on May 19.

CAPITAL HONORS NATION'S WAR DEAD

Congress Adopts Resolution Expressing Country's Gratitude to New Patriots.

MANY MEMORIAL SERVICES

Secretaries Baker and Wilson Interpret Significance of This Year's Observance.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The first Memorial Day after the close of the great war was solemnly observed in the national capital today, the nation's heroes of earlier wars sharing its tribute with those who fell in the recent struggle to maintain the liberties and ideals of America.

Memorial exercises were held at Arlington National Cemetery, the United States Soldiers' Home, and at other points, under the auspices of the G. A. R., United Spanish War Veterans and allied organizations, which participated in the annual parade earlier in the day. A special committee decorated the Tomb of the Unknown Dead at Arlington as a tribute to American soldiers who fell in France. Special exercises also were held at the mast of the U. S. S. Maine at Arlington.

Addressing a memorial gathering at Battle Ground National Cemetery, Vice President Marshall called upon Americans to cultivate reverence for all events and places sacred in the nation's history as an inspiration and stimulus to higher ideals. Americans should feel, he said, the spiritual life of their departed heroes.

"The American soldier who lies beneath the soil of France," said the Vice President, "or in the Philippine Islands, or his own beloved country, is not dead, nor will he die. And when the roll is called let us answer for him: 'Absent in the discharge of duty.'"

With the Senate not in session, members of the House devoted the day to paying tributes "to those who served or gave others to the service of the country in the great war," and many expressions of gratitude were pronounced by representatives during consideration of a resolution tendering the thanks of Congress to the new patriots.

The House continued its work except on the floor, where the time was devoted solely to the resolution, which was introduced by Republican Leader Mondell and framed after conferences with Democratic and Republican leaders.

Representative Johnson, Republican, of South Dakota, who presided, was given an ovation when he took the chair, his colleagues recalling that he left his seat in Congress for service abroad, in which he was wounded.

To those who served in the armed and auxiliary forces at home and abroad, the resolution tendered the thanks of Congress and "its deep and heartfelt sympathy to those whose kindred fell or were permanently disabled in the great struggle," concluding:

"That Congress reverently expresses its profound appreciation of the sublime act of those who made the supreme sacrifice by giving their lives for their country and their country's cause."

The significence of Memorial Day this year was interpreted in statements by Secretaries Baker and Wilson and Acting-Secretary of State Polk.

"The spiritual progress of America," said Secretary Baker, "is shown by our addition of fresh glory to this day set apart to memorialize the nation's heroic dead. There is no division of its ancient significence, but fresh meaning is added by those who have died on foreign soil to perpetuate the liberties for which their ancestors gave their lives at home."

Secretary Wilson appealed to the labor forces of the country, especially to recognize that it is their privilege to carry on the work for which the nation's heroes have died.

"While the war was on," said Secretary Wilson, "our slogan was, 'Labor Will Win the War.' In this period of reconstruction it is in labor's hands the tools are placed. Let us build a permanent memorial, indeed a memorial whose foundation is American pluck and perseverance, and whose structure is American integrity and loyalty."

BAKER AT CAMP MERRITT.

War Secretary Pays Tribute to Dead and Decorates Two Soldiers.

Secretary of War Baker made a flying visit to Camp Merritt yesterday, delivered a Memorial Day address to some 25,000 soldiers at the camp, pinned French War Crosses upon the breasts of two returned soldiers—Sergeant Zilas Dinger of Headquarters Company, 23d Infantry, and Sergeant Edwin Beard, formerly of Company M, 23d Infantry, now with Company I, 13th Infantry—and later made a brief inspection of the big camp at the invitation of Major Gen. George B. Duncan, camp commander.

Secretary Baker said there was a twofold purpose in having the exercises—one in celebration of the return of the men from overseas and the part they played in the war, and the other in memory of the men who gave their lives in France. "These men are not just dead and buried," said Secretary Baker. "Their spirit will live on forever, the same as the men who gave their lives in the War of the Revolution and in the civil war."

BRITAIN PAYS HONOR TO AMERICAN DEAD

Graves of Soldiers, Sailors, Lusitania Victims, and Others Are Decorated.

LONDON, May 30.—The graves of 1,562 United States soldiers and sailors were decorated today in many parts of the United Kingdom. American flags were placed above them by army and navy officials and on each a wreath was placed by representatives of the Knights of Columbus.

Among the American graves are 500 on the Island of Islay, where were buried the victims of the Othanto and Tuscania disasters; 640 at Everton and in Magdalen Cemetery, Winchester, near the site of the former huge American rest camp; 100 at Paignton; 112 at Glasgow, being those of American soldiers stricken by influenza and taken from the transports at that port; 41 in small towns and villages in England and Scotland and 40 in various parts of Ireland. In each cemetery services were conducted by the local clergy, large numbers of the townspeople turning out to pay tributes to the Americans.

A special train bearing prominent Americans left here this morning for Brentwood Cemetery, where short services were conducted. The American Women's Club placed flowers on 129 graves of Americans there.

Chaplain Anderson conducted the services at Brentwood, which concluded with the firing of a volley and the playing of taps and the British and American anthems. Among those who attended the services were Consul General Skinner, Colonel Smith, the Earl of Meath and representatives of the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of London and the British Red Cross. There were also a number of American soldiers, sailors and nurses and representatives of various Anglo-American organizations. Viscount Northcliffe, who is ill in France, sent a wreath of lilies and orchids.

Some members of the Arrangements Committee left London several days ago with flags and wreaths to be placed on lonely graves in distant parts of the island. The committee was composed of Ambassador Davis, Consul General Robert P. Skinner, Brig. Gen. John Biddle, Rear Admiral Harry S. Knapp, Sir Arthur Stanley, Chairman of the Joint War Committee of the British Red Cross, and Sir Stuart Campbell and Major John Evelyn Wrench of the English Speaking Union.

Captain Piers W. Legh represented the Prince of Wales, who sent a wreath of laurel and lilies tied with red, white, and blue ribbon.

At St. Etheldreda's Church in Holborn, London, Father Kennedy said a special mass.

The service at Queenstown was attended by the American Consul and Vice Consul, the Consul making a speech. Flowers were laid on the graves of the Lusitania victims.

At Liverpool and Islay, as well as at Queenstown, flowers were scattered on the water in memory of those buried at sea.

MOTHERS CABLE TO FRANCE.

Pay a Tribute of Tender Reverence to American Graves.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 30.—The American War Mothers, of which Mrs. Alice M. French of this city is national President, sent the following cable message to President Wilson today:

"With tear-dimmed eyes and aching hearts, we American War Mothers wish you to express our gratitude to the people of France for their tender reverence for the graves of our boys on this Memorial Day."

TELEGRAPHERS' UNION SENDS AN ULTIMATUM

Threaten a Nationwide Strike Unless Men, Discharged at Atlanta, Are Reinstated.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—According to announcement here by F. H. McDowell, Chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Washington District Council, President S. J. Konenkamp of the International Commercial Telegraphers' Union tonight sanctioned an ultimatum sent today to officials of the American telephone and telegraph and other wire companies at Atlanta, in which a nationwide strike of members of the Telegraphers and Electrical Union workers is threatened, unless several telephone operators, recently discharged in Atlanta and vicinity, are reinstated by noon today.

OUR SOLDIER DEAD HONORED IN FRANCE

French Troops Participate in Exercises for Their Fallen American Brothers-in-Arms.

NOT A GRAVE OVERLOOKED

Pershing and Large Force at Romagne Ceremonies—Wallace Decorates Lafayette's Tomb.

PARIS, May 30.—Not a grave of any American who fell in the great war was overlooked in today's observance of Memorial Day in France. Some of the services were held in the vicinity of the battle-line along which the troops fought and sacrificed their lives—in the cemeteries where they were laid to rest. Others took place near the hospital centers further back, where those whose wounds finally caused their death have been buried.

Hugh C. Wallace, American Ambassador to France, went to the Picpus Cemetery in the outskirts of Paris this forenoon and laid a wreath on the tomb of Lafayette.

The most notable events of the day were at Suresnes near Paris, and at Romagne, near the Argonne. President Wilson left the labors of the Peace Conference to go to the former place for an address in the American Cemetery there, while General Pershing went to Romagne, near the spot where the Americans suffered their heaviest losses in the fighting, to speak at the exercises this afternoon. The 2,500 soldier dead at Romagne were honored by the attendance of a battalion of infantry, a battery of artillery and a regimental band, while similar detachments took part in the exercises at other large cemeteries.

Marshal Petain, commander of the French Army, gave directions to French troops near the places where the American dead were buried to pay tribute to their fallen comrades-in-arms from overseas. The Marshal notified General Pershing of this action in a letter, which read:

"I have invited French troops stationed near American cemeteries to go and salute their brothers-in-arms, fallen for the safety of their land and the liberty of the world. Later, when you have left Europe, rest assured that the same rites will be rendered them and with the same fervor. The remembrance of these valiant men will endure in our hearts."

The tributes to the memory of their fallen comrades over, the members of the American Expeditionary Force, from the Rhine to the sea, spent the remainder of the day in taking part in and witnessing athletic events of various kinds.

ROMAGNE, France, May 30, (Associated Press.)—Americans, fighting men of the great war homeward bound, paused today to pay a tribute to the memory of the Argonne dead—roughly, 30,000 of them—many of whom were buried on the battlefield where they fell.

The principal Memorial Day exercises were held at Argonne Cemetery, on the outskirts of Romagne, the largest American burial ground in Europe. General Pershing, commander of the American Expeditionary Forces, made the chief address here, where 9,572 officers and men are buried, and of whom only 160 remain unidentified.

Argonne Cemetery lies on the side of a gently sloping hill just outside Romagne, on ground captured by the 32d Division late in October last. Each grave was decorated with an American flag and a wreath of evergreens from the Argonne Forest. Twenty-thousand who fell in America's greatest battle in France are yet to be moved from where they now sleep to this monument to America's sacrifice and America's greatest effort in the world war.

In the Argonne Cemetery there are Americans from every State in the Union. Their bodies lie in long lines of tiers, forming a plot of approximately thirteen acres. A cross rests at each one's head, bearing the name and unit of those who died in the struggle to push the Germans back from whence they came.

When complete the cemetery will cover twenty-five acres, Romagne having been selected because of its central location. There are paths which are narrow and straight, leading to every grave, effecting a scene of orderliness not to be associated with the confusion of war. But back on the hill, where German machine gunners waited for the Americans swarming over the slope, where 9,000 of the boys from across the sea lie today, there are still sights and scenes of war-shattered houses, shelled terrain and unsightly ruins of the material of war.

In addition to the ceremonies at Romagne exercises were held at Thiaucourt, where 4,000 Americans are buried. There were ceremonies also in the small cemetery near Montfaucon, southeast of Romagne, where men of the 79th Division fell in the capture of Montfaucon, for which the Germans fought desperately.

Many Do Homage at Roosevelt's Grave.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., May 30.—A steady stream of persons today visited the grave of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and paid homage to the memory of the late President. Many flowers were left on the grave at Young's Memorial Cemetery. One large wreath was placed there by a ten-year-old child, and a large pillow, with blue flowers, to represent the original thirteen States, was placed on the grave on behalf of Mitchel Post, G. A. R.

TAFT SURE OF LEAGUE.

Does Not Doubt the Senate Will Approve It, He Says.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 30.—Former President William H. Taft spoke tonight in Convention Hall on the covenant of the League of Nations and its connection with the peace treaty. He said the peace treaty was dependent for its execution upon the machinery provided by the covenant of the League.

"If, and when, the Germans sign the treaty the President will bring it back home and submit it to the Senate as a single document," he said, "the constitutional function of the Senate will be to consider the treaty and to ratify or reject it. It may reject conditionally, stating the conditions upon which it does ratify. The ratification can only become absolute and effective upon the acceptance by the other countries of the amendments contained in these conditions."

No one could initiate peace except the President, under the Constitution, and no one could make a protocol of peace except the President, he said, and if the President should deem it essential that the Senate act on the treaty as he submitted it there could be no protocol as long as he maintained that attitude. The consent of Germany, too, would be required. Any proposals to amend would postpone indefinitely the coming of peace between Germany and the United States, while Germany would be at peace with all the other great powers.

"I do not doubt that the great majority of the people of the United States and the needed majority of the Senators of the United States will approve this League," Mr. Taft concluded.

expressed appreciation of the debt owed to Americans "who had died to save France."

Text of the President's Address.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The text of President Wilson's Memorial Day address at Suresnes Cemetery, near Paris, made public here in Washington today, was as follows:

"Mr. Ambassador, ladies and gentlemen, fellow-countrymen:

"No one with a heart in his breast, no American, no lover of humanity, can stand in the presence of these graves without the most profound emotion. These men who lie here are men of a unique breed. Their like has not been seen since the far days of Crusades. Never before have men crossed the seas to a foreign land to fight for a cause of humanity which they did not pretend was particularly their own, but knew was the cause of humanity and of mankind.

"And when they came, they found comrades for their courage and their devotion. They found armies of liberty already in the field—men who, though they had gone through three years of fiery trial, seemed only to be just discovering, not for a moment losing, the high temper of the great affair, men seasoned in the bloody service of liberty. Joining hands with these, the men of America gave that greatest of all gifts, the gift of life and the gift of spirit.

"It will always be a treasured memory on the part of those who knew and loved these men that the testimony of everybody who saw them in the field of action was their unflinching courage, their ardor to the point of audacity, their full consciousness of the high cause they had come to serve, and their constant vision of the issue.

"It is delightful to learn from those who saw these men fight, and saw them waiting in the trenches for the summons to the fight, that they had a touch of the high spirit of religion, that they knew they were exhibiting a spirit as well as a physical might, and those of us who know and love America know that they were discovering to the whole world the true spirit and devotion of their motherland.

"It was America who came in the person of these men, and who will forever be grateful that she was so represented.

"And it is the more delightful to entertain these thoughts because we know that these men, though buried in a foreign land, are not buried in an alien soil. They are at home, sleeping with the spirits of those who thought the same thoughts and entertained the same aspirations. The noble women of Suresnes have given evidence of the loving sense with which they received these dead as their own, for they have cared for their graves, they have made it their interest, their loving interest, to see that there was no hour of neglect, and that constantly through all the months that have gone by the mothers at home should know that there were mothers here who remembered and honored their dead.

"You have just heard in the beautiful letter from M. Clemenceau what I believe to be the real message of France to us on a day like this—a message of genuine comradeship, a message of genuine sympathy, and I have no doubt that if our British comrades were here they would speak in the same spirit and in the same language. For the beauty of this war is that it has brought a new partnership, and a new comradeship, and a new understanding into the field of the effort of the nation.

"But it would be no profit to us to eulogize these illustrious dead if we did not take to heart the lesson which they have taught us. They are dead; they have done their utmost to show their devotion to a great cause, and they have left us to see to it that that cause shall not be betrayed, whether in war or peace.

"It is our privilege and our high duty to consecrate ourselves afresh on a day like this to the objects for which they fought. It is not necessary that I should rehearse to you what these objects were.

"These men did not come across the sea merely to defeat Germany and her associated powers in the war. They came to defeat forever the things for which the Central Powers stood, the sort of power they meant to assert in the world, the arrogant, selfish domination which they meant to establish; and they came, moreover, to see to it that there should never be a war like this again. It is for us, particularly for us who are civilized, to use our proper weapons of counsel and agreement to see to it that there never is such a war again. The nation that should now fling out of this common concord of counsel would betray the human race.

"So it is our duty to take and maintain the safeguards which will see to it that the mothers of America, and the mothers of France and England and Italy and Belgium, and all other suffering nations, should never be called upon for this sacrifice again. This can be done. It must be done. And it will be done.

"The things that these men left us, though they did not in their counsels conceive it, is the great instrument which we have just erected in the League of Nations. The League of Nations is the covenant of Government that these men shall not have died in vain.

"I like to think that the dust of those sons of America who were privileged to be buried in their mother country will mingle with the dust of the men who fought for the preservation of the Union, and that as those men gave their lives in order that American might be united, these men have given their lives in order that the world might be united.

"Those men gave their lives in order to secure the freedom of a nation. These men have given theirs in order to secure the freedom of mankind; and I look forward to an age when it will be just as impossible to regret the results of their labor as it is now impossible to regret the result of the labor of those men who fought for the union of the States.

"I look for the time when every man who now puts his counsel against the united service of mankind under the League of Nations will be just as ashamed of it as if he now regretted the union of the States.

Old Order Still Seeks to Prevail.

"You are aware, as I am aware, that the airs of an older day are beginning to stir again, that the standards of an old order are trying to assert themselves again. There is here and there an attempt to insert into the counsel of statesmen the old reckoning of selfishness and bargaining and national advantage which were the roots of this war, and any man who counsels these things advocates a renewal of the sacrifice which these men have made, for if this is not the final battel for right, there will be another that will be final.

"Let these gentlemen who suppose that it is possible for them to accomplish this return to an order of which we are ashamed, and that we are ready to forget, realize they cannot accomplish it. The peoples of the world are awake and the peoples of the world are in the saddle. Private counsels of statesmen cannot now and cannot hereafter determine the destinies of nations. If we are not the servants of the opinion of mankind, we are of all men the littlest, the most contemptible, the least gifted with vision. If we do not know courage we cannot accomplish our purpose; and this age is an age which looks forward, not backward; which rejects the standard of national selfishness that once governed the counsels of nations, and demands that they shall give way to a new order of things in which only the question will be 'Is it right?' 'Is it just?' 'Is it in the interest of mankind?'

"This is a challenge that no previous generation ever dared to give ear to. So many things have happened, and they have happened so fast in the last four years that I do not think many of us realize what it is that has happened. Think how impossible it would have been to get a body of responsible statesmen seriously to entertain the idea of the organization of a League of Nations four years ago! And think of the change that has taken place!

Finds a New Spirit in the World.

"I was told before I came to France that there would be confusion of counsels about this thing, and I found unity of counsel. I was told that there would be opposition, and I found union of action. I found the statesmen with whom I was about to deal united in the idea that we must have a League of Nations; that we could not merely make a peace settlement and then leave it to make itself effectual, but that we must conceive some common organization by which we should give our common faith that this peace would be maintained and the conclusions at which we had arrived should be made as secure as the united counsels of all the great nations that fought against Germany could make them. We have listened to the challenge, and that is the proof that there shall never be a war like this again.

"Ladies and Gentlemen: We all believe, I hope, that the spirits of these men are not buried with their bones. Their spirits live. I hope—I believe—that their spirits are present with us at this hour. I hope that I feel the compulsion of their presence. I hope that I realize the significance of their presence. Think, soldiers, of those comrades of yours who are gone. If they were here what would they say? They would not remember what you are talking about today.

"They would remember America, which they left with their high hope and purpose. They would remember the terrible field of battle. They would remember what they constantly recalled in times of danger, what they had come for, and how worth while it was to give their lives for it.

"And they would say, 'Forget all the little circumstances of the day. Be ashamed of the jealousies that divide you. We command you in the name of those who, like ourselves, have died to bring the counsels of men together; and we remind you what America said she was born for. She was born, she said, to show mankind the way to liberty. She was born to make this great gift a common gift. She was born to show men the way of experience by which they might realize this gift and maintain it, and we adjure you, in the name of all the great traditions of America, to make yourselves soldiers now once for all in this common cause, where we need wear no uniform except the uniform of the heart, clothing ourselves with the principles of right and saying to men everywhere, You are our brothers and we invite you into the comradeship of liberty and of peace.'

"Let us go away hearing these unspoken mandates of our dead comrades.

"If I may speak a personal word, I beg you to realize the compulsion that I myself feel that I am under. By the Constitution of our great country, I was the commander-in-chief of these men. I advised the Congress to declare that a state of war existed. I sent these lads over here to die. Shall I—can I—ever speak a word of counsel which is inconsistent with the assurances I gave them when they came over? It is inconceivable.

"There is something better, if possible, that a man can give than his life, and that is his living spirit to a service that is not easy, to resist counsels that are hard to resist, to stand against purposes that are difficult to stand against, and to say, 'Here stand I, consecrated in the spirit of the men who were once my comrades, and who are now gone, and who left me under ternal bonds of fidelity.'"

BOY SCOUTS SEND MESSAGE.

Decorate Graves in France in Memory of Fathers and Brothers.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Boy Scouts of the United States, by contributions of 2 cents each, purchased the wreaths which President Wilson laid today on the graves of American dead in the military cemetery at Suresnes, near Paris. The wreaths were dedicated to the memory of all American soldiers who fell in defense of the cause of democracy.

Arrangements for placing of the wreaths were made through the White by Colin H. Livingston, President of the Boy Scouts of America, who made public the following cable dispatch sent to teh President, stating the object of the wreath:

"Profoundly touched and inspired by the supreme sacrifice of theih brothers and fathers on the battelfields of France in giving up their lives to save our homes, our liberties, and our civilization, the Boy Scouts of America ask you as their honorary President and as President of the United States, to have placed for them on Decoration Day, upon these sacred burial grounds of France, wreaths of flowers as tributes to the glorious memory of our noble dead."

17 Times As High

How would you convey the size of a magazine edition of a million copies? Try measuring the thickness of a Delineator; you will find there are six to an inch. That makes 72 to a foot and 380,160 to a mile. So each monthly edition of a million Delineators, if piled one copy on top of another, would make a stack $2\frac{6}{10}$ miles high. That is more than 17 times the height of the Woolworth Building. And each Delineator, each month, goes into a family with wants to satisfy and the means to satisfy them. Is it carrying your message?

WARNED CARRANZA OF VILLA'S ACTIVITY

United States Told Him a Year Ago That Big Campaign Was Planned This Spring.

FAILED TO TAKE ACTION

Washington Asks Mexican Government to Explain Why American Arms Were Divided with Villa.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—President Carranza was warned nearly a year ago by the United States Government that Villa contemplated a new campaign on an extensive scale in the Spring of this year. On Oct. 15, and again on Nov. 27 of last year, specifically, Carranza was urged by formal representations by this Government to prepare for the Spring campaign in order that he might be in a position to protect the lives and properties of Americans in Northern Mexico. As far as can be ascertained, he took no steps in this direction.

It was learned today that Villa began preparations for the present campaign early last year. He has been assembling arms and munitions since that time, accumulating funds for his war chest, and mapping out details of the campaign. During the Winter he sent word to his followers to be ready to take the field early in the Spring. He advised them to get their crops in early, as a precaution against famine, for the campaign would start as soon as the grass grew green to insure forage for their horses. All this information came to the Washington authorities from many sources, and it was upon this information that the warnings were sent to Carranza.

Carranza failed to take any action until the Villistas were on the trail and began to cut the railway lines and to isolate bands of Mexican Federal troops. Six weeks ago Carranza had 8,000 men in Torreon, it was reported, with a large supply of arms and ammunition. Instead of moving north in force to engage Villa while the latter's force was scattered over the State of Chihuahua, the major portion of these troops remained in Torreon. The small detachments of troops sent north to garrison cities, towns and camps were easily overcome by Villa, who was thus able to add to his military equipment.

Reports of Villa's policy in the recent capture of Parral have just reached the State Department, and demonstrate why the rebel leader has been able to win the support of even the conscripted Federal troops sent to oppose him. When Parral was captured Villa imprisoned or executed the officers, but told the men he appreciated the fact they were conscripted, and did not hold their conduct against them. He said he had need of their arms and equipment, which belonged to the Mexican government, but that the men were free to return to their homes provided they would give their individual word of honor not to take up arms against him again.

Federal Troops Aid Villa.

Some of these men joined the Villa forces, but others returned to their homes, and on their way spread the news among the Federal troops that Villa would not kill them if they surrendered, whereas they might be killed if they fought. This is declared to account in some measure for the case with which Villa has been able to overcome the Federal troops in the engagements that have taken place thus far.

It was learned today that the Mexican Government has been asked to explain the division with the Villistas of some of the arms and munitions allowed to be imported into Mexico from this country.

It was known that at least some of the munitions recently sent across the border at Carranza's urgent request fell into the hands of Villa. When the rebel leader learned that the arms had crossed the border and had been delivered into the hands of the representatives of Carranza, according to this information, he sent word to certain Carranzistas that unless half of them were turned over to him he would send a force and take them all. The Carranzistas sent back word that if he would permit them to return unmolested into their own camps they would agree to this proposal. Villa then sent a detachment to get the arms.

Decides Not to Seize Oil Wells.

The Mexican Government has decided to abandon its efforts to confiscate the oil properties at Tampico owned by American citizens, according to advices received from Mexico City today. Assurances have been given the State Department that the new petroleum law will not be given retroactive effect and that American oil interests in Mexico acquired prior to May 1, 1917, will be exempted from the "nationization" features of the proposed new law.

This assurance has been given through various channels by the Mexican Government. Formal assurances have been sent to the State Department, it was learned today. In March, Roberto Pesquerra, for the Mexican Government, gave the same assurance to American newspaper representatives in Mexico City, and today Charles A. Douglass, a Washington attorney, who represents the Mexican Government and the Mexican Embassy here, made a similar statement.

Mr. Douglass asserted that the same measure of protection as outlined regarding the petroleum code would be given other foreign investments in Mexico. The exclusion of Mexico from the League of Nations stirred the Mexican authorities to some realization of the seriousness of that country's international position, and they have rightly assumed that the attitude of the Carranza Government toward foreigners and their investments, both during the pre-constitutional period and since the adoption of the constitution, has led in part to Mexico's present predicament.

WASHINGTON, May 30, (Associated Press.)—Reports from the border that Mexican Federal troops were mobilizing at Epalme, Sonora, for shipment in bond through Arizona, en route to Juarez, gave officials here little concern. It was believed here the mobilization began before the Mexican Government could get word to the commanding officer that the State Department had withheld for the present permission for the troops to pass through American territory.

Officials said the American Government officials on the border would not permit the Mexicans to cross the line without instructions from Washington regardless of the fact that the acting Governor of Arizona had not withdrawn his permission for the Mexicans to pass through that State.

Revolutionary Leaders to Confer.

JUAREZ, Mex., May 30.—There will be a meeting of all the revolutionary leaders of importance from all parts of Mexico at the camp of General Carrera, insurgent leader in the State of Nuevo Leon, on the border line between that State and Coahuila, tomorrow, it was announced here today.

The purpose of the meeting is to organize all movements under General Angeles as Chief of the Division of the North of the revolution, with Francisco Villa as second in command. Representatives of General Felix Diaz are expected to be present.

The name of Dr. Vasquez Gomez, now at San Antonio, Texas, is most prominently mentioned as the choice of the revolutionists for President of Mexico.

General Jesus Castro, commanding Federal forces at Chihuahua City, today wired Colonel Escobar, commanding here, that on May 27 half of Villa's forces, under Martin Lopez, attacked San Andres, forty-five miles southwest of Chihuahua City, and were driven off with heavy losses after a twenty-two-hour battle.

EL PASO, Texas., May 30.—"If Washington lets Carranza troops pass through the United States to Juarez, neither I nor any one else will be able to hold my men," said General Villa, on being informed of the Mexican Government's request to bring men from Sonora through the border States on this side of the international line. "I will not be responsible for the lives and property of Americans in Chihuahua if Carranza is given this permit."

The statement was made to an American who left Parral and arrived here on one of the last trains from Chihuahua.

The first squadron of the Fifth Cavalry, stationed at Fort Bliss, has been ordered to the Big Bend district, east of El Paso, to take station under Colonel Langhorne and reinforce the Eighth Cavalry. Major Frank commands the squadron.

AUSTIN, Texas, May 30.—Governor W. P. Hobby must be satisfied that ample protection will be afforded Americans and their property in Mexico before he will give definite approval to the plan to send Mexican troops through Texas, he said today.

In an exchange of telegrams with the State Department at Washington, the Governor pointed out that mere assurances from the department that protective measures will be taken will not be sufficient, and that permission for the Mexicans to enter Texas will be withheld "pending definite advice from the department as to the precautions taken."

Villa Transfers Publicity Bureau.

Special to The New York Times.

DALLAS, Texas, May 30.—Villa has transferred his publicity headquarters from El Paso to Dallas, with Colonel Dario Silvia, his former Military Secretary in charge. Villa's plan, according to Silvia, is to unite the revolting factions of Mexico, many of whom have lost their leaders, under the leadership of General Angeles, conduct a military campaign with smuggled and captured arms and munitions, and cultivate the friendship of the United States.

BUILT ONE SHIP A WEEK.

Last 3 of 52 Vessels in a Year Launched at Port Newark.

Celebrating the anniversary of its first launching the Submarine Boat Corporation launched three ships at its Port Newark yard today, making fifty-two ships launched since last Decoration Day, or one a week. The ships sent down the ways today were the Assinippi, the Caino and the Pawtucket, each of 5,500 tons cargo capacity.

The first two were named by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and the other after the city of Pawtucket, R. I., which won the right to have a ship named after it in a contest conducted by the Shipping Board in the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign. Miss Sylvia Hope Anthony, daughter of G. A. Anthony, superintending engineer of the plant, was sponsor for the Assinippi; Miss Rebekah Fleming of the Washington office of the Shipping Board christened the Caino, and Miss Inez H. Watson of Pawtucket broke the bottle over the prow of the Pawtucket.

With Miss Watson was a party from Pawtucket, including her chaperon, Mrs. William E. Beehan; Darius Goff, Chairman of the Launching Committee, Robert B. Easton and Mrs. Easton, Mayor Robert A. Kenyon and City Solicitor James G. Connolly.

AUSTRIA TO SHIELD RACIAL MINORITIES

Treaty Requires Constitutional Guarantees for Their Protection.

INCOMPLETE SUMMARY OUT

All References to Italy Omitted—Vorarlberg to Remain Austrian.

PARIS, May 30, (Associated Press.)—A summary of the skeleton of the Austrian treaty, submitted to the smaller nations Thursday for examination, is remarkable chiefly for its omissions and reservations. Subject heading after subject heading is followed either by a noncommittal display of blank paper, resembling a censored French newspaper "discussion" of the controversial part of the day's diplomatic developments, or by the statement, "This clause reserved."

This applies particularly to definition of the southern frontier, the reparations clauses, and the question of Italian rights under the political clauses.

The greater part of the summary, in fact, is devoted to those clauses which are practically identical with the corresponding terms of the German treaty.

The new clauses are chiefly those dealing with frontiers, finance, and the internal affairs of the new States and of Austria itself. Under the latter heading come the disputed provisos for the protection of racial minorities in the new States, against which it is understood the representatives of the new States may address a protest to the Council of Four, and also ask for revision of the financial clauses, particularly that part requiring the new States to compensate Austria for public property.

Austria also is bound by the treaty to respect the rights and privileges of racial minorities in what is left to her of her ancient domains, including the right to use their own languages, although Austria is expressly authorized to make the teaching of German obligatory.

The treaty will consist of a preamble and fourteen parts, the preamble and Section 1 embodying the covenant of the League of Nations, as in the treaty with Germany.

Part II. deals with frontiers. The boundary between Austria and Czechoslovakia follows practically the old Bohemian frontier, although, with the reservation of a possibility of making minor changes later. Austria retains on the west her old frontier with Switzerland, the question of the union of Voralsberg with Switzerland having apparently been dropped, despite the plebiscites already undertaken in that province and Switzerland. The southern frontier is not determined in the treaty.

Part III. contains political clauses, including also some of the reserved geographical provisos, and clauses establishing mixed commissions to determine them later.

The sections referring to Italy are all omitted.

Others deal with the future relations of Austria with Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia, Poland, Hungary, and Russia. Here are found the stipulations for the protection of racial minorities, which, so far as the minorities in Austria are concerned, are to be embodied in a "bill of rights," as part of the Austrian Constitution.

Then come parts dealing with Austria's renunciation of all rights outside of Europe, military, naval and aerial armaments, which hereafter will entail virtually no expense for Austria, and the return of prisoners of war.

Part VIII, on reparations, is blank. Part IX, dealing with finance, may be changed as a result of the representations of the new States. The economic clauses and aerial navigation regulations are identical with those in the German treaty.

Part XII, on ports, waterways and railways, provides for commercial outlets southward by water and rail. These details have already been covered in the report of the Inter-Allied Ports, Waterways and Railways Commission. Part XIII contains the international labor convention, and Part XIV various miscellaneous provisions of minor importance.

URGES LOAN TO ITALIANS.

Banker Says Exchange Is Too High to Compete for Italy's Trade.

ROME, May 30, (Associated Press.)—"The United States must put money into Italy, either by developing unexploited resources such as hydro-electric power plants, or by advancing another loan," said George B. Page, an American banker, today. "If America wishes to compete with other countries for the big Italian trade, which amounts to $600,000,000 annually," Mr. Page added, "the rate of exchange on the American dollar must decrease, as it tends to send American prices sky-high.

"Twenty-five cents in German money costs the Italians but 14 cents, while 25 cents in American money costs 45 cents. Obviously American prices quoted in Italy must be three times greater than those of Germany. With their low rate of exchange the Germans will be able to flood the Italian market with every kind of commodity, and thus win back their pre-war commerce in Italy, which was enormous."

JUGOSLAVS BEGIN ATTACK.

Seek to Drive Austrians Back Over Demarkation Line.

BASLE, May 30, (Associated Press.)—An official statement, issued at Laibach by the Jugoslav officials concerning the operations against the German-Austrians, says:

"The German-Austrians at the beginning of May surprised our weak garrisons in Carinthia without reason, repelled them and crossed the line of demarkation. Our attempts to induce them to evacuate this territory failed during negotiations, and later they bombarded our advanced posts incessantly.

"Our soldiers received the order to attack on Wednesday. The attack is developing successfully."

SEES FALLING OFF IN POLICE MORALE

Citizens Union Publication Asserts That Unrest Permeates Entire Department.

SAYS MAYOR BLOCKS TRUTH

Predicts Interesting Developments When Story of Enright Regime Is Made Known.

The Citizens Union, in its publication, The Searchlight, published today, discusses, "What is the matter with the police?" The writer reviews some of the occurrences in the Police Administration during the last few months and declares that apparently the Mayor has tried to scare away attempts to get at the truth.

"For many months past," the article continues, "there have been indications that something was wrong with the Police Department. People began to wonder whether it was showing or was about to show one of its dangerous lapses. A spirit of unrest has permeated the whole department. There has been an unmistakable falling off in the morale of the force. The fine organization which Commissioner Arthur Woods and his able deputies built up appeared to be about to collapse. There were resignations, retirements, demotions of some of the men who had proved their efficiency in the most trying days the city had ever known. Stories of petty graft began to be current. Alarming rumors spread.

"Yet apparently the only concern of the Mayor has been to prevent citizens from getting the truth, to scare them away from all attempts to inquire into whether some of the facts stated were true or false. Instead of profiting by the criticism, he has either ignored it altogether or has gone out of his way to find an opportunity to write commendatory letters to the Commissioner in which he has characterized the interest of citizens as meddlesome interference or satisfied himself by calling names.

"This is not the time or place to present a full record of the police under the Hylan administration, because the chapter is not yet closed. It will at some future time be necessary to begin at the beginning [illegible] consider the whole subject beginning [illegible] the short career of Commissioner [illegible] and covering the régime of his successor, Richard E. Enright, a member of the uniformed force who had long been the leader of a small coterie in the department and had been chiefly known as an officer of the Police Lieutenants' organization. It will then be necessary to tell the whole story of the police under Enright and the story will not be without interest.

"For the present issue of The Searchlight, however, a review of some of the more striking and significant events of the last few weeks must suffice. These events, read in the light of past experience, may not fully answer the question, 'What is the matter with the police?' but we believe they will indicate that something rather serious is the matter and that the citizens of New York ought to be alive to the situation."

A review of the work of the late Legislature so far as it affected the city is presented, and both the Mayor and the Governor are strongly commended for their use of the veto power to protect the city from the annual onslaught of mandatory anti-home-rule payroll drives.

"With the exception of the tax legislation," says The Searchlight, "and the measures affecting the schools the Legislature did very little that could be called constructive. As for reconstructive measures growing out of the war, it merely nibbled at most of them. On the other hand, it cannot be charged with being destructive, even by its harshest critics. Taken all in all, the Legislature paid almost no attention to the recommendations made to it by the Governor in his annual message. So far as effectiveness or broad statesmanship was concerned, the majority leadership fell short of that of the minority."

TRAFFIC CRUSADE EXTENDS.

Patrolmen Are Now Ordered to Watch for Violations.

The five-a-day campaign of the Police Department in which each traffic policeman was ordered to "serve at least five summonses a day, and as many more as you please," with a resulting overcrowding of the Traffic Court, proved yesterday to be even more extensive than it was thought to be on Wednesday, when the plan of the Commissioner was revealed by the finding in the courtroom of a typewritten order purporting to come from Captain John D. Ormsby of Traffic Precinct C, instructing traffic policemen to bring in at least five offenders a day. It became definitely known yesterday that in each precinct orders had been given to at least one patrolman to serve five summonses a day for traffic violations.

When Captain Ormsby was seen last night and asked whether he had issued the order which had been found he refused flatly to say whether or not he had issued it, or to discuss the matter in any way. He said that the rules of the department prevented him from talking, and insisted that if an explanation were to be given it would have to come from the Commissioner himself.

Because of the efforts of the police to make a record the Manhattan Traffic Court has averaged 250 cases a day and the Williamsburg Court has had to handle a like number. The difficulty in disposing of that number of cases has made it necessary to reassign the Magistrates. It was learned yesterday that Magistrate William McAdoo had definitely assigned Magistrate Alexander Brough to take charge of Part Two of the Traffic Court beginning on Monday, and preparations were made to cope with the continuance of the police crusade.

RIBOT FAINTS IN SPEAKING.

Ex-Premier Resumes Address to French Senate After Recovery.

PARIS, May 30, (Associated Press.)—Alexandre Ribot, former Premier and Foreign Minister, and long identified with the political affairs of France, suffered a fainting spell in the course of a discussion on financial matters in the Senate today, but later recovered sufficiently to continue his address.

M. Ribot had been speaking but a short time when he was obliged to stop for a rest. On resuming he fainted and was unconscious for several minutes.

Despite his 77 years and the oppressive heat of the Senate Chamber, he pluckily took up his address again when he recovered, but was compelled to sit while speaking.

M. Ribot said at the outset of his address that the country wanted to know what Germany was going to pay, and in what measure would be realized by the Allies of France the principle of financial solidarity accepted by them in 1914 and 1915. He said that solidarity ought to apply at least to the reparation which Germany owes France.

After reviewing the present situation of the Treasury, M. Ribot remarked that Germany's paying power had been rather gently dealt with and that her burden was light in comparison to the harm she had done France.

Here Minister of Finance Klotz interrupted the speaker. He said in the name of the Government that the discussion was premature, and that he could not follow M. Ribot in the direction he had taken.

Schreyer Dies of Injuries.

Max Schreyer of 278 Palisade Avenue, North Hoboken, who won for himself the sobriquet of "Daredevil" Schreyer by reason of his feat of riding a cycle down a steep incline and looping the loop, died last night at the Fordham Hospital as the result of injuries suffered last Sunday while participating in a Salvation Army carnival in Van Cortlandt Park. With him when he died was his wife who saw the accident.

RUSSELLITES ACTIVE AGAIN.

Open Convention and Move Headquarters Back to Brooklyn.

Followers of "Pastor" Russell, known as the Russellites, who removed their headquarters from Brooklyn to Pittsburgh after the conviction of seven of the leaders on the charge of plotting to discourage recruiting, have returned to Brooklyn and are holding a convention at the Academy of Music, which is scheduled to last four days.

Among the delegates present are all the persons convicted except the leader and successor of the late "Pastor" Russell, Joseph F. Rutherford, who is ill in California. Rutherford was released from the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta following the reversal of a twenty-year sentence by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The convention, the first to be held in Brooklyn in three years, is presided over by C. A. Wise, in the absence of Leader Rutherford.

Clayton J. Woodworth, a co-author of "The Finished Mystery," on which the Federal indictments were partly based, was one of the speakers.

UNLIKELY TO REPEAL DAYLIGHT SAVING

House Committee Refuses to Report Out Rule Making It Rider to Bill.

MAY HOLD HEARINGS ON IT

This Would Cause Delay and Senate Progress Would Be Very Slow.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—It seems unlikely now that the daylight saving law will be repealed. This was indicated when the Rules Committee refused today to report out a special rule, making the repeal a rider on the Agricultural bill, now under consideration in the House. Unless the friends of the repeal are able to force the issue in the House within a few days, final action will probably be delayed until the end of the Summer.

Strong efforts are being made by Congressmen from agricultural districts to force the repeal and it is generally thought that the House would pass the measure if it could be brought up. The opponents of the repeal, however, are just as determined, and will use every parliamentary advantage to prevent the vote being taken.

If the repeal is not made a rider on the Agricultural bill hearings will probably be held by the House committee, which would delay action. The repeal would then have to be passed upon by the House, after which it would go to the Senate, where hearings would be held by the Interstate Commerce Committee. This committee has some of the most important work of Congress before it, with the railroads, telegraphs and telephones, and it is not thought likely that it would allow consideration of daylight saving to interfere with other work. Supporters of daylight saving say that it would be October before the Senate could act on resolution for repeal.

Conflict in the house between "city" and "country" representatives is so keen that the Agricultural Committee will try to bring up the repeal tomorrow in connection with the Agricultural bill. Chairman Haugen, of Iowa, will head the fight. Representative La Guardian, of New York, will make a point of order, if an attempt is made to put the repeal on as a rider.

Hearings will be held at once upon one of the 26 resolutions introduced to put the clock back to the old time. These will begin Monday, and representatives of the United States Chamber of Commerce will appear in opposition. Advocates of daylight saving predict the hearings will continue for a month.

Appeal for Continuation of Daylight Saving.

Tiger Post No. 23 of the American Legion of Honor has addressed a letter to the members of Congress, urging them to continue the daylight saving plan. The organization was one of the early advocates for moving ahead the clock during the Summer, and the agitation to repeal the plan has caused it to make an appeal to the legislators.

SAVE ROCKEFELLER PLANTS.

State Constables Guard Blooms from Automobilists.

SCARBOROUGH, May 30.—Lieutenant Frank Tobey of the State Constabulary assigned a special detail, including Troopers Albert Voris and Edson Holloway, today, to protect William Rockefeller's country place near here against raids on flowers and shrubbery by automobilists.

Hundreds of automobiles hourly pass the Rockefeller place on the Albany Post Road on Sundays and holidays. Many of the tourists have been in the habit of stopping and stealing sprays of tree blossoms, flowers from gardens, and foliage. Not only the theft of the blossoms, but the damage done to trees annoyed the owner, and he tried to guard the property by putting out special deputies in civilian clothes, but the thefts continued. So the State Constabulary was requested to intervene, in the hopes that the presence of uniformed policemen would have a deterrent effect on the motorists.

14,000 TROOPS HOME ON MEMORIAL DAY

Belgian Who Fought for U. S. Returns with Family Long Detained in Brussels.

FOUND BY THE RED CROSS

94th Aero Squadron Is Expected to Arrive Today—Will Be Met by Committee.

There was no holiday for the officers and men at the Port of Debarkation, who toiled yesterday in supervising the disembarking of nearly 14,000 soldiers who arrived from France on five transports. The steamers docking yesterday and the number of passengers on board were the Mobile, 5,114; the Rijndam, 2,047; the Great Northern, 2,980; the Saxonia, 1,273, and the Santa Clara, 1,597.

Returning on the Rijndam was Private Jerome Carron, a Belgian, of New Brunswick, N. J., and his wife and two children, Florence and Filomena, 6 and 8, respectively, from whom he had been separated since 1914. Carron, who belongs to the 310th Field Artillery of the 78th Division, said that when the war broke out he enlisted in the Belgian Army, leaving his wife and children in Brussels. When the Germans took Brussels he was unable to communicate with them, despite the efforts of the Red Cross to aid him. He said that he was discharged from the Belgian Army in 1916 because of wounds he had received, and took a job on a cattle boat plying between American and English ports. When the United States entered the war Carron said he enlisted and went across with his unit. While the 310th Artillery was at the rest area near St. Nazaire he once more invoked the aid of the Red Cross in seeking his wife and children. The Red Cross finally located the family in Brussels and brought them to St. Nazaire. Carron said he had lost three brothers in the war.

The Rijndam brought back the 349th Infantry complete with the exception of the 2d Battalion. The unit was attached to the 88th Division. Besides the troops there were convalescent detachments from the hospital at St. Nazaire, thirty-three army nurses, twelve wives of soldiers, and several Y. M. C. A. workers on board.

Headed by Mayor Edward V. Babcock of Pittsburgh, 200 friends and relatives went to the piers at Hoboken yesterday to meet the Pennsylvania boys on the transport Mobile, which brought back the vanguard of the 80th Division. Other units on the Mobile were the 315th Machine Gun Battalion, the 305th Field Signal Battalion, and the 160th Infantry Brigade Headquarters.

Lieut. Col. William Larned, a member of the Stock Exchange and for ten years tennis champion of the United States, was a passenger on the Saxonia. Colonel H. C. Stebbins of 31 West Fifty-eighth Street returned on the transport. He was decorated with the grade of Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George. The troops on the Saxonia belonged for the most part to the 142d Infantry.

A crap game which officers and men declared lasted practically without intermission for eleven days marked the trip of the Santa Clara, which docked yesterday with casual companies on board. Most of the men on the transport were discharged soldiers and they had plenty of money when they left Bordeaux. One buck private was reported to have won more than $1,000 from his comrades.

Brig. Gen. Arthur Johnson, in command of the 51st Infantry Brigade, arrived on the Great Northern. He said he went to France in November, 1917, and took charge of the service supplies.

The famous 94th Aero Squadron, homeward bound on the transport Louisville, is expected to arrive in port tomorrow. The squadron, which has more aces in its personnel than any other squadron, will be welcomed down the bay by a committee of former members now in New York. The 94th has a record of downing 69 German planes and a large number of observation balloons. Among its commanders have been Major Raoul Lufberry, who was killed; Captain James Norman Hall, author of "Kitchener's Mob," and Captain Edward Rickenbacker, America's leading ace.

DENIES BAUDOUINE'S PLEA.

Removed Trustee of Father's Estate Fails to Reopen Suit.

Supreme Court Justice Erlanger has denied an application by John F. Baudouine to reopen the suit brought against him and his late brother, Charles A. Baudouine, by his daughter, Mrs. Margaret Burke, to remove them as trustees under the will of their father, Charles A. Baudouine, on account of the death of his brother.

The suit in which Mrs. Burke asked the removal of her father and uncle on the ground that they had not served diligently and faithfully and had failed to protect the interests of the plaintiff and others who will get the estate, in which the trustees have the life income, was heard by Justice Erlanger last December. He decided early this month that the plaintiff had made out a proper case for the removal of the trustees, especially because Mrs. Burke's father had indicated on the witness stand that he had taken a hostile attitude toward her.

Charles A. Baudouine died a few days after Justice Erlanger announced his decision and the remaining trustee then asked permission to reopen the case to submit evidence of the death of his brother, in order that a judgment of removal might not be entered against the deceased trustee. In his decision made known yesterday Justice Erlanger rules that the law makes it mandatory for him to enter judgment against the original parties to the action in case of the death of a party before a final judgment is made. The court said that the issues were decided in favor of the plaintiff when the deceased trustee was alive "and she cannot be deprived of her rights as they existed at that time." Justice Erlanger accordingly signed a final judgment removing the trustees.

LAWYER TO PAY DETECTIVE.

Cost of Evidence in Polacco Divorce Suit Fixed at $504.

By a decision of the Supreme Court Dominick G. Riley, a private detective, will recover $504 from Samuel P. Tull, a lawyer, for services in shadowing Giorgio Polacco, formerly conductor at the Metropolitan Opera House, and now with the Chicago Opera Company, when Mme. Clothilde Polacco was seeking evidence for a divorce in 1917, which she obtained last year. The defendant contended that he was not responsible for the payment of the detective's bill.

Riley, who was formerly a Captain of detectives in the Police Department, said he was directed to "put a couple of his best men" on the case, and Riley and his assistants followed Polacco for seven days. The testimony involved Miss Edith Mason, who was a soprano at the Metropolitan.

LAURENCE GINNELL SEIZED IN IRELAND

Member of Parliament Arrested on Charges Growing Out of Speech Made in Athlone.

TROOPS BROKE UP MEETING

Sinn Fein Newspapers Here Quote Speeches of Dunne, Walsh, and Ryan on Visit to Ireland.

DUBLIN, May 30.—Laurence Ginnell, Sinn Fein member of Parliament for West Meath, was arrested to-day on charges made in connection with a speech delivered at Athlone.

British troops broke up a forbidden meeting at Athlone, on May 5. Laurence Ginnell was attempting to address the meeting when the troops appeared. Several persons were wounded.

Ginnell has had a stormy career. Until 1918 he sat in Parliament as an Irish Nationalist, and when he retired was said to hold the record for asking questions. In 1918 he served six months in prison in connection with some disturbances in Ireland. Ginnell is the author of the statement on the Irish question which members of the Sinn Fein have been endeavoring to present to the Peace Conference.

A dispatch from London Thursday said that London newspapers had been displaying prominently paragraphs and articles on reports of an impending new revolt in Ireland. The articles hinted at some imminent drastic action by the British Government.

WHAT WALSH SAID TO IRISH.

Sample Utterances as Quoted by Sinn Fein Organs Here.

The Irish weekly papers published in this city print long descriptions of the visit to Ireland of ex-Governor Edward F. Dunne of Illinois, Frank P. Walsh, and Michael F. Ryan—the visit which resulted in Secretary Lansing informing the three that "in view of the situation created" the American delegates to the Peace Conference would make no further efforts to obtain passports for the Sinn Fein leaders to appear before the Peace Conference. Included in these reports are extensive quotations from speeches made and interviews given by the Irish-American delegates.

The Gaelic American in reporting an interview which Frank P. Walsh gave while in Ireland says that Mr. Walsh was asked "if the people of America recognized the existence of the present Irish Republic as referred to in his (Walsh's) observations," and that Mr. Walsh "replied in the affirmative, adding that they did so along the lines laid down in the declaration of the Entente Allies as to the purpose of the war, and especially the declaration by the American Government as to its purpose in entering in the war."

The same paper quotes Mr. Ryan as saying in a speech:

"We are part of you. Your aims are our aims, your hopes are our hopes, and speaking not only for Americans of Irish lineage, but Americans springing from where they may, we say we stand behind you until you, like us, are given the right of determining for yourselves."

The Irish World in its account of the Dunne-Walsh-Ryan visit quotes Mr. Ryan as saying that "Ireland had no need to speak of being indebted to America—it was America that owed a debt to Ireland"; also that "for more than a generation he had upheld the Irish cause in the States, and today he ranged himself behind Sinn Fein because after the terrible tragedy of Easter Week, 1916, he saw nothing else for the freedom of the motherland."

According to The Irish World, Mr. Ryan also made what appears to be a reference to a future conflict in Ireland, for the paper asserts that Mr. Ryan said that "the leaders in Ireland of this movement might yet discover that some of those who held back would press forward when the time came for the final stroke."

At another meeting arranged in honor of the Americans The Irish World says that De Valera, the Sinn Fein leader, "in welcoming the visitors, declared that Ireland had often been cheated by England, but it had determined never to be cheated again," and that he, De Valera, "thanked God that Ireland had been saved from the European tragedy."

The Gaelic American, in an editorial denouncing the League of Nations, attacks the Rev. Mgr. Lavelle, rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral. After asserting that the "British propaganda" here is about to "manufacture a bogus public opinion in favor of the adoption of the League as originally drafted," it continues:

> Mgr. Lavelle was present at the dinner where the English program was arranged, and he suggested only one change—the substitution of the words "universal peace" for League of Nations—because, he said, some of his people were opposed to the League because of misinformation. That is, he wanted the English scheme camouflaged so as to deceive his people.
> We will beat the English League of Nations as we beat the English arbitration treaties, and our people will stand solidly behind the men who are leading the fight for Ireland, both in Ireland and America.

The Irish World asks Irishmen to write to United States Senators and "let them know what you think of the species of treason they are asked to indorse."

Bullard to Address West Pointers.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Lieut. Gen. Robert L. Bullard, former commander of the Second American Field Army in France and now commander of the Southeastern Division, will deliver the annual commencement address at West Point Military Academy on June 11. Secretary Baker, and probably General March, Chief of Staff, will attend the commencement exercises.

INDIANS TO LEAVE ITALY.

Rome Report of Mutiny Among Troops Discredited in London.

ROME, May 29.—The Canopic the best of the White Star Line steamers plying between Italy and the United States, is reported here to have been requisitioned by Great Britain for the embarkation of Indian troops in Southern Italy. Reports are that a mutiny has occurred among these troops.

LONDON, May 30.—No news has reached London regarding any mutiny among Indian troops in Southern Italy, as reported in a Rome dispatch, and in view of other rumors which have come from Italy recently which were found to have had no basis in fact this report is received here with some reserve.

The steamer Canopic, which sailed from New York on April 22 for Naples and Genoa, arrived at Genoa on May 10. There has been no subsequent report from her.

COMPLAIN OF DELAYS ON WEST SIDE ROUTE

Service, Say Correspondents of the Public Service Commissioner, Has Deteriorated.

CALL THE SCHEDULE SLOW

Fewer Brooklyn Trains, They Assert, Than When Clark Street Tunnel Was Opened.

Complaints have been received by the Public Service Commissioner that the service on the west side subway is bad and daily growing worse, and that instead of thirty trains an hour to Brooklyn there are sometimes delays between them of from eight to ten minutes. At the beginning of the through Brooklyn service, the complainants say, the service was very good but that is has been deteriorating very rapidly.

One of those who have complained is S. Rosenthal, whose letter says in part:

"When this service (to Brooklyn via the Clark Street tunnel) was inaugurated all express trains during the rush hours ran to Brooklyn and trains were run under a headway of only a minute or two. During the past two or three weeks a new system has been put into operation whereby every other express train going down on the west side is diverted at Chambers Street to South Ferry, and the headway has been reduced besides.

"The result of this change is that instead of a train to Brooklyn every two minutes there is now an interval of from eight to ten minutes. This not only causes the trains to be crowded to suffocation, but is the direct cause of the missing of trains at the Atlantic Avenue station by thousands who use the Long Island Railroad.

"The loss of a few minutes in the subway would of itself not be of any considerable consequence, but when this reduced service, with the incidental overcrowding of trains, causes travelers to miss railroad connections, thus forcing them to lose an hour or more in going to and from their homes in the suburbs, you will no doubt agree with me that this should be rectified, and a service given which shall at least be as good as that originally instituted when the Clark Street tunnel was opened.

"The service on this line during the first few weeks after the Clark Street tunnel was opened was excellent, and proved that trains could be run during the rush hours at frequent intervals without overcrowding or undue delay."

Expect Approval of Brazil Cable.

RIO JANEIRO, May 30.—The concession by the Government for construction of a cable between Rio Janeiro and New York via Cuba will come again before the courts shortly, and its approval is expected. The refusal of the Tribunal de Contas early this month to register the contract was based upon a technicality and did not affect the validity of the original concession which the Government has granted.

BRITISH POLICEMEN THREATEN TO STRIKE

Wage Question the Reason in Provinces, but Metropolitan Force Asks Recognition.

GOVERNMENT REFUSED THIS

Commissioner Warns That Men Failing to Report for Duty Will Be Dismissed.

LONDON, May 30.—A strike of policemen in London and in Liverpool and some other provincial cities is threatened. The Metropolitan police of London are balloting on the question, while the men at Liverpool already have voted to stop work next Monday midnight.

The result of the ballot being taken by the Metropolitan police will be announced Sunday. The ballot will decide whether the strike will begin Tuesday. A majority of the Metropolitan force is said to be in favor of a strike.

While the question of wages is the reason for the threatened strikes in the provinces, it is not involved in London. The Government has agreed to increase the wages of the Metropolitan force, to be retroactive to April 1. The policemen want recognition of their union and the reinstatement of certain men who were dismissed. The Government has refused these demands.

General Sir C. F. N. Macready, Commissioner of the Metropolitan police force, today issued an order that any officer or man failing to report for duty would be dismissed and that under no circumstances would he be permitted to rejoin the force. The Commissioner announced further that he would not accept the excuse that the men were unable to parade because of intimidation. The order concluded:

"Officers and men will, if necessary, defend themselves by all legitimate means if they are interfered with."

The police trouble promises a serious conflict between the Government and organized labor. The Police Union objects to the police being subjected to semi-military discipline and claims the right of the union to organize on the same basis as labor unions, to join such unions in sympathetic strikes if it so desires, and also to strike in the event that the police are ordered to enforce laws which the police disapprove of. This, the critics of the police say, would make the police the most powerful branch of the Government.

The Home Office concedes the right of the police to have an organization, but not on a trade union basis. It also claims that the Police Union is composed largely of discharged policemen and professional agitators.

The police have arranged to hold a large demonstration in Hyde Park on Sunday.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 30.—The Government has taken a firm attitude in regard to the threatened police strike, and the Derby will be run next Wednesday under any circumstances. Lloyd George has personally sanctioned all the measures being taken by the authorities.

The prognostication is made in an informed quarter than 75 to 80 per cent. of the men will remain loyal to their duties and that there will be a collapse of the agitation to obtain official recognition of the Police Union, which the Government flatly refuses, the police force not being an industrial body and having special duties and privileges.

The leading agitators, on the other hand, still claim to have a great majority of the men behind them, but the general feeling is that such a body as the metropolitan police will prove themselves worthy of public confidence.

Should this expectation be justified it would be taken in conjunction with the refusal of the Parliamentary Committee of the Trade Union Conference to back Robert Smillie and Robert Williams in their demand for a strike by the triple alliance of miners, transport workers, and railway men to coerce the Government into accepting political dictation, a heartening sign that the prevalent unrest will in Britain seek amelioration by constitutional and legitimate methods.

TIE UP ARGENTINE PAPERS.

Printers' Strike Over Refusal to Publish Advertisement.

BUENOS AIRES, May 29.—The publication of virtually all newspapers here has been suspended pending the settlement of the dispute between the printers and publishers, which arose when the printers refused to set advertisements of a boycotted department store.

The newspaper La Razon appeared today, but announced that it would not publish tomorrow, and the ranks of the newspapers which will not publish tomorrow have been joined by La Nacion and Herald. President Irigoyen is studying the situation with a view to bringing the publishers and union men together.

The street car strike which began last night grew worse today, only a few cars, manned by inspectors, running. No violence is reported.

4,836,000 Meals at Brest in April.

BREST, May 10.—The April grocery bill for the Pontanezen Camp, near Brest, where American doughboys in transit from France to America await for a few days the transport which is to take them home, was $1,128,000. In all 1,912,000 rations, or 4,836,000 meals, were served, the total weight being 9,560,000 pounds.

it is said. Montreal also appears to be likely to have a strike, but the movement eastward is not expected to travel further into the Province of Quebec.

Mining Camps See a Crisis.

COBALT, Ont., May 30.—The labor situation in the mining camps is acute, according to reports reaching here today. At Kirkland Lake the miners' union has presented demands for a 44-hour week, recognition of the union and a minimum wage of $4.50 per day. The operators have ten days to consider the demands.

In the Cobalt, Porcupine and Gowganda camps, meetings of the local unions have been called for Sunday to consider action similar to that taken at Kirkland Lake.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., May 30.—The Great War Veterans' Association, local branch, has adopted a resolution promising to use the efforts of its members to preserve law and order in event of a general strike.

Strikers May End "Protest."

Special to The New York Times.

CALGARY, Alberta, May 30.—The Dominion Government has thrown down the gauntlet to all strikers who were in its employ here, and has notified the postal workers who struck in sympathy with Winnipeg strikers, that they have forfeited their jobs permanently.

The Ottawa authorities announced that only firm measures would quiet a situation which threatened to get beyond bounds. They were prepared to fight the strikers to a finish.

Returned soldiers are receiving a preference in filling the places of men who struck. The Government had just negotiated an agreement with its postal workers whereby the postment received, it was said, more than they asked. Volunteer workers continue to handle the mails, express and freight, and their services are now fairly adequate.

The brewery workers have refused to strike. The typographical unions will vote on this question Sunday night, but are believed to be a unit against any strike.

In Edmonton, the street car service has been resumed and the civic employes have gone back to work in a body, excepting the street cleaners and a few other laborers, who are expected to return Saturday.

The labor unions' paper, The Edmonton Free Press, in an editorial, addresses the strikers, urging them to return to work and saying that their protest "has been sufficient to advertise to Canada their sympathy with the Winnipeg strikers."

Reported Broken in Winnipeg.

Special to The New York Times.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 30.—So far as Winnipeg's civic administration is concerned, the strike is broken. The ultimatum of the Aldermen calling for immediate return or instant dismissal of members of the Employes' Federation resulted in a repudiation of the strike by a large percentage of civic workers.

The City Hall was crowded all day with city workers offering to sign the anti-sympathy strike pledge. Seventy-nine of the regular firemen were included.

Metal trades employers announced they were willing to utilize the mediation offer of the railroad brotherhoods in the dispute with their employes and with the Metal Trades Council. The railway mail clerks' strike was called off last night, and the postal situation is improving.

The telegraphers remained on strike in Winnipeg, but their ranks were much divided, many favoring an immediate return to work. In the building trades the carpenters, bricklayers, and kindred trades remained out. Freight and express handlers, laundry men, and barbers also were idle.

Mayor Gray announced that street cars would be running today if present arrangements were carried out.

Because of the possibility of an agreement between the metal workers and their employers, however, the municipal authorities later made no effort to operate the cars.

A delegation of discharged overseas soldiers, accompanied by a number of strikers, marched today to the Parliament Building and demanded that the Government "do something at once" for the men.

Premier Norris of Manitoba was to take up with the City Council today the proposed measures as to "collective bargaining" to be submitted to the Provincial Legislature.

DEMAND GENERAL ELECTION.

Special to The New York Times.

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 30.—The Trades and Labor Council of Vancouver has decided that should the unions vote Sunday for a strike, it shall become effective next Tuesday morning. The street car men, however, are to remain on the job until midnight, and milk and bread deliveries are to be continued as usual.

Seven points were laid down. If these are not conceded by the Ottawa authorities, the demands say the Government must undertake to resign and bring on a general election before work will be resumed.

The first three points cover the Winnipeg program. Nos. 4 and 5, demanding pensions on the basis laid down by the soldiers' organizations and a minimum grant for overseas service of $2,000, are an attempt to enlist new forces.

Point No. 6, insisting on the national control of food storage, is an appeal to the public, which regards the Government as having failed to cope with the food profiteering. No. 7, a demand for the 6-hour day, couples up the first object of the one big union movement with the proposed sympathetic strike.

The manifesto would have comparatively little importance if it were indorsed by local workers only. Vancouver, however, takes the lead in advanced labor propaganda throughout the West, and should the strike be initiated here and continue in other cities, it is believed the seven points will be adopted as the uniform minimum of the strikers everywhere from Winnipeg to the coast.

GREEKS LAND AT AVIALI.

MERCURY STOPS AT 86.

Starts Toward Record, but Fails to Reach Thursday's Figure.

While the mercury in the glass tube at the Weather Bureau atop the Whitehall Building gave promise early yesterday morning of achieving a new May record, starting at 71 at 8 o'clock as against 64 the morning before, it failed by 4 degrees to reach Thursday's record of 90 degrees. The humidity was a little higher yesterday than on the preceding day. The heat wave is general east of the Rocky Mountains, according to the report of the Weather Bureau. As compared with May 30 last year yesterday was a "scorcher," the maximum last year being 58 degrees.

TURKS, AROUSED, UNITE.

PARIS, May 30, (Associated Press.)—Constantinople advices received here are to the effect that the Turks are greatly aroused over the proposed partition of former Turkish territory, and that a nationalist movement has started in which both the Old Turks and the Young Turks have joined.

The advices add that the Russian Bolsheviki, under cover of this nationalist movement, are starting an agitation on their own account.

The New Germany

One of the most interesting features in the May 31st issue of The Literary Digest is a full-page colored Map showing the new Germany as it will be after the Peace Treaty is signed, and the old Germany as it was before the war. The Map clearly indicates the areas lost by the treaty, those to be awarded by plebiscite, and those to be made international territory. This map will prove invaluable as a present and future source of information and can be cut out and inserted in your encyclopedia, atlas, history, or other reference volume, where it will always be handy as a means of settling doubtful points.

There is a wide selection of authoritative, timely, and very interesting news-articles included in this week's "Digest," among which are:

A Word About the Editors of "The Digest"

The editors of most publications come into personal touch with the reading public through special articles, editorials, and so forth, in which they voice their individual views. Not so with THE LITERARY DIGEST, whose editorial policy is strictly impersonal, not a hint of the opinions of its staff on any question appearing in its columns. Nevertheless the editors of THE DIGEST are a very real and powerful influence in the community, because they determine the subject matter of the magazine from week to week and its mode of presentation. Always their study is to be impartial and self-effacing, yet they leave their expert mark on everything that they handle, for they are all proved experts, each in his particular field, whether it be politics, art, science, religion, letters, or what not. They give you of their best, seeking for no acclaim, but constantly striving to present for your consideration all the news in all its bearings. Their quiet work gives THE DIGEST its acknowledged unique distinction.

SOCIALISTS HERE AIM TO PURGE PARTY

AWAIT GERBER'S RETURN

Local Leader Says Few Favor Forcible Measures of a Revolutionary Nature.

Following a report from Chicago that the Socialist National Executive Committee, in session there, had voted to expel from the party councils, five of the fourteen so-called "national" federations which are integral parts of the Socialist national organization, it was stated in Socialist circles here last night that the party in this State and in the city would purge itself before long of unruly or undesirable elements which have brought the Socialists into disrepute. The work, in fact, is already under way, for four organizations with headquarters in Brooklyn have already fallen under the party ban.

Julius Gerber, Secretary of the New York local, who occupies a position which makes it possible for him to speak for the Socialist Party in this State as well as for the city organization, is in Chicago attending the national gathering of Socialist leaders. He is expected back early next week and it is expected that the work of reorganizing the party will be begun soon after his return.

Alderman Algernon Lee, who is one of the most prominent Socialists in this city, said last night at his home, 1,186 Madison Avenue, that he did not care to comment on the action of the Socialist National Executive Committee.

"I would like to know something more in detail regarding the action of the committee first," he said. "We will know that after Mr. Gerber returns."

Mr. Lee admitted that the necessity for reorganization of the party in State and city had been the topic of discussion among Socialist leaders here for some months past.

"The questions involved are not questions of socialistic principle, but questions of whether the party organization shall be maintained along democratic lines, with the majority ruling and the minority abiding by majority rule," said the Alderman. "I suppose there are ahead of us some months of turmoil within the party, but, in my opinion, the party will be all the better for it and the party organization come out all right."

The opinion was expressed last night by a prominent Socialist leader that the number of Socialists in this city inclined toward what of late has generally been understood by the term "Bolshevism," or who advocated "direct" action instead of gradual reform, was very small.

"Some are foolish and, fired by the success of the social revolution in Russia or angered by reactionary measures of repression applied during the war and apparently not to be relaxed, they may have indulged in loose talk about things they do not understand and have advocated measures which are not sanctioned by our party platform and declaration of principles. But in my opinion no one who amounts to anything in our party councils is in favor of 'direct' action, involving the immediate seizure and nationalization of industries and other forcible measures of a revolutionary character."

SOCIALISTS ASSAIL TREATY OF PEACE

Chicago Meeting Calls It "Peace of Hate"—Rochester Group Also Opposed.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 30.—Now it is peace that displeases the Socialist Party. Against the war as "capitalistic," the Executive Committee of that party, concluding a four-day session here today opposed the peace treaty as a "peace of hate" and "a hideous farce." The eleven committeemen also issued a protest to Congress against the alleged pogroms in Poland against Jews, issued a lengthy statement of sympathy for Russian Soviets, and composed a new program of party policy "to collect our scattered forces."

In explaining the suspension of the Slavic branches of the Foreign Language Federation, the committee charged that the 25,000 members thus expelled had sought control of the party, "thus showing a transplantation in detail of methods used by the comrades in the second Russian revolution with an utter disregard for the difference in conditions in this country."

The ejected Russians, Lithuanians, Hungarish, and others are accused of vote frauds, which the committee called the "unwholesome methods used by the corrupt political parties of the capitalistic class," and let it go at that.

Calling the period "tragic," the Socialists send greetings to the fighters for freedom in all countries, adding that "capitalism is shaken to its very foundations," though such servile States as Poland and Czechoslovakia set up and protected by the allied powers, pay for allied aid by hurling armed forces against the popular revolutions in Russia and Hungary.

"Open covenants of peace become bargains behind closed doors," and "By the cunning device of 'mandatories' annexations are made that exceed any ever made in any war," the statement says further, and declares that popular revolutions are to have the constant threat of suppression by the League of Nations.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 30.—The American proletariat was urged to organize for revolution, declared to be at the threshold of this county, by speakers at a mass meeting tonight of the German language group of the Socialist Party in convention in this city. President Wilson was attacked for allowing American troops to remain in Russia and oppose the forces of Bolshevism.

Max Bedackt of San Francisco launched into a violent speech by averring that the Prussianism which American boys had driven out of Europe with their bayonets now was enthroned at Washington. He told his audience that making the world safe for democracy was simply used as a pretext by the capitalistic government of this country to strangle all revolutionary spirit.

Warburg at the annual convention of the organization here today resulted in the enrolment of scores of members to go abroad.

Daniels at Hog Island Ceremony Hails the Rebirth of America on the Sea.

FIVE VESSELS LAUNCHED

48 Minutes 15 Seconds in a Record Event—Crowds Cheer as Craft Touch River.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—Five 7,800-ton cargo ships launched in less than fifty minutes was the new world's record established at Hog Island this afternoon, following a Memorial Day address here by the Secretary of the Navy. Just after Secretary Daniels had declared that Hog Island would become the centre of the greatest shipbuilding district known, a gang of twenty workmen started shoving off the five big steamers in turn from the ways placed at wide intervals along a front of nearly two miles.

Fifty thousand visitors cheered in rivalry with a hundred sirens as the ships touched the Delaware. These great bursts of noise came almost regularly at ten-minute intervals.

The launchings were made a feature of Memorial Day, as a tribute to the soldiers, sailors, and marines who perished in the war.

Secretary Daniels's Address.

Secretary Daniels began his address at 1:15 o'clock, on a stand at Way 28. He said in part:

"Never again will the United States be guilty of the folly of trusting its foreign commerce to foreign bottoms. We could not if we would, as a nation, longer live between the two oceans dependent upon foreign bottoms for our overseas commerce, and we would not if we could.

"We will not quit the shipbuilding industry. We will put it on a solid and firm and sound basis. We will build big ships and bigger ships.

"One of the chief compensations of the burden of the great struggle is the restoration of the American merchant marine, or rather its rebirth, for we are building upon a scale that was not dreamed of even in the early days when the American flag and American commerce were seen in all parts of the world.

"In spite of the mistakes due to haste and the high cost under war conditions, a great and lasting good has come from the revival of shipbuilding in the war.

"The genius, statesmanship, and skill of America must be united in the development of a merchant marine and naval strength which will not alone contribute to the supplying of the needs of other nations, but insure wider markets for the ever increasing surplus of American toil."

Record Speed in Launching.

Mr. Daniels had hardly finished speaking when the gang of launchers started knocking out the key block under the Maiden Creek, on Way 43, away down the yard. At 1:35 o'clock it went over, with Miss R. Emma Reisner of Reading, Penn., sponsoring it. The boat was named by the people of Berks County.

The launching crew drove in five automobiles to Way 33, where the Nedmas was launched at 1:50, with Mrs. Mary Baird Fox of Camden as sponsor. The man who gave the signal was a Camden man, W. B. Fortune, Superintendent of Construction. The ship bears the name of Camden spelled backward.

Next they stopped at Way 28, where Secretary Daniels had spoken, and where he saw the speed with which the work was done. The Lehigh moved out, with Mrs. William R. Thomas of Catasauqua, Penn., as sponsor, at 2 o'clock, and then the Pipestone, on Way 16, sponsored by Miss Lois Gaither, the "most popular girl" in Pipestone County, Minn.

The last was the Luxpalile, on May 1, which dipped at 2:25 o'clock into the water, with its bow wet from wine that Mrs. J. D. Andrew of Thirteenth and Spruce Streets, Philadelphia, dashed at it.

Excursion boats steamed around the vessels as they were being towed to the wet basins, where they are to be equipped and made ready for the transfer to the Shipping Board in four or five weeks.

39,000 Tons Afloat within 49 Minutes.

In the original schedule of the launching it had been planned to put over a boat every twenty minutes. This would have made the total an hour and twenty minutes, a record unequaled hitherto. The actual launching time, as given out by Hog Island officials, was 48 minutes 15 seconds.

After the launchings, the steamships Schoodic and Satartia, at Pier D., completed ships, were docked for inspection by visitors from bridge to engine room.

The names of four of the five vessels launched today were chosen by Victory Loan campaign committees of counties in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Minnesota that achieved commendable results in that drive.

All of the five ships are steel cargo carriers of Hog Island "A" type, of 7,800 tons each. The five vessels are to be ready for delivery to the Shipping Board in four or five weeks. They are 98 per cent. complete in the hull, and 65 per cent. of the equipment and machinery is in. They are oil burners, driven by geared turbines of 2,500 shaft horsepower, and capable of a speed of 11½ knots an hour.

With the 39,000 tons launched today, Hog Island has contributed a total of 265,000 tons to the American Merchant Marine. Since Feb. 21, ships have gone over at the rate of one or two a week, and the same rate of speed will be continued until the contracts for 110 type "A" boats are completed. The launchings today make a total of thirty-four ships launched at the yard.

ANNUL COTTONSEED RULES.

Food Administration Removes All the Restrictions on Sales.

At the office of the American Relief Administration, Herbert Hoover, director, 115 Broadway, yesterday, the following statement was given out:

"The Food Administration announced today that they had canceled all rules relating to the cottonseed industry and had withdrawn all price regulations and agreements regarding cottonseed and the products manufactured therefrom, including lard substitutes, as from May 31.

"As practically all the cottonseed of the last season's production has been marketed at the stabilized price and the major portion of the manufactured products has been disposed of on the basis of the price agreements and the remaining quantity of manufactured products is so near the average stocks at this time of year, there is no further necessity for control of the industry."

PUT WHITMAN BUST IN HALL OF FAME

Self-Appointed Committee Deceives Guards with Ceremonies at N. Y. University.

PLACED BESIDE LOWELL

Explain 'Stunt' as a Protest Against Failure to Recognize Poet Among Immortals.

A bust of Walt Whitman was smuggled into the Hall of Fame at New York University yesterday, where all the ceremonies accompanying the placing of a statue which had been passed by the committee in charge were held with such elaborate pomp that the guards and attendants supposed the ceremonies had been authorized and did not interfere.

"We felt," said a voice over the telephone purporting to come from the Chairman of the self-appointed Hall of Fame Committee, "that there was a tremendous public sentiment in favor of the formal recognizing of Walt Whitman's place in American literature. We felt that it was our duty to make up for the inaction of the committee in charge of placing great men in the hall, so we decided to take the matter in our own hands. Today is Decoration Day, and tomorrow will be the hundredth anniversary of Walt Whitman's birthday, who was born in West Hills, Long Island, May 31, 1819, so at least the date we chose was fitting."

The usual precautions common to press agents were taken to insure that the newspapers should know of the occurrence, even to the insertion of an advertisement by the owner of the bust alleging that it had been stolen. The names of those who participated in the ceremonies were withheld because one who spoke for them said they feared they would be arrested. The information was volunteered that they were all "well-known poets and authors," with Greenwich Village as their habitat.

The plans for the placing of the bust were completed last Wednesday, when about twenty writers, artists, scientists, and "bohemians" met at a Fifth Avenue hotel for luncheon. Their strategy being decided upon, they visited the Hall of Fame and picked out a suitable place and decided upon the size of bust which would best fit the corridor. The next few days were spent in searching for the proper bust. Many dealers were visited, but they could not find one to their liking, or perhaps their pocketbook.

When they had scoured the city in vain it was decided to get one from some private owner and the search was begun anew.

Friday evening two men and one woman called on the owner, Duncan MacDougall, of 20 East Fourteenth Street. The woman in the party, it was said, pretended deep interest in his house furnishings and MacDougall took her to see a clock. The clock, it was said, was in the upstairs hall of the building and while it was being inspected the bust of Walt Whitman was carried to a taxicab, which left for the headquarters of the unofficial Hall of Fame Committee.

The three left Mr. MacDougall, it was averred, without his discovering that his statue was missing. That evening at 12 o'clock the admirers of Walt Whitman went to the Hall of Fame. They found the watchman there, so concluded to postpone the ceremonies until the next day. Yesterday afternoon, it was said, six automobiles and taxis sped up to University Heights and stopped in front of the hall. The bust was in a suitcase and was carried into the building with as much reverence as if it had been the bier of the poet. A man at the door was severely reprimanded for not having a ladder on hand when he "must have known they were coming."

However, the bust was put in place beside that of James Russell Lowell, and the memorial service commenced. "Captain, My Captain" and verses from "The Leaves of Grass," together with other well-known works of Whitman, were read. The program consisted of an introduction address, an invocation, and the placing of a tablet below the bust which read, "I know that I am Deathless: Walt Whitman."

Chancelor Elmer E. Brown of the New York University, when informed late last night of the addition to the Hall of Fame, said that he had not been notified and that he knew nothing about the Walt Whitman bust. The Society of Arts and Sciences also denied all knowledge of the affair.

The Walt Whitman Fellowship Society, which is to hold its annual meeting tonight, denied that they had anything to do with the affair, and said that although they were pleased to learn that a bust of Walt Whitman was in the Hall of Fame, they feared that the move might result in making the committee whose duty it is to pass on the names to be added to the hall antagonistic. They said that one of the objects of the meeting was to draw up a resolution asking that Walt Whitman's name be favorably considered for the Hall of Fame.

WOMAN HELD FOR MURDER.

Another Sought in Connection with Death of Ohio Taxicab Driver.

COLUMBUS, May 30.—Mrs. Leila Grizzel, aged 23, of this city is under arrest at London, Madison County, and the police of London and Columbus are searching for another woman in connection with the murder late yesterday of Milton G. Donavan, aged 33, a taxicab driver. Robbery evidently was the motive, as Donavan's empty pocketbood was found on the seat beside him. He had been shot twice through the back. When found his clothes were on fire.

Mrs. Grizzel, Donavan's passenger from Springfield to Columbus, admits having been in the automobile with another woman. She was arrested near the scene of the murder. She told the police she left the car to pick flowers and knew nothing of the murder. The police say currency found in her pocketbook fits the shape of Donavan's purse. An unused 38-calibre cartridge also was found in her possession.

MARTIAL LAW FOR CUBA.

Senate Passes House Bill Suspending Constitutional Guarantees.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, May 30.—The Senate today with only one opposing vote passed the bill granting President Menocal's request for authority to suspend the constitutional guarantees. The President will sign it immediately, whereupon Cuba will be subject to such provisions of martial law as the chief executive deems necessary.

In the meantime police are continuing to arrest labor leaders who have been responsible for the turmoil here ever since the signing of the armistice.

The arrested ones awaiting deportation to Spain now number more than 70. Some of them are said to be avowed anarchists.

The city and country labor situation is now practically normal, the Government decree of work or be deported or sent to jail having had the desired effect.

SEIZES VON LUXBURG'S GOLD

Canada Expropriates Coins Taken from Ambassador at Halifax.

HALIFAX, May 30.—German gold coins formerly owned by Count von Luxburg, who figured in the "Sink without trace" notes which passed between Berlin and the German Embassy in Argentina, were ordered expropriated and turned over to the Canadian Government as prize money in the Admiralty Prize Court here today.

The steamer which carried the Count back to Germany several months ago put in here and the money was seized at that time. There were thirteen 20 mark pieces and eighteen 10 mark coins.

20 Boys Flee from Randall's Island.

It was reported to the police of the East 125th Street Station early this morning that twenty boys had escaped in a small boat from the House of Refuge on Randall's Island after assaulting a keeper. A general alarm has been sent out and the police are scouring the city for the boys.

A. H. SMITH RESIGNS.

Leaves Railroad Board to Resume New York Central Presidency.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—A. H. Smith, who was appointed Regional Director of the Eastern Region for the Railroad Administration soon after the Government took over control of the railroad systems as a war emergency measure, has sent in his resignation and will return to his former office of President of the New York Central Lines on June 1. Director General Hines announced today that A. T. Hardin, now assistant Regional Director of the Eastern Region, had been named to succeed Mr. Smith.

The selection of Mr. Smith to run the lines of the Eastern District, which included those in the territory in Eastern Pennsylvania, where the traffic congestion presented tremendous problems during the period of hostilities, was made by William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury and Director General of Railroads.

Mr. McAdoo paid high tribute to the work accomplished by Mr. Smith, and it has been the general belief that the genius displayed by him went far toward saving the nation from a tangle of railroad congestion which would have caused the stopping of war work and more suffering, especially during the long period of severe cold and blizzards in the early months of 1918.

A memorandum issued yesterday at the Grand Central Terminal concerning the resignation of A. H. Smith as Regional Director said:

"Mr. Smith's retirement is due solely to his desire to return to peace-time interests and activities, together with the insistent requests of the New York Central directorate that he return to the presidency of the corporations which he headed for the five years preceding Federal control. The utmost harmony attended his Government service, and his desire to relinquish office has for some time only awaited the convenience of the Washington Administration in permitting the change."

In announcing his retirement from the Railroad Administration to the employes of more than 150 railroads that have been under his control as Director of the Eastern Region, Mr. Smith sent out last night the following telegram:

TO ALL FEDERAL, GENERAL AND TERMINAL MANAGERS:

In severing my connection with the Railroad Administration, I want to thank you, your officers and employes, for the great assistance and loyal effort afforded me and the co-operation displayed between every one through the very trying months when hostilities were in progress. The prompt movement of troops in such large volume and the efficient handling of the traffic is truly a commendable accomplishment. During the unification of the railroads, as was necessary, there has been no feeling whatever. This indicates a breadth of view and loyalty to the Government. The co-operation of every man has been hearty. I bespeak for my successor the same loyal effort in the difficult tasks that are before you, as was afforded me.

GOVERNOR DENIES CHARGES

Says Hearst Story of Part in Sulzer Impeachment Is Untrue.

Governor Alfred E. Smith yesterday branded as untrue an article published in the Hearst newspapers charging that money had been used to bring about the impeachment of ex-Governor William Sulzer during the extraordinary session of the Legislature in 1913, and making it appear that the funds were handled by the Governor, who then was Speaker of the Assembly.

The Rev. O. R. Miller, State Superintendent of the New York Civic League, is made sponsor for the charges which on April 16 were submitted by him to Senator Alvah W. Burlingame, Jr., Chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, which recently has been investigating other Hearst reports of a $500,000 "slush fund" to promote the enactment this year of he Carson-Martin, so-called Six Cent Fare bill, with a demand that they be investigated. The Judiciary Committee is operating under a mandate from the Legislature limiting its investigation to lobbying activities during the legislative sessions of the last two years, and under the circumstances would have no authority to inquire into the Miller charges.

According to the report in the Hearst publications the Miller charges were based on a report made to Mr. Miller by Charles L. Boothby, legislative agent of the New York Civic League in 1913, who is said to have gone to the Speaker's room in the Capitol on the evening before Mr. Sulzer was impeached by the Assembly to obtain a pass to the Assembly Chamber, and to have seen several big stacks of bank notes on the Speaker's desk.

"The whole report is an unmitigated lie, palpably false and unjustified on its face," said the Governor. "I do not know Charles L. Boothby. I never saw Mr. Boothby in my life, and I never gave him a pass to the Assembly. The story that piles of money were on the Speaker's desk prior to the impeachment vote in the Sulzer matter is a silly falsification."

In local political circles the publication of the report in the Hearst papers was regarded as part of the political fight now being made against the Governor by Mr. Hearst.

DROPS PHILADELPHIA LINE.

Clyde Steamship Co. Announces Further Curtailment of Service.

The Clyde Steamship Company announced yesterday that commencing on June 7 its New York to Philadelphia line would be suspended indefinitely. H. H. Raymond, President of the Clyde Steamship Company, said last night that the same reasons, namely high operating costs and inefficiency of labor, caused the further curtailment of service, as in February, when the New York to Mobile and Tampa line, in operation for sixteen years; the New York to Wilmington and Georgetown line, in operation for thirty years, and the Philadelphia and Norfolk line, with a record of fifty years, were discontinued.

Mr. Raymond said that no further discontinuations of service were anticipated. He said that conditions were such that it was impossible for the lines in question to meet current expenses. At present there seemed little likelihood of the discontinued lines being resumed.

NAVY WILL NEED MEN.

Intensive Recruiting Campaign Is Planned to Offset Peace Shortage.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—To prevent the navy from being left in a crippled condition when the peace treaty is signed automatically releasing 150,000 men from service, the Navy Department is planning to wage an intensive recruiting campaign as soon as Congress determines how large a navy will be authorized.

Captain Leigh, Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, today explained to the House Naval Committee that there were not many more than 100,000 men in the Regular Navy, and all except 25,000 of the Naval Reserves would be released from the service when peace was declared, and that only 126,000 would be left. He declared that this number would be "entirely insufficient," and would leave the Navy in a "dangerously crippled condition."

Congress may be asked, Captain Leigh said, to provide for a two-year term of enlistment to stimulate recruiting, and also to pass legislation permitting the retention of a larger percentage of the Naval Reserve than the ten per cent. now allowed.

DRIVE FOR RED MOGEN DAVID

Hope to Raise $100,000 for Jewish Legionaries in Palestine.

The Red Mogen David of America will launch a national compaign for a $100,000 emergency fund for the welfare of the Jewish Legionnaires in Palestine, it was announced yesterday from national campaign headquarters of the organization, 201 Second Avenue. The campaign starts June 10. It will be directed by Henry Elser, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Red Mogen David.

The Red Mogen David is a national organization of 30,000 Jewish men and women to provide comforts and recreation for Jewish legionnaires who enlisted under the British flag, from the United States, and fought in Palestine. The campaign is to raise a fund to maintain canteens to provide assistance for legionnaires who return, and to look after their families in this country.

"There are several thousand American Jewish soldiers in Palestine," Mrs. Charles A. Spivacke, National President of the organization, said yesterday, announcing the campaign. "While American soldiers have their seven welfare agencies in France and the United States to provide recreation, to assist them in securing jobs, and to look after their families, the American boy in Palestine looks to us as his only source of aid. We must supply his needs and demonstrate the gratitude of the American people to him."

Hussar Back from Walk to Albany.

Ernest Hussar, orchestra leader of the Hotel McAlpin, who had been missing since last Monday, returned to the hotel last night, and reported that he had walked to Albany for his health. He explained that he had been very nervous for weeks and had an uncontrollable desire to get away from the noise of the city. Four days he tramped the roads of the State and returned by train yesterday much improved.

Peroxide, Lime Water and Oxygen and what they will do for your teeth

EVERYONE knows that simple peroxide of hydrogen is a valuable aid in whitening and helping preserve the tooth-enamel.

Everyone knows that lime-water is valuable as a harmless preventive of acid-stomach and acid-mouth conditions.

Everyone knows that OXYGEN is the harmless and beneficial gas in Nature, and that without oxygen in the air we would die.

But everyone does not know that these three valuable substances are a part of McK & R Calox—the new-day dentifrice.

In contact with water or the mouth-fluids, McK & R Calox forms fresh active peroxide of hydrogen, in just sufficient quantities to gradually whiten the teeth. This peroxide, in contact with decaying matter, releases pure refreshing oxygen gas. Oxygen which is so beneficial to the teeth and so refreshing to human beings is a sure finish to the dangerous germs of tooth decay. Part of McK & R Calox Tooth Powder turns to lime-water in the mouth and counteracts local acid conditions which cause much of tooth-decline.

McK & R Calox tastes better than any dentifrice you ever tried—no "druggy" flavor. Being a powder it "takes hold" in a pleasing way. Try it for ten days and watch your teeth whiten. Twice a year to your dentist and twice a day with McK & R Calox spells safety.

These Men Know Real Fighting When They See It

COMMANDANT'S OFFICE.
WASHINGTON.

April 26, 1919.

My dear Mr. Parker:

Just a line of congratulation on the wonderful war paintings now running in the Ladies Home Journal. I think Schoonover's conception of the capture of machine guns in Belleau Wood by U. S. Marines is remarkably clever, and I have heard Marines who were in that fighting say that the painting is so true to life it might have been painted on the spot during the action.

Sincerely,

George Barnett
Major General Commandant.

The General of "The Fighting 27th"

UNITED STATES ARMY

Dear Mr. Schoonover:—

I have looked over your picture "Smashing the Hindenberg Line" which is to be reproduced in The Ladies' Home Journal, and I am much pleased that some of the deeds of the 27th Division are to be thus depicted.

We are all so interested and enthusiastic about the pictures that we are anxious to help in every way possible, because the enterprise of The Curtis Publishing Company in presenting the deeds of our doughboys in this form makes it possible for all to obtain and preserve an accurate and artistic record of achievement.

Sincerely,

John F. O'Ryan,
Major General.

"That's an Honest-to-God Battle Picture—That Is"

Said a doughboy who was in the Château-Thierry fighting, as he looked at one of THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL's great war paintings. "That's exactly where I stood."

"Every Detail of That Picture Is Absolutely Correct"

Said the Chief of Staff of the Fighting 27th Division, Colonel Olmsted, as he looked at THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL's war painting of "The Smashing of the Hindenburg Line."

"Here We Certainly Are, Kids, Exactly as it Happened"

Said a marine, as he looked at THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL's wonderful Belleau Wood painting. "Gee, see that spot? I was right there. That artist chap has certainly got us!"

"Here's Where I Stood When the Hun Got Me"

Said a doughboy to his mother, as he put his finger on a spot in one of THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL's battle pictures. "Really, you'd think that artist was there. He's got everything right."

"You've Got Us to the Life," Said "The Lost Battalion" Private

"That's the Argonne, all right," he said, as he looked at THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL's great "Lost Battalion" picture. "Say, you can almost hear Whittlesey telling the Hun to go to hell, can't you?"

There are 4 great Souvenir pictures in each number—the June Number has one war picture and three peace pictures.

PREFERENCE AND PROSPERITY.

A dispatch from Jamaica tells us that the Jamaicans are willing to die for the Empire, but unwilling to starve for free trade. In other words, imperial preference as proposed in the last British budget by AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN confronts now the same obstacles as when JOSEPH CHAMBERLAIN, AUSTEN'S father, sponsored the idea of developing the backward British colonial estate by "preference," protection in our phrase. Now enthusiasm in the colonies is as brief as it was then. Jamaica responded to this month's budget proposals with preparations to give preference to British imports, and the Jamaican press predicted quadrupling of colonial trade within five years. Now, as twenty years ago, the obstacle is that England prefers the form of protection known as cheap cost of living to prosperity in the form of higher prices resulting from restriction of trade by taxation, and a smaller margin of income over outgo in the workman's budget. The CHAMBERLAINS, father and son, were both ready to tax food, and AUSTEN, in the budget debate this month, declared that he never repented, and did not recant, his readiness to make the British workers' food dear to benefit the colonies. He remains of his father's faith, but is forced to bow to the repeated expression of the popular will to the contrary. He was obliged to take this position, for otherwise the debate showed that he would have trouble with his budget. Now he has trouble with the colonies.

We are interested because the West Indies lie rather in our economic sphere than in either the Empire's or Canada's. West Indian sugar, bananas, cocoa, coffee, and all tropical products find their largest and best market here, rather than across the Atlantic or in Canada. There is not a trace of politics in American feeling on the matter, but there are signs of politics in the British colonies.

The improving conditions in Cuba and Porto Rico since their inclusion in our "sphere" cannot have escaped observation in the other West Indian islands, and the sentiment is not unknown on the Continent. The Dominion Parliament is now perplexed between the Canadian farmers' demand for greater freedom of trade exchanges north and south, over short routes into the United States, and artificial compulsion of trade over continental distances east and west in the name of preference between the United Kingdom and the colony, and protection to the Canadian manufacturers. It would prejudice settlement on the merits if the United States were to take any part in the debates between colonies and motherland, for it would be set down to political or even imperialist sentiments, rather than to economic considerations. But there can be no harm in remarking what is said in British sources of opinion. Canada is as much for protection of Canada as the United Kingdom is for imperial preference. The Dominion idea of imperial preference is the sort of preference which benefits the Dominion at the expense of the Empire. Canada reduces its exclusionist tariff as a preference to the Empire, but leaves it so that Canadian manufacturers are protected still against British. Australia does the same. That is why the British workers refuse to starve for the benefit of the colonies as earnestly as the colonies refuse to starve for the Empire. In the budget debate Commoner CLYNES, Labor Member from Manchester, said that the workers opposed the budget because it put taxes on them and gave the capitalists another fifty million pounds of profit.

It will be seen that the British debate follows the lines taken by a candidate for the Presidency who, in an unguarded moment, said that tariff was a "local" question. It might almost be said that the tariff is an individual question, for all who buy and sell are both producers and consumers, and each decides his tariff position according to the balance of his interests. Englishmen and Americans alike would "tax the foreigners" if they could, but neither have been able to find any way to tax foreigners without also taxing themselves. There has not yet been found any way of giving a colonial preference which shall also be an imperial preference without the sacrifice of something on either side which neither will consent to. Tariff arguments are equally selfish and contradictory in the United States. The old antagonism between the protectionist, manufacturing North and the cotton-raising South, which wanted free imports of manufactures, has passed from a sectional division into antagonism between local or individual interests. It is proposed once more to raise the tariff for the sake of raising wages. They are pretty high already, there is no certainty that wages would rise with the customs, and there are some among the workers who share the British workers' preference for lower costs of living rather than for the delusive benefits of more money and fewer comforts. Mr. VANDERLIP said that the British worker was underpaid, but he lived better than some who worked better. Underproduction rather than underpayment or underfeeding was the trouble with British industry.

FROM THREE WARS.

Soldiers, sailors, and marines of the civil war, the Spanish war, and the world war marched together in yesterday's Memorial Day parade. In Brooklyn the parade was headed by the mothers of men who had given their lives to their country. No more moving or thrilling parade has ever been seen in this city on Memorial Day.

It is wonderful to think that all these soldiers, though some of them served nearly sixty years ago, some over twenty years ago, and some yesterday, fought for the same cause. It is a thing for a nation to be proud of. It shows that its ideals have remained the same, that its entity, its personality, is as clearly definite as that of a human being. The youngest civil war veteran who marched yesterday can hardly be less than 70, unless he enlisted as a drummer boy and near the close of the war. Fifty-four or fifty-eight years ago he was fighting for the unchangeable ideal of the United States, just as was the boy of 19 who marched before or behind him and has just come home.

"Our fathers brought forth upon this "continent a new nation, conceived "in liberty and dedicated to the "proposition that all men are created "equal." To find out whether "that "nation, or any nation so conceived "and so dedicated, can long endure," the old men who marched or rode in carriages yesterday went forth to battle fifty-eight years ago. To give the boon of freedom to a smaller nation near our shores the men of middle age who marched yesterday went forth to battle twenty-one years ago. To save that principle from destruction at the hands of the despotism of the Middle Ages, thought dead but suddenly springing up in life, the boys who marched yesterday went forth to battle two years ago. The day was given to the memory of the men who gave their service and their lives to the cause of human freedom.

BROTHERHOOD DEMANDS.

Railway wages having been increased a billion of dollars, and the railways being unable to earn their cost to the Government in consequence, it might be thought that the brotherhoods would for a time be content in their position of superiority to other classes of labor, taxed for the railwaymen's benefit. Or, if reliance cannot be placed in the railwaymen's sense of moderation, it might be thought that railway labor would be restrained by the general undertaking that the conditions of the war would not be allowed to prejudice the position organized labor had gained before the war. But these thoughts are mistakes. The Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen in convention have formally expressed their dissatisfaction with the last award of the Director General, and appointed a committee to confer with him. The instructions to the committee show an advance over the position that labor would be satisfied with its pre-war conditions. The present position of railway trainmen is that "rates should be sufficient to improve "the standard of living which ob"tained before the war."

That points to one difference between capital and labor. Capital well knows that there must be good years and bad years, and that it can hope for an adequate average only by taking the good and the bad together. Good years and bad years for capital are alike to the brotherhood leaders. It is conceded that labor must have its wages in all sorts of years before capital has anything. Now, after the greatest years of trial ever known, the brotherhoods ask not the restoration of their privileged position of security against bad years, but betterment of the good years.

Capital has little choice in the matter, but what has the community to say? Will community taxpayers forever consent to the increase of wages out of tax money, and to the interruption of the service of its public utilities to enforce that demand? What are railways for? Is it the function of public utilities to serve the general interest or to supply jobs at wages so high that the industry cannot support them? Is the main function of railways to supply transportation at reasonable rates or to support the railway brotherhoods? Should the standard of pay be adequate to attract capital for the service of the community or to support wages so high that taxes are necessary to balance the deficit? These are pressing questions, and it is well that the position of the brotherhoods should be known.

ROBERT BACON.

Born and bred in one of those Massachusetts families where there is a certain tradition of cultivation and just money enough to be "forehanded" without becoming oversparing or purseproud, ROBERT BACON was a personality of charm and distinction, a financier equal to great and difficult affairs, a man of constant public spirit and courageous patriotism. A courteous and competent Assistant Secretary of State under ELIHU ROOT and for a few weeks his successor, an admirable Ambassador to France, which now remembers with gratitude and affection his ardent sympathy with her cause and that of the Entente, Mr. BACON, an old friend of Colonel ROOSEVELT, was one of the precursors and leaders of the movement for national preparedness.

He served it in many capacities and ways. That was his cardinal issue in the brilliant campaign he made for the Republican nomination for Senator in Congress in 1916, a campaign that, in the judgment of many, would have been successful had it been begun a little earlier. Probably he cared nothing for that. He had helped put before the people a vital national necessity. In the war he did good service on General PERSHING'S staff. A loyal son of Harvard and one of its Fellows, he found there in non-political office a sufficient crown of his modest ambition. He was an accomplished gentleman, a multifariously useful citizen, an attractive and a manly character.

DIVISION AMONG SOCIALISTS.

When the National Executive Committee of the Socialist Party expels 25,000 of the party from its membership, it is an event worth noting. ADOLPH GERMER, the Secretary, proposed the suspension of the Russian, Lithuanian, Ukrainian, Lettish, Polish, South Slavic, and Hungarian branches, and his proposal was adopted, following which the Michigan Socialists were also suspended. The reason in all cases is that the suspended branches are Bolshevist or I. W. W.

So the long-pending fight in the Socialist Party has really come to hostilities, the fight to see whether it shall remain Socialist or become Bolshevist. The difference is strikingly well put by one of the committee which issued this challenge to the American Bolsheviki: "They (the "suspended branches) believe in the "Soviet and immediate seizure of all "industry, while the party platform "indorses all social reform as it can "be gained." It is the same fight that has gone on in Russia, Germany, and Hungary, in which countries it was a fight in the literal and bloody sense.

Now it begins in the United States, where hitherto the Bolsheviki have been indistinguishable from the Socialists, since they held membership in that party. They defied its platform, which is binding on all Socialists, and merely made use of their socialistic membership for the advantage it gave them, in the hope of some day taking possession of the party. If they have the strength to do that now, they have a chance to show it by forcing the rescinding of the virtual sentence of expulsion passed upon them by the Executive Committee. If they have not, they will have to go on with their fight from the outside.

When the party of direct action sprang up in the United States and called itself the I. W. W., Americans thought it a condition local to this country. It is the party of direct action which has now proved itself powerful enough to split the Socialist Party; and probably the number of those who stayed within that party long enough to be expelled is much less than the total number of direct actionists.

A TREELESS PARK.

It is a melancholy sight to ancient walkers along the Mall in the Central Park to see the few poor, dilapidated, moribund survivors of its noble elms. Most beautiful of trees, they are nearly all gone. All over the Park the same process of deforestation is visible. The great, handsome trees, the fine trunks promising to become massive enough in time for good old dendrophiles like Dr. HOLMES to throw his affectionate measuring tape around—where have they gone? Age, a wretched soil, insect pests, the bitter cold of the Winter of 1917-18, and lack of intelligent care have done for them. An elm should live two hundred years.

The ignorances and eccentricities of some curious Park Commissioners, selected, according to the good old New York formula, for their unfitness, have had much to do with the gradual, with the swift, dearborization of the Park. It was planned as a whole. Every tree, every group of trees, had its reason from the point of view of the intelligent landscape artist. Each Commissioner has his own notion. Some Commissioners have seemed to regard the absurd shrubbery of the beer garden as the model to be followed. Beyond the mistakes of administrators is the fact that the soil of the Central Park is one of the meagrest, thinnest, and meanest in the world. That being the case, it should be properly enriched. A park without trees, without real, upstanding, healthy, arrogant trees, is no park at all. For all its original beauties, all the large genius that planned and constructed it, the Central Park is getting to be a treeless park. The city is rich enough. The city has water enough. The city has money enough to plant substantial trees in a soil rich enough for them to live and thrive in. It is not poor little wands and sticks and treelings that the Park needs. It needs strong, sturdy, massive trees. They cost money. A soil worthy of them costs money, for it must be brought from afar. What of it? Do we want a park or do we want a bare stretch of shrubs and sticks and buildings and cracked asphalt and statues that invite the lightning?

THE SAME GERMANS.

It appears, strangely enough, that Count VON BROCKDORFF-RANTZAU is "critical if not unfriendly toward America." He is very, very sad over the way President WILSON has deceived him. "The German people "counted on Mr. WILSON and has vol"untarily made itself defenseless on "his Fourteen Points," and now finds to its pain that these were only "a military ruse."

So with our engaging friend Count VON BERNSTORFF. He, too, seems to fear that the President has deceived him; nor, in spite of the numerous occasions on which he deceived the President in Washington, does he feel that turn about is fair play. "Germany's real desire for peace," he tells us, "led her to make an offer unprecedented in the world's history." She has gone out of her way to fulfill her obligations, she contemplates with pain the vengeful spirit of her enemies, she reminds us that her magnanimous offer can lead to peace only if interpreted so as to leave her virtually the winner.

Of course, these gentlemen are speaking untruths, and they know it. It is not unprecedented in the world's history for a nation whose armies have been defeated to ask for peace; the only thing unprecedented is the impudence which makes the Germans think they have a right to dictate terms. But that is because they are Germans. Because they are Germans they counted on Mr. WILSON to side with them at the Conference; because they are Germans they cannot see why anybody should disagree with their interpretation of the Fourteen Points. BERNSTORFF and BROCKDORFF know that the German armies were beaten and that this defeat forced Germany to surrender. But a good many Germans refuse to believe anything so uncomplimentary, and their leaders persist in feeding them with fictions to keep their minds ready for the idea of a war of revenge.

The Germans will sign this treaty, but for the present they are the same Germans, under the same sort of leaders, who broke treaties when it suited them before. They do not appear to understand that nobody the world over believes their myth of a regenerated Germany; they are convicted out of their own mouths. As Captain TARDIEU says, "the trick is too coarse." There may be, we all hope there will be, a new Germany; but it is not here as yet. That is why the French have insisted, and rightly, on some sanctions for the treaty better than the word of a Bernstorff.

THE OLDER CENSORSHIP.

Any remaining doubt that the war is over should be dispelled by the recent behavior of eminent and less eminent clergymen, who after devoting the past few years to castigating the Kaiser have returned to the congenial task of deploring the degeneracy of these times. Once more the old jeremiads about wicked New York, "with her half-dressed women and her pagan wining and dining," which make us forget for a moment that we are not in the happy days of 1913. We are told that some of our plays are written by "moral scavengers, filth producers," and hosiery salesmen—a somewhat unusual collocation, to say the least. Before the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs a female physician says that wide skirts, long sleeves, high necks, and no dancing are necessary if the morals of our youth are to be preserved.

Some part of the occupation of reformers will disappear after July 1, for what will our moralists do without the Demon Rum to use as a target for invective long boiling within them? It is a pleasure to find that our spiritual demobilization has been completed in time, and that the passing of Barleycorn will find the heavy guns of the pulpit once more in their old emplacements, firing barrages of spiritual thermite at our long-suffering modern Babylon. New York will never feel like herself until she is once more undergoing the weekly unfavorable comparison with Sodom and Gomorrah.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Urged to Forget Friction.

In his address to the American soldier students and their young French associates, assembled at the Beaune University as participants in what in this country would be called "commencement exercises," Captain ANDRE TARDIEU made an eloquent appeal to both his American and French hearers to use their utmost efforts for the preservation and the strengthening of friendship between the two nations. He told them, and truly, that their interests were the same, and that their enemies, at home and abroad, were also the same.

He asked them to forget, or to see in their proper proportions, the petty grievances and frictions naturally arising in circumstances such as were created by the presence of the American Expeditionary Forces in France, and especially did he beg them to foil the efforts of plotters who, by exaggerating real difficulties and inventing imaginary offenses, were doing their miserable best to substitute hostility for amity.

Presumably the French students needed these exhortations as much as do the Americans who are, or have been, in France, but for the latter they certainly were not superfluous. Letters coming from abroad and the talk of too many of our returning soldiers have made it apparent that for wholly inadequate reasons some of them have acquired wholly mistaken ideas concerning the French people—errors of judgment which, if not removed, will have consequences certainly lamentable and possibly disastrous. With a frequency that does little credit to their intelligence, the rapacity shown by some elements of the French population has been described and condemned as a national characteristic. Yet the men who did this knew perfectly well that in no country on earth, and at no time, are strangers safe from overcharges and extortion, and the strangers need not be foreigners, either, to suffer in this way.

Comparing France and Germany.

American criticism of the French reaches the height of unreason and injustice in the case of soldiers who compare, to the disadvantage of France, their experiences there in the way of billets, regularity of meals, and general comfort of life with what they had in the occupied part of Germany after the armistice was signed. The American soldier who does that—who found, or finds, Coblenz a pleasanter town as a place of residence than were any of the towns in France where he was under German fire or surrounded by the effects of that fire—such a soldier is undeservedly fortunate if those who hear him charge him with nothing worse than stupidity.

As for extortionate charges, do stories about them come only from France? Have they not arrived from the vicinity of our own training camps again and again, and do not our automobilists have just a few of them to tell when they return from excursions through any American countryside? The soldier who has no better name than "Frogs" for the men who first turned the German tide on the Marne, who defended Verdun, who fought not one year but four, he—well, he may be as good a fighter himself, but his vocabulary is much in need of improvement, and his manners need it no less.

His Word Is Not Just Right.

Among the most interesting of the reasons given by HANFORD HENDERSON for ceasing to be a propagandist of socialism was his having arrived at the conclusion that under a government truly socialistic everybody would be "singularly uninteresting." What he means it is easy enough to see, and he is right in a way, but for all that his characterization is neither particularly fortunate nor particularly accurate.

The bees and the ants are both exponents of socialism carried to its logical extremes, but they are not uninteresting. Indeed, they are commonly considered by naturalists quite the most interesting of all insects. The interest felt in them, however, is purely that of the utterly alien observer.

There is no denying that the "States" established by the bees and the ants are highly successful from the materialistic standpoint, but, so far as known, no human student of these wonderful little creatures found their conditions of life enviable or contemplated without something like horror the thought of a like sacrifice by human beings of individual rights, privileges and preferences.

Every bee and every ant, at least to human eyes, performs magnificently the task assigned to it under the established régime. It recoils from no sacrifice, and works daily for the general welfare to the limit of its strength, but the reward for the individual is unmitigated slavery. There is diversity of duty, but no diversity of honor, no recognition of achievement. How the bees and ants stand it is beyond the comprehension of more fortunate, though less praised, animals.

Daylight Saving Remains.

"Daylight saving" seems to be safe—for this year. At any rate, the House Rules Committee apparently has been convinced by the arguments reaching it from the friends of the plan that it would not be judicious to accomplish, or even to attempt, the repeal by means of a "rider" attached to the Agricultural Appropriation bill, and the decision not to permit resort to that familiar and always disgraceful trick presumably settles the question for the present.

Standing alone, the proposal immediately to set back the clocks would be so violently assaulted by so many voters that it would have no chance whatever. Only by involving its fate with that of a large and much needed appropriation could it have slipped through to enactment. If that danger has passed, the extra hour of daylight leisure that is so pleasant and so valuable to at least nine people out of ten the country through is not going to be taken away from them merely that milkmen and market gardeners may not have to get up an hour earlier than was their wont and that the farmer's hired hands may be free to "go to the village" as soon as their cronies there have stopped work—such of them as do work.

These are the only comprehensible arguments yet made against "daylight saving," and what limited arguments they are!

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It would interest several persons to know if the statement made about the round balls on top of the posts at the stable gate of the famous James Gordon Bennett house at Fort Washington are shell brought by General Winfield Scott from Vera Cruz, Mexico, in 1848, presented by him to the City of New York, then placed on the posts of the southern gateway of Union Square, that in 1829 had been surrounded by a high iron fence. When the fence was removed, Mr. Bennett was said to have asked for the shell, and placed them on his stable entrance.

A PROTEST FOR ART.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A crime against the United States, its history, and its art has been committed in this city. The Mayor allowed, the Art Jury allowed, the citizens have allowed the whole of the pavement in front of Independence Hall, save a small space before the door, to be occupied by a wooden grand stand as high as the wings of the hall to be erected to accommodate spectators on the occasion of the return of Pennsylvania troops a week ago.

The Mayor has since announced that the stand is to remain through the Summer and be used by spectators of other parades. The erection of the stand was a local disgrace to the Mayor, the Art Jury, and the City of Philadelphia.

The Mayor's announcement that the stand is to remain is a national peril, as well as an act of treason to art and history. Independence Hall is our greatest national monument, one of our most beautiful buildings. It is in the clutches of the City of Philadelphia, which is unworthy to have anything to do with it.

Immediately the nation should be aroused to the fact that our national monument is in danger, that it may be destroyed at any moment, owing to the ignorant stupidity of the Mayor of this city. The State House should be taken over by the Government, even if troops have to be ordered out to do so. The peril has been pointed out, but nothing has been done or will be done by the Art Jury or the citizens of Philadelphia or its Mayor if they can help it. Let the people of the United States rise if they have any patriotism, any love of art, any thought for our history, and guard their precious monument. And they must rise at once.

What does this all prove? That we must have, and immediately, a Ministry of Art which shall protect us from vandals like the city authorities of Philadelphia. I am a Philadelphian. I write you because these facts should be known outside this city, and because you can give wide publicity to the fact that our greatest shrine is in the gravest peril. I hope you will call on all Americans to act.

Small, slow, old-fashioned, dingy even, the Danish steamer Mary may or may not be. But she did not "shuffle on her way" nor "shamble on" like some park vagabond; she did not "bawl" to Lewis Butt, as if against her will; nor does she "prowl" like a thief; and it is more than doubtful if she is "slatternly" or a "shoddy, trudging lollypop," as Mr. MacKaye says in his verses in THE TIMES.

Read the cabled news and you will get the true picture. Here is a little ship, like thousands of the slow freighters that braved the submarines, plodding steadily, surely along, regardless of danger now as she was when she was daring the Hun attack, without wireless to call for help for herself even, but carrying her cargo well and doing her duty as a true ship. Above her is a new craft, one which despises the slow freighter perhaps and would scorn her, but now this craft is in distress. And the reports say the Mary answered the distress signals promptly; she stood by as thousands of her kind have stood by in the years past; and it took an hour and a half for her men in a small boat amid heavy seas to rescue two other men. Was her report "laconic"? Yes, and why not? She and her captain and her crew had done their full duty, and had given news as soon as possible. Why talk about it?

It may be remembered that during the war Germany was threatening Denmark with extermination and mining Danish seas, yet Danish men of war put themselves between the stranded British ship and the guns from the German boats.

So "Danish Mary" answered distress signals promptly and spent her time, and her men risked their lives, to give help where needed in the same way that true seamen have always done. No glistening liner, no smart destroyer could have done better nor more.

Whitman's International Creed.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In preparing our thoughts for the hundredth anniversary of Walt Whitman, on May 31, we should recognize the identity of this poet's international ideals with ours. Especially is this true during these weeks when the fate of the League of Nations hangs in the balance. He foresaw what we are now just coming to realize: that all nations are interdependent and that the present and future good of humanity will issue in proportion to the solidarity felt by the common people of all nations and races.

Recently, in reading Horace Traubel's account of Walt Whitman's conversation at the dinner given in honor of his seventy-second anniversary, May 31, 1891, I came across the following passage, which I venture to quote as of especial interest during these days of dawning internationalism, when, more than ever before, we are recognizing Walt Whitman's priority in the formation of our democratic ideals:

"I said that the theory of the progress and expansion of the cause of the common bulk of the people is the same in all countries—not only in the British Islands but on the continent of Europe and allwheres—that we are all embarked together like fellows in a ship, bound for good or for bad. What wrecks one wrecks all. And it is my feeling, and I hope I have in 'Leaves of Grass' expressed it, that the bulk of the common people, the torso of the people, the great body of the people all over the civilized world * * * are sailing, sailing together in the same ship. And that which jeopardizes one jeopardizes all." (Page 326, "In Re Walt Whitman," edited by Traubel, Bulke and Harned, 1893.)

"In Good King George's Glorious Days."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have found a historical precedent for the slogan, "No beer, no work." In England during the reign of George II., (1727-1760,) to obtain liquor more spirituous than beer and light wines one very influential class of voters adopted the formula, "No gin, no King." And to advertise their wares these voters displayed in taverns such posters as, "Drunk for a Penny," "Dead Drunk for Two Pence," "Clean Straw for Nothing." (Montgomery's "English History," Page 338.) It seems that the "No beer, no work" slogan lacks as much "kick" as the beverage it stands for.

"THEY CANNOT PAY."

And now they whine, "We cannot pay!"
In part
They speak the truth. One single broken heart
They cannot pay for, tho' they hoard for years;
Nor can they pay for all the blinding tears
slain;
Nor pay for all our dead, and all the pain
Of countless thousands who, while they have breath,
Must live deformed and crippled to their death;
For those who nevermore shall see the day—
No, Germany, for these—you cannot pay.

MANY COLUMBIA REUNIONS.

165th Commencement Will Be Notable for Class Meetings.

Columbia's 165th Commencement, which begins with the baccalaureate sermon by Dr. E. E. Braithwaite, of Western University, London, Ontario, in St. Paul's Chapel, Sunday, June 1, will be notable for its class reunions, of which more will be held than at any time in the University's history. The class of 1869 will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary, and even 1918, youngest of the alumni family, will get together at formal victory functions. Graduates and former students will return from all parts of the world, and many dinners and outings in and about New York have been planned.

The alumni campaign for $300,000 is being pushed under the direction of Assistant Secretary Charles Proffitt. It is hoped that the goal will be reached by Commencement Day, Wednesday, June 4.

One of the most interesting reunions will be held by the class of 1894, which with '69 will march in the academic procession and have seats at the Commencement exercises. On Tuesday evening '91 will hold a dinner at the Columbia University Club, 4 West Forty-third Street, in honor of its twenty-fifth anniversary. The decennial class of 1909 is arranging for one of the liveliest events of the Commencement season. A committee headed by W. H. Brown, Jr., has planned a cabaret supper to be given in the university gymnasium a 6:30 P. M. on Commencement Day. A joint committee of thirty-two, representing the college and science sections of the class, has arranged to devote Tuesday, June 3, the day before Commencement, to a general outing at Sheepshead Bay, with a joint dinner at Villepique's Inn, 3,078 Ocean Avenue. An important feature of the 1909 decennial will be the amalgamation of the organizations of college and science into one class body.

The class of 1904 has arranged to hold its quindecennial dinner at Huntington, L. I., on June 3. It will also take part in an outing there on May 31. The class of 1899 will present to the university as its twenty-year gift a memorial tablet to John Purroy Mitchel, who was a member of this class. The tablet will be the work of Joseph Davidson. This class will hold a dinner at the Columbia University Club on the evening of June 3, when the class dinners of 1900, 1906, and 1885, Mines, will take place. On the evening of June 2, the class of 1918 will have its dinner at the club.

Hamilton Hall will be open Commencement Day as headquarters for classes. Rooms have already been reserved there for 1888 and 1892. The Gemot will house 1909. The class of 1869 will assemble in the dean's office. The early 80's, the upper 80's, and the 49ers will have headquarters at the Faculty Club. The class dinner of 1881 will be held at the Columbia University Club on June 5.

The Class Day exercises of the senior class of Columbia College will be held on Monday, June 2, at 2:30 P. M. A tree will be planted on the lawn between the Mines building and Earl Hall in memory of those who fell in the war. The Commencement Alumni luncheon will be in the university gymnasium at 1:30 P. M. on Wednesday, June 4. The formal university Commencement exercises will begin at 11 A. M. on that day.

TELLS OF EUROPE'S NEEDS.

Belgian Physician Advocates More General Health Education.

Dr. Rene Sand, medical advisor of the Belgian Ministry of Labor, who has just arrived in this country, declares that Europe is suffering from a breakdown from which it will not recover for years. These would be difficult years, he said yesterday, during which she must work out her own salvation.

"You have achieved greatness and prosperity on solid foundations, one of which is health," said Dr. Sand. "So has England. But in Continental Europe, and especially in the Latin countries, health was altogether neglected. Education was pure learning. Sports were not practiced. Hygiene was considered a bother; contact with nature was lost.

"Possessed by a sense of our actual needs, your Red Cross now aims at teaching us better. During the war your tuberculosis workers, your child welfare workers, your recreation workers, started a campaign which will bring lasting benefit. Your program of peacetime activities, with its permanent central organization in Geneva, will continue it and give strong impetus to the health movement in Europe."

Dr. Sand said private agencies should help public agencies in this. Private enterprises, he said, would explore the field and educate the public.

"The drawback of private initiative," continued Dr. Sand, "is lack of standards and co-ordination. To give all the committees and associations a common centre, to prevent waste and mistakes, to agree on standards and a single program, I do not know of any existing agency which would be better prepared than the Red Cross."

NEW YORK TO CLEAN HOUSE

All City Departments to Unite in Four-Day Effort.

New York will be expected to clean house from June 16 to June 30, according to an announcement made yesterday by the Health Commissioner, Dr. Royal S. Copeland. Dr. Copeland is Chairman of the Clean Up Committee, which will meet on Monday to decide on what dates different parts of the city will be cleaned. On the committee are representatives of the Health, Fire, Park and Street Cleaning Departments.

The plan proposed is to divide the city into zones and the different departments will concentrate their effort on each zone at a given time. The police will distribute circulars to householders telling of the proposed clean up. Inspectors of the Health Department will give information as to methods of conducting the work.

The Water Department has promised all the water needed to flush the streets. Trade associations, civic organizations, motion picture theatre proprietors, and Boy Scouts have promised to assist in the work.

FRENCH FEAR NEW TAXES.

Proposed Imports Will Greatly Increase the Cost of Living.

PARIS, May 30.—The new taxes proposed by the Government will greatly increase the cost of living, according to a statement made by Raoul Peret, President of the Budget Committee of the Chamber of Deputies, to the Excelsior. The proposed fiscal duties, he said, will aggravate the problems brought forth by demobilization and the cessation of the moratorium.

The Journal, in discussing the budget proposals, makes a comparison between the French and German budgets which shows that each German will pay 345 francs while each Frenchman will pay 620 francs.

NO RHINE REPUBLIC YET.

Centrists Are Now Said to be Opposed to Separation.

FRANKFORT, May 29, (Associated Press.)—Although a semi-official announcement was made here yesterday that the Rhineland was to be declared an independent republic today, advices from Coblenz say the step has not yet been taken.

The leaders of the Centrist Party, who were supposed to be in favor of separation, are said to be opposing it, unless the German National Assembly and the Prussian Diet deliberately approve of the plan and have it incorporated in the peace treaty.

MAY PICK ROOSEVELT FOR THE CITY TICKET

PARTY FIXES UPON POLICY

Leaders, While Favoring Fusion, Want Republicans to be at the Fore.

Following the defeat of the anti-Tammany Fusion forces in the last Mayoralty fight, the Republican leaders in this city have reached the conclusion that the best policy will be to have a regular Republican candidate in the campaign next Fall for the election of a successor to Alfred E. Smith as President of the Aldermanic Board, as well as in the municipal campaign two years hence. Incidentally Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt may be asked to become leader of the Republican forces in the fight.

This decision, reached after many informal conferences, does not necessarily mean that the Republican Party expects or will be compelled to stand alone either in the fight next Fall or in 1921, when a full city ticket is to be elected.

As in other years, an effort will be made by the Republicans to effect a coalition with the independents and, in fact, with every element opposed to Tammany rule. But where in other campaigns the Republican Party has been the tail of the anti-Tammany kite, the Republican leaders have determined that from now on the order shall be reversed and the voters taught to look to the Republicans in fights to keep Tammany out of the City Hall.

Will Await the Primaries.

It was the almost universal opinion among those who participated at the recent conferences that the application of the direct primary law in city elections had made fusion along the old lines impractical and that it would be unwise to begin formal negotiations looking to an alliance between the Republicans and other anti-Tammany organizations that may enter the field until after the city primaries have determined who is to be the Republican candidate for Aldermanic President. The Republican leaders have not forgotten their experience in the Mitchel-Hylan fight two years ago, when Mayor Mitchel failed to carry the Republican primaries and the leaders, in order to preserve even a semblance of cohesion among the fusion forces, were placed in the awkward position of having to connive, in defiance of all party ethics, to bring about the defeat of the candidate who as victor in the primary fight had every claim on their support.

Since determining on their policy the Republican leaders have been looking about for a candidate who would command support among the independents, and Lieut. Col. Roosevelt has been considered. Many of the leaders, notably Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the New York County Republican Committee, believe that he would be the strongest candidate the Republicans could put in the field. Lieut. Col. Roosevelt is known to be eager to enter politics, but has been advised by some of his friends that this off-year in politics is not his year, and the fight for the place at the head of the Aldermanic Board not his fight.

Some of his friends have told Lieut. Col. Roosevelt that it would be foolhardy on his part to enter the fight this Fall and risk at the very beginning of his political career a defeat that might end it. One Republican leader who is taking a fatherly interest in Colonel Roosevelt's son has advised him that he might do better by starting, as did his father, as a candidate for the Assembly in the district where he lives, the Fifteenth, in Manhattan, which is practically identical with the district that gave his father his opening for a great career. Lieut. Col. Roosevelt, it was said yesterday, was not very strongly inclined to become a candidate for any office this Fall.

Other Names Under Consideration.

Among other Republicans who have been considered are ex-Chairman Frederick C. Tanner of the Republican State Committee. Mr. Tanner, however, has told the leaders that he would vastly prefer to be left alone to practice law. Colonel William Hayward of the old 15th Regiment has also been talked of, but has given the leaders no encouragement.

Among men with military records who have been discussed are Congressman Fiorello H. La Guardia and Major Philip J. McCook. Major McCook, before he entered the overseas service, was Director of the Draft in this city.

Henry H. Curran, who was Chairman of the Finance Committee in what has been called the "best Board of Aldermen New York ever had" and who made a good fight for Aldermanic President as the Republican candidate against Frank L. Dowling, and Senator Charles C. Lockwood of Kings have also been considered at the Republican conferences.

The Republican leaders admit that the chances are against a Republican victory in the campaign this Fall, unless something should develop to make the present city administration more unpopular than it is at present. The Democrats expect to nominate Robert L. Moran, who as Vice Chairman of the Aldermanic Board automatically rose to the post held by Alfred E. Smith before his retirement to accept the Governorship. Mr. Moran, who is a resident of the Bronx, it is thought, can depend upon the solid support of Tammany Hall and its organized allies in other boroughs.

The Republicans are looking to the Mayoralty fight two years hence, rather than to the fight this year, for their triumph. The campaign this year will be a curtain raiser for the fight in 1921 more than anything else. The fight will be not so much on Tammany as on Mayor Hylan and the relations between the Mayor and William R. Hearst. The Republican hopes for 1921 are based chiefly on the prospect of a three-cornered fight in that year, for it is regarded as certain by the Republicans that Tammany will be compelled to throw Mayor Hylan overboard, and it is regarded probable by the Republican leaders that under the circumstances Mayor Hylan will be in the Mayoralty race as a Hearst entry, to divide the Democratic vote.

The Republican contention in the fight this Fall will be that the city would derive unmeasured benefit from a Republican in the Board of Estimates to act as a check on the Tammany and Hearst influences. In the event that this plea, as some of the Republican leaders hope, should be successful and their candidate win, they desire to have in the field a man of such calibre that as a member of the board he can provide ammunition for the Republican fight for control of the city government in 1921 and become himself the Republican candidate for Mayor.

DENIES THIRD TERM TALK.

Cummings Says Statement in Chicago Was Misquoted.

ST. LOUIS, May 30.—Homer S. Cummings, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, arrived here today for conferences with Democratic State party leaders to smooth out factional differences in Missouri. Chairman Cummings had several conferences scheduled with party leaders of St. Louis, with the view, it was said, of bringing the city organization into closer harmony with the State Committee.

Mr. Cummings today declared he had been misquoted in Chicago in a statement attributed to him to the effect that a defeat of the League of Nations would cause President Wilson to seek a third term.

"It is idle to talk about third terms," he said, "or of Presidential candidates."

Joseph P. Tumulty, Secretary to President Wilson, accompanied Chairman Cummings's party, but declared he was merely taking advantage of Memorial Day to "play hookey."

K. OF C. SECRETARY RETURNS A HERO

TELLS HIS EXPERIENCES

Lauded by Whole Battalion for Unflinching Aid in Far Advanced Positions.

Joseph P. Crowe, Secretary of the Knights of Columbus, who was recommended for the Distinguished Service Cross by a whole battalion, has arrived in New York on his way to his home in Binghamton, N. Y. He got in on the steamship Roma after weeks spent in a hospital in France, having lost his right leg through the explosion of a German shell while he, with two officers, was on his way to an advance dressing station in the Argonne district.

To hundreds of men of the 325th Infantry of the 82d Division he is known as "that K. of C. guy Crowe, who would not stay behind the fighting line." He worked in more advanced positions perhaps than any other welfare worker and he not only carried cigarettes, chocolates, and other thing to the fighters, but he brought in bodies when others would not take the risk. He made trips through shelled areas with food and coffee and he stayed by some of the wounded until he could get them moved.

Mr. Crowe was in commercial life before he took up the duties of an overseas worker for the Knights of Columbus. He went to France by the way of England on the steamship Megantic on July 31 last year. Late in October in the Argonne between Fleville and St. Juven he received the wound that resulted in the loss of his leg. With Lieutenant Hanley and Captain McCune he was walking up a road to an advance dressing station when a shell dropped within a few yards of the trio. Crowe had his left leg almost blown off, the Lieutenant was wounded in the thigh, and the Captain had his elbow shattered.

The Secretary was not inclined to discuss his work in serving the men. He said that he went abroad with the idea that he had certain duties to perform and he tried to the best of his ability to perform them. He did talk of his experiences, though, but he said he did so for the credit of the Knights, because he wanted people to know that Knights of Columbus men did serve where there was the greatest need.

By Aug. 25, he said, the command with which he served had advanced into Fond de Sac Woods. Crowe had established a hut in a small tar-paper covered shack. One afternoon an officer came with news that the Americans were "going to give the Germans hell," and invited him into a dugout. There they were while for seventy-two hours the gunners poured shells upon the German positions. The latter replied, but did not have the range and the shells went wild.

Saw Germans at Guns.

Mr. Crowe told of the attempt to gas the command and of its final advance of two miles before it was relieved by the French and ordered back for a rest period only to be mobilized the next morning and again marched toward the fighting. Taking what chocolates and cigarettes he could carry, Mr. Crowe went with the men. There were times, he said, when he got into the front lines and so near the Germans that he could see them working their machine guns.

Mr. Crowe was with the men of the Medical Corps and advanced with them into the actual fighting. They were behind the advancing troops when word came for them to go ahead to a knoll covered with trees in which they were expected to find the infantry. They did not find them, but they advanced into a zone that was being literally covered by German shells. When dawn began to break they found themselves near a field that had been honeycombed by shells.

As they were making for shelter a bit of shrapnel cut off the thumb of a lieutenant. At the request of the latter Crowe stayed by him until late in the day. As they lay in the shell hole they heard whistling which they took for the signals of German snipers. Crowe determined to investigate. Holding his gun in readiness he crept along until in a clump of bushes he heard low talking. He ordered the talkers to come out and threatened to shoot. They promptly came out and proved to be several American stretcher-bearers. They carried the lieutenant, who had been gassed as well as wounded, back to a dressing station.

As the wave of battle advanced, the Knights of Columbus man went ahead with it giving out cigarettes and chocolates. He wanted to help more and so he went to the commanding officer and asked what he could do. He was told he was most needed with the Medical Corps detachment which had established a dressing station in a field. The wounded were coming in so fast that no one was able to leave and in consequence the detail of some thirty-five men had been without food and with very little water for about thirty-six hours.

When Crowe heard this he determined to go back to Fleville some three or four miles and bring up supplies to the men. He knew the way and he knew the bridge over a considerable stream was down because he had just come over the route. He was told that it would be impossible to bring up food but he succeeded, and for more than five days he kept the medical detachment fed and warmed with coffee while they worked on a minimum of sleep attending to the wounded who passed in an never ending stream through the station.

Went Through Many Perils.

The telling of this does not convey the danger. There were places where the Germans were shelling the roads and there were times when Crowe had to go with extreme caution over bits of country which German guns could reach.

On another occasion an officer told Crowe he had heard that two of his men had been killed eight days before and that their bodies were lying beside the railroad track. He asked the latter if he would go back with his orderly and bury the bodies. The Secretary and the orderly went back and found the bodies. They also found on a bank along side the track, eight other bodies of American soldiers. Again, orders came to a chaplain to go out and bring in the body of an officer who had fallen in an advance, and whose body lay on dangerous ground. He was not willing to take the risk, and so Crowe volunteered. More than that he got eight doughboys to volunteer to go out and help him.

They had to cross a country under fire. Halfway, Crowe left four of the men and with the other four advanced. At a cross road they found a sniper who had his gun trained on the road. Crowe tied a handkerchief to his arm, advanced to the edge of the danger zone, and held up the white flag. A bullet struck a tree within two inches of his arm. After a wait, the five men crossed the danger zone and no shot was fired at them. Crowe led the way back and signaled with his handkerchief at the cross road, but this time no shot greeted him.

FOR TAX-FREE MORTGAGES.

Commission Hopes to Make Realty Loans More Attractive.

A plan to relieve the housing situation, which, if it is carried through with the help of Congress, is expected to make first mortgages attractive investments and thus break the financial deadlock, was announced yesterday by Mrs. Henry Moskowitz of the New York State Reconstruction Commission. The Commission will organize a large committee of banking officials, members of loan companies, and business men, to appear before Congress to urge the elimination of the Federal income tax on mortgages up to $40,000, and also on the bonds of the State Land Bank. In this way it is proposed to make these securities as desirable an investment as those bonds of the Liberty Loans which are tax-exempt.

It was also announced by Mrs. Moskowitz that through encouragement given to builders by the Reconstruction Commission's $5,000,000 loan fund, a $2,000,000 project had been put under way by a builder and that ground will be broken in Brooklyn next week for an apartment building to cover only 37 per cent. of the land, while the law allows 70 per cent. The large inner court, which is obtained by developing a whole block at a time, provides more light and air than the usual type of construction, and a large play space, free from the dangers of street traffic, is turned over to the children. It is said that the apartments will rent for $7 and $8 a room, and that the money return will be the same as that on existing apartments devoid of the advantages resulting from the new type of construction.

The Reconstruction Commission has invited Thomas Adams, who was in charge of the housing program of the Canadian Government, to attend a conference June 9. Next Monday a committee of the Commission will meet Governor Smith to discuss the the Joint Committee to go to Washington.

JAMES F. WENMAN DIES IN 96TH YEAR

OLD VOLUNTEER FIREMAN

Former Park Commissioner Was a 7th Regiment Veteran and a Member of the Old Guard.

James Fowler Wenman, "father" of the New York Cotton Exchange, better known as Captain Jim Wenman, for many years and up to the time of his death cotton broker at 12 old Slip, died Thursday at his home, 73 East Ninety-second Street, in the ninety-sixth year of his age. Captain Wenman had a most interesting career, and was especially well known as a member of the old Volunteer Fire Department and later for his work in the Exempt Firemen's Association.

Born in Fulton Street, March 7, 1824, a son of Uzziah Wenman, who was chief engineer of the Volunteer Department from 1828 to 1831, he joined the Volunteer Department as a member of American Engine 17 in 1841. His grandfather was Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. He was assistant engineer from 1856 to 1859. Much public praise was given at the time for his bravery in a fire in 1876 in the New York Clubhouse, when, aided by his son, James W. Wenman, he saved the life of a servant, Lizzie Sullivan. He also won universal commendation for his untiring efforts in behalf of the yellow fever sufferers in 1878.

Mayor Wickham appointed him Park Commissioner in 1876, and it was while serving as President of the Board that he was instrumental in having the Obelisk placed in Central Park. It is said that had it not been for his efforts the Obelisk would have been placed in Philadelphia instead of here. In recognition of this and other services he was honored by being made a fellow for life of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

He had been associated with the cotton business for more than sixty years, and in 1861 he organized the Board of New York Cotton Brokers, becoming its first President and holding office until 1870, when the present Cotton Exchange was formed. He was Vice-president of the Exchange for six years, President for two years and a member of the Board of Managers for twenty years. Upon his retirement from the Exchange in 1909, he was honored by having the privilege of the floor extended to him for life. He was known as the "father" of the Exchange.

Captain Wenman helped to form the Gulick Guards in 1843, which was called the best drilled company in the First Division, National Guard Regiment. He joined the 7th Regiment in 1856, served six years, and was then a veteran of that regiment. In 1876 he joined the Old Guard, and marched in every parade for many years.

He was shortstop on the Knickerbocker team, the first baseball club organized in New York. He was a Free Mason for seventy-two years, and was for many years Vice President of the Exempt Firemen's Association. Captain Wenman was particularly active as a member of the committee of the Old Guard and the Exempt Firemen's Association in arranging for the welcomes to the Twenty-seventh Division from overseas. He was also a member of the John A. Dix Post, G. A. R.

HOLIDAY CROWD IN CRASH.

Twelve Persons Hurt as One Trolley Hits Another.

Two trolley cars of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit, one of them crowded with persons homeward bound from Coney Island, crashed into each other at Twenty-fifth Avenue and Harway Place, Brooklyn, shortly after 11 o'clock last night. The passengers were thrown to the floors of the two cars and twelve of them were injured seriously enough to require the attendance of a physician.

One car, of the Thirty-ninth Street Ferry line, from Coney Island, had more than a hundred passengers on board, while the other, a Bay Ridge Avenue car, had less than a dozen men and women in it. The accident occurred at a cross switch, where the Bay Ridge Avenue car hit the second trolley in the centre. A hurry call was sent to the Coney Island Hospital for ambulances. Most of those injured received cuts from flying glass or bruises from being thrown off their feet. Three passengers were removed to the hospital.

They were:

Frank Elker, 25 years old, 1,738 Linden Avenue, Brooklyn, sprained back and cuts on arms and legs; Michael Babuko, 26 years old, 338 Forty-ninth Street, Brooklyn, contusions on body; Harry Burman, 17 years old, 93 Christopher Street, Brooklyn, scalp wounds and broken right foot.

The reserves of the Bath Beach Station were called out to handle the crowd of several thousand persons who gathered around the scene of the accident. No arrests were made.

GREAT CROWDS, TOTALING 50,000, SEE GIANTS BEAT ROBINS TWICE

GIANTS TWICE SHOW HEELS TO SUPERBAS

Take Both Games of Holiday Bill by Scores of 6 to 2 and 4 to 1 as 50,000 Fans Cheer.

SCHUPP GETS A CHANCE

Makes Fine Showing in Morning Contest—Leaders Pound Smith Hard in the Afternoon.

Close to 50,000 spectators saw the Giants and Brooklyn in action in two games at the Polo Grounds yesterday. New York thumped the Dodgers in both games, winning the morning affair by a score of 6 to 2, with nearly 15,000 looking on. In the afternoon the place was jammed and nearly 35,000 cheered themselves almost to fever heat when the Giants again walloped the Robins, 4 to 1.

There was more wild-eyed enthusiasm to the square inch at the afternoon game than has been seen at a baseball game here in years. The crowd didn't mind the heat, and all seemed to have reached the high mark of happiness when McGraw's men pasted the Brooklyns to their hearts' content. Before game time in the afternoon the sale of grand stand seats stopped. Then the fans poured into the sunny four-bit bleachers.

Harlem cannot remember a holiday when so many folks turned out to two games. Thousands must have left their breakfasts flat to get up there in time for the morning affair at 10:15. They were well rewarded for missing their usual holiday morning snooze when they saw the real come-back of Ferdinand Stubblefield Schupp, the Louisville thrush, who after a lay-off for nearly two seasons, found his supple left arm, spinning curves over the plate with deadly effect. Ferdie got into the game after Pol Perritt had passed Magee in the third. For the rest of the game Schupp gave the Dodgers only two hits. His wide out-shoot bent almost into a half circle as it ducked away from the Brooklyn bats. The game was the snappiest of the season and the boys finished the job in 1:17.

Giants Pound Smith.

The afternoon found the Giants at their very best, and they trimmed Sherry Smith, Brooklyns' crack southpaw, in a way which made the Brooklyn fans groan. Jess Barnes did the pitching for New York and kept the Dodgers in check from the start. The only dent of consequence made in Barnes' pitching was wrought by Konetchy in the seventh, when he drilled a home run into the right field multitude.

During the odd moments when the crowd wasn't lustily cheering the Giants attention was turned toward jeering Ivy Olson, the well-known juggler, who plays short for the Brooklyns. Compared with Olson, a New York rent-boosting landlord is a howling favorite. Even the Brooklyn fans have turned against him and the Swede got a panning yesterday which left his disposition badly blistered.

Laughing Larry Doyle was friskier than the youngest player in the field and in the afternoon he peeled off four hits against Smith, including a triple and a double. Gonzales, the Cuban catcher, found his batting eye for the first time since joining the Giants and banged out three hits. Ross Young got a double off the right field wall in the sixth, but he had to make a long slide into second to get it, and after the slide he found that he had made a rip of several yards long in his knickers.

For the first two innings in the afternoon tilt Brooklyn gave Smith fine support, which is unusual for Brooklyn these days. In the third, Fletcher singled and then Gonzales got his first hit, sending Fletcher to second. Barnes rolled to Smith, who forced Fletcher at third. Burns grounded to Magee, who made a pretty throw to Konetchy, the first baseman muffing the ball, choking the bases. As Young was being exterminated at first Gonzales scored.

Doyle Gets a Triple.

Doyle tripled in the fourth and scored on Kauff's single to right. Barnes held the Dodgers in the palm of his lily-white until Koentchy leaned against one in the seventh and scored Brooklyn's only tally with a home-run punch.

The Giants hit Smith freely, but he was effective in the pinches and, to Brooklyn's credit, it must be said that at times they gave him good support. The Giants hit Sherry hard in the seventh. After Zimmerman had gone out at first in this inning, Fletcher singled to right center and Gonzales lifted a fly back of short. Olson and Wheat were undecided about who was to make the catch and the ball fell safely between them. Barnes poked a single to right, scoring Fletcher, while Gonzales went to third. Burns forced Barnes at second, and Gonzales scored on the play. One of the fielding gems was Benny Kauff's running catch of Hi Myers's long drive to center field in the second inning.

Fond hopes of Brooklyn's fans were shattered in the morning game when they saw their idol, Capt. Zach Wheat subtracted from the game, after Ferdie Schupp had struck him out twice. Another shock was the derricking of Tom Griffith after he had made a couple of life-sized errors in the first inning.

The Giants got a couple of runs in the opening session. With one gone, Young doubled to left off Cheney and Griffith muffed Chase's liner. Doyle singled to right, scoring Young. Griffith let the ball trickle through his feet, and Chase scored, Doyle going to third. Kauff fanned and Olson tossed Zim out at first.

Schupp Goes to Mound.

Brooklyn tied the count in the first of the third. Magee walked. Then McGraw took Perritt out and sent Schupp to the mound. Johnston was sent in to bat for Griffith and drew a pass. Wheat struck out. Myers singled through third and Magee walked. Konetchy hit a sacrifice fly to Burns and Johnston counted.

The Giants jumped to the front in that same stanza. Young singled and when Chase tried to sacrifice, Malone fumbled the ball. Doyle fouled to Miller. Kauff forced Chase at second and then came the big event of the morning pastime. Zimmerman crashed a home run into the lower deck of the right field stand and shoved Young and Kauff home ahead of him.

There was an unusual play in the fifth. After Young beat out an infield tap, Umpire Quigley called Ross out when the player stepped out of the batter's box to poke a grounder to the infield. The oldest inhabitant doesn't remember when this ever happened before, because, although it is sometimes done, the illegal manner of batting is usually overlooked by the umpire. Brighteyes Quigley, however, knew the rules from the ground up and called the batter out.

Cadore succeeded Cheney in the seventh and McCarty greeted him with single. Schupp sacrificed, Burns singled and sent McCarty to third. Mac scored on Young's sacrifice fly.

YANKEES TAKE TWO FROM WASHINGTON

New York Gets Back Into Third Place in American League Race.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The Yankees topped the Senators here today in both sections of the holiday double-header and rode back into third place on their twin victory and a similar achievement by the Detroit Tigers over the St. Louis Browns. In the morning Huggins's men grabbed off a tenth-inning victory with Walter Johnson on the mound for the home team.

In the afternoon the New Yorkers did not take the lead until the eighth inning, but in the ninth they pushed four runs over and won with plenty to spare. The scores were 4 to 2 in the opener and 6 to 2 in the nightcap number.

Johnson did not work the entire game for the home team this morning, but was put in to hold the Yankees safe after they had tied the score in the eighth inning. Robertson, a recent addition to the Griffith hurling force, was giving a fine account of himself, but his support was not of the top-notch variety, and Griffith decided that Johnson could hold the New Yorkers in check until Washington chased a run over. The strategy failed mainly because Ping Bodie drove one of Johnson's speeders to the left field fence for a triple to start the tenth, coming over with the winning run on Shawkey's slow roller to Shanks.

Shawkey, like Johnson, came into the game late. Huggins started Herb Thormahlen, the shut-out specialist, but Herbie was not in a shut-out mood today. He was hit with vigor and frequence by the Senators in the early innings, the score showing seven safe hits at the end of the fifth. Then he tightened and the home team did not get a hit in the last five frames off either Thormahlen or Shawkey. Lamar batted in vain for Thormahlen in the eighth and Shawkey took up the burden in the home half of the same inning.

The game was featured by numerous brilliant stops and catches, hardly an inning going by without some player getting under the spotlight with a fancy grab. Bodie was twice robbed of hits, once by a wonderful stop of Shanks behind second base, and later when Rice jumped against the right field wall and speared a long drive with one hand. Bodie handled eight chances in centre field.

The Senators took the lead early in the morning game, getting a run in the second inning on Gharrity's single, Thormahlen's late throw on Shanks's bunt, a sacrifice hit by Janvrin, and a sacrifice fly by Agnew. The lead was increased by a run in the fourth when Rice singled, Gharrity sacrificed, and Shanks singled, scoring Rice. That was all for the home team this morning.

The Yankees got a run in the sixth on Fewster's walk, Janvrin's error on Baker's grounder, and Lewis's sacrifice fly. They tied the score in the eighth on Vick's scratch hit, an infield out, and Baker's single to right. Bodie opened on Johnson with a triple to left in the tenth. Hannah fanning, and Shawkey's infield out on a squeeze play scored Bodie. A pass to Vick, Fewster's drive through Shanks, and Baker's singled added another run.

Poor base running kept the Yankees back this afternoon and it was not until the eighth inning that they went to the lead. Washington scored in the second inning on Rice's clean single and infield hits by Murray, Shanks, and Leonard. The Yankees got their first run in the sixth on Baker's walk, Ayer's throw past first base, a scratch hit by Pipp, and Foster's poor throw to Judge. In the eighth Lewis got an infield hit with two out and Pipp scored him with a triple to centre.

In the third inning, however, poor fielding, a base on balls, a single by Hallock and a triple by Condon, netted Harvard three runs and the game.

FORDHAM AVENGES BEATING BY YALE

Wins Second Game with Blue by Great Rally in Thirteenth and Ties Series.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 30.—Fordham's whirlwind finish in the thirteenth inning of today's baseball game with Yale swept the New Yorkers into a 4 to 2 victory, evening the series, which has proved the most brilliantly contested of all the games on Yale's card this year. The Elis won the first in eleven innings by 8 to 7.

Frisch, the Fordham shortstop, who will join the Giants later, played brilliantly in all departments. His brace of two two-baggers, one in the opening inning, which drove Fordham's first run home, and the other in the third, when it was followed by Burkley's single, played a large rôle in the result. Sweetland, the Fordham catcher, who left here tonight to join the Pittsburgh team, fielded his position phenomenally, his deadly throwing to bases checking three Yale rallies.

Holden's all-round game for Yale was the feature of the Eli play. Sawyer at second base killed several apparently safe hits.

Both of Yale's runs crossed the plate on the double steal, when attempts were made to head off a runner at second and to get the ball back to the plate in time to check a runner from third. Sawyer, who was passed in opening the fifth, stole second, took third on Lefevre's misplay, and scored on a perfect throw to get Holmes at second. Holden singled, and Holmes raced home as Holden stole second.

In the thirteenth Burkley stole and Finn hit in front of the plate, beating the throw. Sweetland's fly to centre scored Burkley, while Finn tallied on McNamara's long drive.

COLUMBIA'S JUNIOR EIGHT WINS GREAT STRUGGLE FROM N. Y. A. C. CREW IN REGATTA ON HARLEM

COLUMBIA JUNIOR CREW WINS RACE

Collegians Outrow New York A. C. Eight in Harlem River Regatta.

Bohemian Boat Club Sweeps River in Junior and Senior Sculling Events.

Columbia University's junior eight-oared crew rowed to victory yesterday in one of the most exciting eight-oared shell race for juniors seen on the Harlem River in more than ten years. The Morningside Heights oarsmen, putting every ounce of their strength into their blue and white tipped oars, drove their smooth-riding racing boat, the Edwin Gould, past the finish point less than half a length ahead of the New York A. C. crew. About five lengths back of the Mercury Foot wearers came the Union Boat Club junior eight, and following them in respective order were the Atalanta Boat Club and New Rochelle High School crews. The time for the winning crew was 5:59⅓. The New York A. C. eight was clocked in 6:02⅓.

The collegians won only after a thrilling battle which had its beginning at the very start and did not end until the judges raised their flag on the winning shell. Over the entire course of one mile the crews rowed hard for the premier position. Up to the half-mile mark the Mercury Footers held a slight advantage.

Shortly after passing the half-way mark the Blue and White oarsmen hit up their stroke and pulled even with the club juniors. Then the struggle for supremacy was given new impetus. First one crew went into the lead and then the other, until the last quarter mile was reached. Here Coaxswain Brush urged his men in the Columbia shell to increase their stroke, and when the stroke was sent up for the final spurt the Edwin Gould shot out in front.

Columbia Forges Ahead.

Gradually the collegians advanced on their rivals, until the New York A. C. crew was separated by open water from the college shell. The Winged Foot oarsmen, however, were not to be beaten without one final effort and they made it. The shell was propelled through the water with greater speed than at any other time during the race, but the effort was futile. The Columbia oarsmen, rising to the occasion, held to the front position and won by less than half a length.

The race furnished the leading attraction on the program for the annual Memorial Day regatta of the New York Rowing Association. The conditions were ideal, and great crowds jammed the balconies and floats of the Union and Nonpareil Boat Clubs for a view at the closing stages of the races.

On the Speedway and the bridges at the start and finish of the races, too, large crowds cheered as the competitors in the different races shot past in their attempts for rowing glory, while up and down the course sped gayly-decorated launches and motorboats containing members and admirers of some of the clubs whose oarsmen were competing.

The start was gauged for slack tide and was made on schedule, so that the young oarsmen drove their shells over a stretch of water whose surface resembled that of a mirror in point of smoothness. Hardly a ripple was raised on the water over the course, which started at Washington Bridge and concluded at a point a slight distance south of Fordham Bridge, where the judges at the finish were stationed with their flags.

In the junior quadruple sculls race earlier in the afternoon the New York A. C.'s return to rowing after a lapse of nearly three years was signalized with a convincing victory. The Winged Foot quartet, stroked by De Witt Baker, Jr., scored by about ten lengths over the Nonpareil Rowing Club, while the New Rochelle Rowing Club finished third, five lengths back of the Nons.

Lone Stars Win Doubles.

The closest finish of the day was produced in the junior double shell race, which went to the Lone Star Boat Club crew by about two feet over the Nonpareil Rowing Club. The Lone Star shell, in third position over the course to about 200 yards from the finish, advanced to even terms with the Nonpareil shell about ten yards from home and won in a thrilling finish.

An accident about one-quarter mile from the end deprived the New Rochelle R. C. crew of a chance for victory. The shell was racing in second position, half a length back of the Nonpareil shell, when it capsized. It was placed third.

First Bohemian Boat Club oarsmen swept the river in singles, Frank Sabotka taking the junior event by about seven lengths, while in the senior race Albert Kalbac was successful by about five lengths.

New Jersey Man Leads in Chateau-Thierry-to-Paris Run.

THIRTY-FOUR YACHTS START

Sirene and Tern Victors in First Long Island Sound Regatta.

Thirty-four yachts, divided into seven classes, opened the yacht racing season on Long Island Sound yesterday. It was the annual regatta of the Harlem Yacht Club and the first race scheduled by the Yacht Racing Association of Long Island Sound in two years.

The Long Island Sound schooners and the thirty-footers of the New York Yacht Club had their race spoiled by an unusual incident. The usual Long Island Sound course was chosen for the divisions. It took the craft from the starting line off Execution Light to a buoy off Parsonage Point. When the yachts reached Parsonage Point it was found that on account of the war the Government had removed the buoy.

After sailing around in a vain attempt to find the mark, the thirty-footers withdrew. The Sound schooners turned at the point where the mark should have been and crossed the Sound to the second mark off Weeks Point. They then came home with E. P. Alker's Allure leading the fleet. The thirty-footers will be given another race by the Harlem Yacht Club later in the season.

Sirene won among the Larchmont inter-club boats, and Tern led in the Sonder class. G. A. Corry's Little Dipper won among the Star yachts. The third division of the handicap class was the only one to fill. On both actual and corrected time the winner was Arethusa. The yacht was protested for not rounding one of the marks correctly.

BONNIE MARY WINS JUVENILE STAKES

Victory Acclaimed by 25,000 at Belmont—Billy Kelly Takes the Toboggan Handicap.

The tide of racing reached its high water mark at Belmont Park yesterday when 25,000 persons jammed their way into the stands and massed on the lawn to see P. A. Clark's Bonnie Mary crowned queen of the two-year-olds so far shown and welcome Commander J. K. L. Ross's great three-year-old Billy Kelly, which celebrated his first appearance on a metropolitan track by capturing the Toboggan Handicap at six furlongs.

As a turf fixture the Juvenile Stakes at five furlongs, in which Mr. Clark's daughter of Ultimus—Belgravia, demonstrated her superiority over a field of sixteen richly bred youngsters, took precedence over the Toboggan, but to the old racegoers who had followed Billy Kelly's performances from a distance the successful début in New York of last year's two-year-old champion was the feat to arouse the greater enthusiasm. The ordinary looking gelding which met and defeated all comers last season has earned his place as a public idol, and cheers rocked the stand while Commander Ross was rewarding him with a feast of sugar after his great burst of speed that enabled him to defeat Lucullite and other fast sprinters.

All through the afternoon the sport was of the highest class and well worthy of the tremendous crowd that attended to testify to the renewed popularity of racing. An hour before the time set for the first race the holiday makers had made their way to the track by auto, train, and trolley in such proportions that every seat was taken.

In the clubhouse the scene was more brilliant, and the exclusive enclosure also was jammed. Society was out in force. Three tiers of the clubhouse were densely packed, the boxes were filled, and, with very seat on the lawn taken, richly gowned women sought rest between the races by sitting out the intervals on the grass.

The paddock was never so crowded as it was before the cream of the juvenile racers were summoned to that enclosure to get ready for the Juvenile Stakes. The greatest crowd was around Harry Payne Whitney's pair, Upset and Sammy. The entry was a strong favorite.

There was a long delay at the post caused by the antics of A. K. Macomber's Heavy Weapon before a cloud of dust far up the chute signalled that the short dash was under way. From the break Bonnie Mary ran like a streak. Ensor had seized the chance to get her away in motion and she leaped to the front with Cinderella, On Watch and Upset doing their best to keep up with her mad flight. It was a hopeless task trying to match the flying strides of the new turf queen, for at every leap forward she drew away, so that at the end of the first quarter she had a lead of five lengths and was moving so easily that there was no doubt she would stay in front to the end. Bonnie Mary retained her advantage of five lengths when she passed the judges. On Watch had to be driven out to take the place by a length and a half from Upset, which was the same distance in front of Royal Duck. The time of 59 2-5 seconds was good, as the racers had to run against a rather strong wind.

There were eight starters for the Toboggan, with Billy Kelly closing a slight favorite over Lucullite. It was not until the last eighth of a mile that Loftus asked Billy Kelly to show his real speed. Then, without a touch of the whip, he shot away from Toto, with him in the lead, and seemed to have the race in hand until Lucullite came with a rush that threatened disaster for Billy. Loftus was forced to keep Billy Kelly moving and though Lucullite made up more than two lengths he was unequal to the task of catching Billy Kelly, which had a margin of a neck at the finish. Papp was third, a length and a half back. The summaries:

LAFAYETTE'S RALLY WINS.

Beats Columbia in Thrilling Fourteen-Inning Game, 8 to 7.

Columbia was defeated by Lafayette in a fourteen inning battle on South Field yesterday that lasted for four hours. The score was tied no less than three times and Lafayette finally cut the Gordian knot in the thirteenth to win by a tally of 8 to 7. To win the Easton nine had to score two runs in its turn at bat in that frame, for Columbia came through with a belated rally and made another run, coming within a single count of tying it up again.

Moyer and Farrell pitched for the respective teams and went the full distance. Farrell for Columbia yielded only fifteen hits as against sixteen that Columbia garnered from Moyer's delivery, but the Columbia twirler was less steady and issued many bases on balls. The fielding was none too good and Columbia's work was especially disappointing.

HARVARD BEATEN BY BROWN

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 30.—The Brown nine kept up its winning streak this afternoon by putting up a fighting brand of baseball and trimming Harvard 5 to 2. The game was replete with stellar playing on the part of the Brunonians. Able to hit in the pinches tells the story of the victory. Keeping on their toes every minute of the nine innings, Coach Patte's charges took advantage of the breaks in the game and harvested runs at the expense of Harvard's loose fielding.

HOLY CROSS TRIMS GREEN.

Dartmouth's Nine Proves a Feast for Purple Cohorts.

WORCESTER, Mass., May 30.—Dartmouth closed on the short end of a 9 to 1 score in the holiday game with Holy Cross here today. The Green team was outclassed in every department. Two Dartmouth pitchers were touched up freely by the Purple hitters. The crack Holy Cross outfit put across some sharp fielding and showed fine baseball all through the contest.

In the eighth frame with two Green runners on the sacks Gannon leaped into the air for Kopf's liner and doubled Murphy at first. Statz turned in a sensational catch off Grundman's slasher, labeled a three-bagger, after a long run.

KUMAGAE DEFEATS VOSHELL IN FINAL

Captures Invitation Singles in Amackassin Club Tennis Tourney in Spirited Match.

Ichiya Kumagae played perhaps the best tennis of his career yesterday afternoon at the Amackassin Club, Yonkers, when he won the invitation singles, and a leg on the big challenge cup, by defeating S. Howard Voshell in straight sets, 6—2, 6—2, 6—1. The semi-final matches had been played in the morning, Kumagae winning from Craig Biddle at 6—3, 6—2, while Voshell had considerably more difficulty in eliminating Francis T. Hunter by the score of 6—4, 10—8. The Cornellian was seven times within a point of the second set and worked his opponent to the limit before giving up the decisive rally.

Somewhat wearied from the effects of this struggle, and further slowed up by a strained tendon received in last Wednesday's exhibition doubles, Voshell never did himself justice in the final. He was unfortunate also in catching the Japanese left-hander in one of his steadiest moods, and nothing that his weakened condition could produce was sufficient to upset the poise of the smiling little Oriental. Kumagae simply stayed in the back of the court and drove the ball down the side lines, catching the Brooklynite out of position again and again and making it impossible for him to use his ordinarily strong volleying game. At long range Voshell was completely outclassed, and as Kumagae never experienced any difficulty in handling his twisting service the final result became almost immediately a foregone conclusion.

The winner got into his stride at once, breaking through Voshell's service and then taking his own with the loss of only one point. Voshell captured a service game, but Kumagae then ran three in a row, his own delivery seeming the more effective of the two. Trailing at 1—5, the American made a desperate stand, winning on service and running his Japanese rival into a long deuce game. But Kumagae put on a little extra speed in the pinch and closed out the set, 6—2.

The second session almost duplicated the first, with Kumagae flashing an unbeatable streak for four straight games, after the first two had been divided. Voshell again won on service after facing a 5—1 lead, but this time Kumagae rushed through to a 6—2 finish without the loss of a point.

The final set was a slaughter. A deuce game at the start seemed to deprive Voshell of the last of his speed, and after winning it Kumagae took two love games in succession, and added another with the loss of only one point. The procession reached 5—0 before Voshell came to life with a vicious service win, but Kumagae calmly drove him into errors again, and put an impressive end to the match with another love game, the set going at 6—1.

Kumagae's morning defeat of Biddle was less one-sided, although the Philadelphian was never really dangerous, his well-balanced game failing to stem the tide of terrific driving that came relentlessly from the Japanese side of the net.

The summaries:

ANDERSON RETAINS TITLE.

Defeats Donaldson for Junior Tennis Championship.

History repeated itself at the Kings County Tennis Club, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon when Frank T. Anderson defeated Cecil Donaldson in five sets for the metropolitan junior title, the scores being 6—1, 6—4, 5—7, 4—6, 6—2. These same boys met under identical circumstances last season, and on that occasion Anderson also won in five sets. The defender was fortunate yesterday in catching Donaldson in a streak of wildness at the start, the Terrace Club prodigy starting a series of double faults which had reached a total of thirteen before the match ended.

The summary:

BEHR AND BINZEN VICTORS.

Capture Doubles Match in Sleepy Hollow Tourney.

With a number of the leading tennis players of America present to uphold its traditions, the Sleepy Hollow Country Club yesterday began a two-day invitation tournament consisting of men's singles and doubles. Interest centered in the reappearance of Karl Behr on the courts, while Clarence J. Griffin of California, just back from France, also received plenty of attention. These two stars took opposite sides of the net in a morning doubles match, the former being partnered by Elliott H. Binzen and the latter by George M. Church, also returning to tennis after a long absence in the aviation service. Behr and Binzen finally won two out of three sets, 6—3, 4—6, 6—3.

MISS GOSS TENNIS VICTOR.

Defeats Mrs. Lynch in Pelham Club Tourney.

Only one match was played in the women's invitation singles at the Pelham Country Club yesterday, Miss Eleanor Goss reaching the final round by her defeat of Mrs. E. V. Lynch, 6—2, 6—0. But the mixed doubles event quickly caught the trend of the rest of the tournament and produced a full day of sensational surprises. The greatest of these was furnished by the new team of Mrs. L. Gouverneur Morris and Alex Iler, who, having first defeated Mrs. B. F. Briggs and Fred C. Baggs 3—6, 6—1, 6—4, supplied a climax for the entire week by a startling victory over Miss Eleanor Goss and Walter Merrill Hall, 5—7, 7—5, 7—5.

PENN TOPS LIST IN INTERCOLLEGIATES

Qualifies 15 in Preliminaries, While Michigan Is Second with 12—Cornell Has 10.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 30.—The I. C. A. A. A. A. athletes had perfect weather for their annual championship games today, the qualifying races and competitions being run off in ten of the thirteen events and the results being about as expected.

University of Pennsylvania led in making places for tomorrow's finals, getting 15, Michigan ranked next to the Quakers with 12, Cornell followed with 10, and, because of its strength in the distance runs, which will be decided tomorrow, now looks more formidable as the Quakers' competitor than the Wolverines. Harvard qualified 9 times, while Dartmouth, Yale and Princeton trailed with 7 each; Georgetown had 6, Rutgers 4, Brown and Massachusetts Tech, 3 each; Bowdoin, Pittsburgh and Lafayette 2 each, and Maine 1.

In the pole vault, by a mistake, competition was stopped at 12 feet with seven men tied, the athletes being dismissed and going to the dressing rooms. The referee decided that all seven could not compete in the finals tomorrow, so there will be another preliminary competition in the event early in the day.

There were some fine performances today in the trials, notably that of 23 feet 10½ inches in the broad jump by Johnson of Michigan, and 15 3-5 seconds in the high hurdles by Smith of Cornell. Shea of Pittsburgh looked best in the quarter and showed class far ahead of any of his competitors.

TITLE FOR ST. BENEDICT.

Captures Championship at Prep School Meet.

By the overwhelming score of 67 points to 41, the St. Benedict's Prep School of Newark track and field team yesterday captured the national Catholic schools' outdoor track and field championship title, in the annual meet, conducted at City Field, Newark, N. J., under the auspices of the school whose representatives carried off the day's premier laurels. The De La Salle Institute competitors finished in second place with 41 markers, while St. Joseph's Prep School of Philadelphia was third with 14.

The meet attracted hundreds of entries from the leading Catholic high and preparatory schools and produced an excellent day's sport. A large crowd witnessed the competition.

George Heard, De La Salle Institute's all-around athlete, was the shining light of the day. Heard captured two titles, the 220-yard dash and the running high jump, and, in addition, finished third in the struggle for the 100-yard title. Heard took the furlong wreath by a close margin in 24 seconds, and gained the high-jump title with a leap of 5 feet. In the 100-yard dash Heard fought strongly for the leadership, but was outclassed.

In addition to the national titular events, a program of five competitions was run off to decide the New York and New Jersey parochial school championship. This title went to the representatives of Holy Trinity School, with 26 points, while Cathedral School was second, 3 points behind. Both schools are situated in this city. Holy Trinity's representatives accounted for three victories, while the other two events fell to the lot of Cathedral competitors.

AMAN MARVEL IS BEST DOG.

Mrs. Tappan's Fox Terrier Honored in L. I. K. C. Show.

Fox terriers were the winners as the best of all breeds benched at the eighteenth annual dog show of the Long Island Kennel Club yesterday, held on the Gravesend race course of the former Brooklyn Jockey Club. There were nearly 800 dogs in the competitions and the attendance was the best thus far this season at an outdoor fixture of the sort.

The judges of the unclassified specials, Dr. John E. De Mund, just back from war duties; C. F. Neilsen, George B. Hooley, Alva B. Rosenberg, and A. McClure Hallay, awarded the trophy for the best of all breeds to Mrs. A. D. Tappan's wire-haired fox terrier, Aman Marvel, an English importation that has done plenty of winning, while the similar prize for the best of the opposite sex was captured by Thomas Rice Varick's smooth fox terrier, Ch. Sabine Fernlike, bred in Texas.

Airedales were prominent, and while James W. Ball, Jr., had his great home-bred Geelong Cadet, which cost him $5,000 a year ago, beaten in winners, dogs, by J. Robinson Beard's Ridgewood Rocket, he secured, among other successes, the ribbon in winners, bitches, with Boxwood Denlock Duchess.

The trophy for the best sporting dog was awarded to the Irish setter Lismore Diedre, owned by the Lismore Kennels of Brooklyn, while the special prizes for the best toy, the best toy bred by a woman, and the best toy shown by a child were all won by Mrs. William C. Thompson, who sent in her imported Gatenby's Armley Mish and her American-bred Yorkshire Gatenby's Peggy Woffington. The latter was the winner as a homebred, too, and Mish, handled by Bessie Ludlow, secured the children's prize. After taking winners in the regular classes with Peggy Woffington, Mrs. Thompson sold the eight-ounce puppy to a Philadelphia exhibitor for $250.

TOMLIN LEADER AT TRAPS.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., May 30.—Fred S. Tomlin of Glassboro, N. J., won the major awards today in the second day of the third annual championship trap shooting tournament at the traps of the Laurel House Gun Club. Tomlin shot 150 targets without a miss. This gives him a run of 193 targets thus far, the best amateur performance at the traps this year. In all Tomlin has missed but five targets out of 400. Differences between the New York Athletic Club and the Boston Athletic Association were smoothed out today, and their teams began today the third and last match of the season. The Knickerbocker nimrods bested the Beaneaters by six targets, or 476 to 470.

In the season series Boston, up to this morning, was leading by 15 targets. Today's contest, however, brings the New York boys within nine of tying their opponents. The match will be concluded tomorrow.

Coal Trade Situation.

The spurt in wholesale demand for domestic anthracite, which usually marks the closing days of a discount month, was not in evidence this week, Saward's Weekly will say today. Dealers realized that, with buying on such an active basis throughout May, there was no chance of getting prompt shipment of last-minute orders for the sizes most wanted—stove, egg, and chestnut, in the order named. One of the large producing interests stated it was sold seven weeks ahead on stove, and about four weeks ahead on chestnut. In steam sizes the trend seems to be toward greater dullness and price irregularity in No. 1 buckwheat and a slight picking up in the demand for barley. In bituminous coal no new tendencies are noted, but some of those previously in evidence are becoming more clearly defined. One of these is the growing disinclination of many operators to take on more contracts. High grade coal is becoming harder to buy on contracts, and the price is steadily advancing.

CARLTON ACCUSES POSTAL MANAGER

Tells Senators That Reynolds Tried to Make Federal Operation of Wires a Failure.

REYNOLDS HOTLY RETORTS

Charges His Company "Was Being Robbed of Money and Deliberately Jobbed."

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Charges by Newcomb Carlton, President of the Western Union Telegraph Company, that Edward Reynolds, formerly General Manager of the Postal Telegraph-Cable Company, had attempted to make Government operation of the telegraph system a failure, and an alternate defense of and attack upon Postmaster General Burleson were features of today's hearings before the Senate Commerce Committee on legislation for return of the telephone and telegraph properties.

Mr. Carlton told the committee that Mr. Reynolds, at the request of Mr. Burleson, worked out a plan for coordination of the wires, but at the same time sent letters to officials of the Postal Company "asking them to make Government operation a failure." Mr. Reynolds subsequently was relieved of his duties as General Manager by the Postmaster General.

"Did you personally see one of those letters?" asked Senator Watson, Indiana.

"Yes," was the reply.

"Were you ever present at any of the conversations between Reynolds and Mr. Burleson?" asked the Indiana Senator.

"No," answered Mr. Carlton.

"What you say, then, is hearsay and comes from what Mr. Burleson or somebody else told you?" said Senator Watson.

Denying that he desired to see the Postal Company put out of business, Mr. Carlton said the Postal, by its competition, saved the Western Union many millions of dollars annually in supervision.

According to the witness, the Western Union handled about 95 per cent. of the Government's business during the war. He explained, in reply to questions of Chairman Cummins, that the Postal Company had issued orders discouraging the taking of Government business.

Operation of the wire systems under direction of Mr. Burleson was defended by Mr. Carlton, who declared the Postmaster General had no more to do with the deterioriation of the telephone and telegraph service than did members of the Senate Committee. A superman, he said, could not have prevented deterioration; it was a result of "natural condition."

A directly opposite view was expressed by Mr. Reynolds, who took the stand at his own request. Mr. Reynolds declared some of the declarations of Mr. Carlton concerning relations between the Postal Company and Mr. Burleson were "wholly untrue," and charged that under Government operation the Postal Company "was being robbed of money, and deliberately jobbed."

The Postmaster General, he said, had so interfered with the internal management of the Postal that the company's staff was scattered, local Postal signs abolished, and men who were not qualified were appointed to important posts.

Quoting from a letter from the Postal manager in San Francisco, in which the manager "thanked God for a Republican Congress," Mr. Reynolds said:

"Conditions were such that we felt we couldn't get a square deal unless we had a Republican Congress."

Questioned regarding the taking over of the marine cables by the Government, the witness said Mr. Carlton had recommended such action because he "saw the difficult period ahead and knew he had four cables on the Atlantic disabled which he wanted to unload on the Government."

Mr. Reynolds will conclude his statement on Monday. Just before the committee adjourned today he informed the Senators that he might have something more to say about Mr. Burleson when he appeared before the House Commerce Committee, where, he said, the dignity that existed on the Senate side did not prevail.

In beginning his testimony today Mr. Carlton urged amendment of the Sherman antitrust law so as to permit the wire companies to operate a joint service immediately after their return to private ownership.

Chairman Cummins expressed "great sympathy" with the suggestion, but said he did not see how the Sherman law would stand in the way.

Mr. Carlton also made a plea for retention of the 20 per cent. increase in rates granted under Federal control, saying if any reduction were made it might have to be taken from the employes.

HIGH COST OF WIRE SYSTEMS.

Kingsbury, Before House Committee, Gives Details of Increase.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Nathan C. Kingsbury of New York, Vice President of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, while testifying today before the House Committee on Interstate Commerce which is shaping legislation for the return of the telegraph and telephone systems said that serious financial embarrassment would be faced by the telephone systems of the nation if Congress failed to protect their revenues.

"Take wages first," he said. "We find that during the last two years our wages have increased by large amounts. In 1915 we increased wages $7,000,000, in 1916 $8,000,000, in 1917, $18,000,000, in 1918 $20,800,000, and in the first three months of 1919 $12,000,000, making a total increase for the period of $65,000,000. Our present payroll is about $175,000,000.

"Second, there have been marked increases in the cost of materials incident to the building and maintenance of the plants. In raw materials the average increase in 1918 over 1914 had risen to about 90 per cent. For the first three months of 1919 it fell to an increase of about 50 over the average for 1914. Most of these increases were due to the high cost of copper. Manufactured materials have increased in cost, though not so largely.

"Third, the cost of capital has increased. Every new telephone costs the company about $150. In three months this year we have added 168,000 new telephones. The new capital we have had to put in in the last year or so, amounting to about $50,000,000, cost us about 7 per cent., which is at least 2 per cent. higher than the pre-war cost of capital. We will have to have about $25,000,000 more capital this year. It now costs us about $60,000,000 to do what would have cost $40,000,000 before the war."

Lawyer's Wife Takes Her Own Life.

Mrs. Anna McGovern, 43 years old, wife of John T. McGovern, a lawyer, committed suicide yesterday in her apartment in the Standish Arms, 169 Columbia Heights, Brooklyn. Mr. McGovern suffered from nervousness for several months and his wife was unceasing in her attentions to him. He recovered several weeks ago and then Mrs. McGovern became ill. While Mr. McGovern was out for a walk yesterday, Mrs. McGovern's body was discovered in the bathroom by a maid. Beside her was a razor owned by her husband. There were three wounds in Mrs. McGovern's neck. Dr. Gray of Long Island College Hospital pronounced her dead. Mrs. McGovern was in a melancholy condition due to her illness. The couple have no children.

OUT OF THE CEREAL MARKET

Grain Corporation Likely to Make No More Purchases of Old Crop.

Announcement was made yesterday that the Food Administration Grain Corporation, 42 Broadway, would make no further purchases of wheat flour, victory flour, or cereal products for the present, but probably would re-enter the market for flour early in the new crop year. It was explained that all shipments on the American Relief Administration program had been completed and that sufficient flour had been contracted for and in transit to meet requirements.

"The early publication of export statistics," said the statement, "will show the total exports of wheat flour much in excess of the figures named as probable Grain Corporation purchases for this crop year. The Grain Corporation takes this opportunity of expressing its appreciation of the co-operation and support received from the flour mills and cereal manufacturers who have made these shipments possible."

Woman Convicted of Manslaughter.

After deliberating all night, a jury in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, yesterday found Mrs. Rebecca Wansker, 45 years old, guilty of manslaughter in the first degree for killing Samuel Silverberg on April 7 last. Mrs. Wansker is the owner of a house at 2,809 West Seventeenth Street, Brooklyn, of which Silverberg was a tenant, and where she also lived. The two quarreled over a lease held by Silverberg, and the tenant was shot and killed by the landlady. Justice Cropsey remanded her for sentence next Wednesday.

In Tennessee, the lower Ohio Valley and the upper lake region, local thundershowers are probable Saturday and Sunday, with lower temperature Sunday. In the South Atlantic and East Gulf States there will be local thundershowers, without material change in temperature, Saturday and Sunday.

PROF. YOUNG SEES COMPROMISE PEACE

Terms to Germany More Severe Than Under Strict View of Fourteen Points, He Says.

HOLDS LEAGUE NECESSARY

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 30.—"There is no question that the peace treaty as finally drafted accords more severe treatment to the Germans than they would have received under a rigid interpretation of the fourteen points," said Professor Allyn A. Young, of the department of political science and economics at Cornell, who has arrived in Ithaca after six months' service in Paris as a member of the group of specialists organized by Colonel House. Professor Young was chief of the division of economics and statistics.

"The treaty," Professor Young said, "is in many respects a compromise between the French demand that France receive a position of absolute guaranteed safety for a long term of years and the fourteen points. The concessions made by France are, however, much larger than those made by the United States delegation."

With reference to the assertion that the treaty represented a victory for Lloyd George Dr. Young said:

"The principal concession to the British is the inclusion of war pensions in the list of claims upon which the indemnity to be paid by Germany is to be based.

"It is not expected that Germany will be able to pay enough to cover all the just claims against her for damages to persons and to property, plus the cost of military pensions, but the inclusion of military pensions in the list of claims for which Germany is to assume liability gives England a larger proportion of the total German payments than she would otherwise have had."

It would be a great misfortune, said Professor Young, if the treaty were not ratified by the Senate, because while it is a compromise it is the best treaty, in his opinion, that can be obtained at the present time.

"The French press," he said, "which, except for radical or Socialist papers, closely reflects the official or Governmental view, is not entirely satisfied with the treaty and urges that even if the proposed Franco-British-American alliance is consummated the position of France is not adequately safeguarded. But there is no reason to believe that this represents the view of the majority of the French people. I am profoundly convinced that the French people would respond wholeheartedly to a very different sort of leadership from what they have at present.

"I made some studies of the amount of damage done in Northern France," he went on, "and was convinced that, although it is impossible to exaggerate the destruction and desolation of the invaded regions in some respects, yet in one particular, the amount of damage to forests and to the soil the French losses have been greatly overestimated. The damage to agricultural interests is a matter of small importance as compared to the losses caused by the willful destruction of villages, cities, and industrial establishments. The areas which cannot be brought into cultivation within a year or so are exceedingly small."

Professor Young said that the concessions to Japan in the Shantung Peninsula were indefensible, being nothing more than a price paid for Japan's adherence to the League of Nations.

Referring to the covenant, he said:

"It is not true that President Wilson went to Paris without a plan for a league. It is probable that his plan was not worked out in detail, but the broad outlines were in his mind. President Wilson's original plan was in some respects very close to the plan developed by General Smuts. The present covenant is a combination of the American and British views, modified at some points to meet the objections raised by France and smaller states.

"Most critics of the League make the mistake of expecting that its machinery would be automatic, that it would provide a perfect mechanism for preventing war and adjusting international disputes. These critics miss the fundamental purpose underlying the League proposal to assure an open and frank discussion of international difficulties by responsible representatives of the different nations.

"The purpose of the League is to make international misunderstandings more difficult and less frequent. What particular sort of League we get is not nearly so important as that we should get some kind of a League."

KRAMER WINS CYCLE RACE.

Willie Spencer Crashes Into Him and Is Suspended.

NEWARK, N. J., May 30.—Frank L. Kramer defeated Willie Spencer in two straight heats of a mile race at the Velodrome here today, but was awarded the second heat when Spencer was disqualified for knocking him down.

Spencer seeing Kramer coming like mad down the home stretch and about to beat him, swung right up into the American champion and both fell heavily to the track. Kramer was badly bruised about the legs and body, while Spencer had a big splinter in his back. Spencer was suspended for two weeks and fined $100. In the first heat, which Kramer won easily, Spencer was also fined $25 for foul riding.

Kramer, Madden, and Verri qualified in the semi-finals of the Grand Prize of Newark, the $1,000 purse race. Goullet beat Madden in two out of three heats of a mile match, but Madden retorted by taking the three-mile open, the last race on the card, in which he won from a field of twenty-five.
